Jeopardy to American Lives.

(By George Wallace, in the "Tribune," New York.)

(To the Editor of the "Tribune").
Sir,—The newspaper story of the sinking of the steamer Stephano by the submarine U-53 leaves a bad taste in the mouth of any American citizen.

It seems that a war submarine captain had ordered the Stephano to stop.
The captain of the Stephano had many passengers aboard and stopped his vessel as a matter of course. He was ordered to place his passengers in small boats, so that they might not be drowned when the vessel was sunk.
This was hastily done. A majority of the passengers were American citizens. After they were all gone sailors from the submarine went aboard and opened the sea valves of the Stephano which sank in a few minutes.

One boatload of passengers contained a man and his wife from Brooklyn and a lady from Long Island. They told us their boat got about half a mile away from the steamer before they were picked up by one of the United States vessels. The others were picked up before they had got so far away.

Thus for the first time in our history vessels of the United States navy stood by and saw citizens of the United States, men, women and children, turned out of their vessel on which they sailed and put into small boats on the wide Atlantic. They were turned out without opportunity to secure their clothing and other property which they had taken aboard.
Fortunately, none of them were lost, but their lives were put in jeopardy—under the watchful care of our navy.
Putting passengers on or off a steamer at sea is always considered a dangerous performance, resorted to only in case of shipwreck.

What kind of officers were in charge of these war vessels? If they were performing their duties, according to present day instructions, then indeed has our navy fallen to a low level under President Wilson and Daniels, his Secretary of the Navy. Imagine Admiral Farragut or Commodore Perry or Admiral Decatur, or any of our old time naval heroes standing by and witnessing the act of despoiling a lot of American citizens—standing by waiting to pick them up as soon as an unfriendly captain had consigned them to the Atlantic in small boats. Even if these passengers were not American citizens, any of our old time sea worthies would have rushed to the rescue in the name of common humanity.
Any real man seeing his neighbors in a deadly fight would rush in to save their wives and children if they were being injured in the fight. One of our navy captains should do no less.

Those of us who were living forty and odd years ago cannot have forgotten the case of the Virginian, which sailed for Cuba with some 230 soldiers of fortune. They were taken to that island to help the Cuban insurgents in one of their frequent uprisings against Spain. The vessel, with all on board, was captured. A rough and ready Spanish court-martial was held, and about 230 were sentenced to be shot. Small squads of half a dozen at a time were to be taken out and after the Spanish fashion, stood up against a wall, there to be blindfolded and shot down by soldiers.

A British warship lay in the harbor of Havana under command of Captain Williams. The shooting had already commenced when word was brought to the British captain. He immediately notified the Governor of Havana that he had been informed there was a British subject among those to be shot and he wanted to investigate. (Of course, this story of a British subject was a mere excuse.) He notified the Governor that the shooting must stop at once; that if any more were shot he would immediately bombard the city.
The butchery stopped.

Thus the British captain saved the lives of nearly 200 Americans, several squads of the prisoners having been put to death before word reached the British vessel. Had Captain Williams been in charge of one of our naval vessels near the Stephano, or of a British vessel, none of the passengers aboard that steamer would have been compelled to take to the small boats, whether they were British subjects or American citizens.

When we think of the act of Captain Williams and the act of our own commanding officers in the case alluded to we begin to understand why the British flag and the British navy are respected all over the world and loved by subjects of Great Britain. We come to understand why men from every part of the world are rushing by hundreds of thousands to defend the British Empire in the European war.

Nor is it surprising that during the last few years the United States has lost the respect of all the other nations. The standard of United States power is now in the palmy days of one who does not understand the dignity or the duties of his position. It is not surprising that the people are anxiously waiting for a chance to let the world know they do not endorse

Fight On!

It's fun to fight when you know you are right and your heart is in it.
Though the fray be long the foe be strong, and the comrades you have few.
Though the battle beat bring but defeat, and weariness makes you sore.
There's a joy in life that can know such strife and the glory and thrill you feel!

When the wise ones pant that you simply can't, it's fun for a fighting man
To laugh and try with a daring eye, and prove to the world that he can.
And if you stick till your heart is sick, and lose when the game is done.
It's fun to know that the wary foe paid dearly for what they won.

It's fun to dare in the face of despair When the last lone chance seems gone.
And to see hope rise in the angry skies like a promise of rosy dawn.

For victory's sweet when it crowns defeat, and you learn this much is true.
It's fun to fight when you know you're right, and your heart is in it, too!

Dried Fish.

While there is still a tendency on the part of salt fish factors in some quarters to advance prices of dried fish, the tone of the market is not as strong as it has been during the past month. The advance of the past few weeks has not progressed to any appreciable extent during the past ten days, but on the contrary an easier tone prevails in New York as the natural result of a curtailment in the demand in West Indian and South American markets. The fall catch of Lunenburg bank is reported to have been large, and there is still some spring bank stock to be marketed.
Haddock have fallen off to some extent in price, and present indications seem to favor the buyer. Scale fish is reported in cables to be selling at from $2 to $5 per cask less than producers are asking. In the face of these conditions, Cuban and Italian drums are reported to be higher in price, being quoted respectively at $11 and $12 and $10 and $11, while haddock and Porto Rico fish, both of American and Newfoundland origin, are quoted higher than a week ago. The longshoremen's strike having been settled in Porto Rico, it is expected that the demand will be resumed there and that the distribution of fish commodities will be facilitated. Supplies have not been as large as exporters hoped for, the destruction of the steamer Stephano and the loss of its cargo of dried fish being keenly felt here at this time.
A package codfish continues to sell in a fair market at the quoted prices, and codfish balls are reported to be in good demand.—Fishing Gazette, Oct.
21.

Household Notes.

Old fruit should be thoroughly aired in the sun every day.

A little vinegar added to plums while stewing, adds to the flavor.

Cranberries should be picked over often if you wish them to keep long.

To keep a kitchen table white, wash it first with vinegar, then scrub it as usual.

Before you administer medicine to a child, first give him a peppermint candy to suck.

Horseradish is better scraped than grated, and should be prepared just before it is needed.

Heavy grease stains, like wise grease or tar, can be removed by rubbing lard into the stains.

Olives and shrimp chopped together make an excellent salad, with the addition of mayonnaise.

A girl with clever fingers can make good little shirtwaist bows out of her brother's cast-off ties.

A stub pen can be used in an emergency for tightening the tiny screws in a pair of eyeglasses.

Never wash the face directly after exposure to the burning sun. Use cold cream instead and wash later.

Last Night's Lecture.

A very interesting lecture was given in the School Building of the Cochrane Street Centennial Church last evening, by the Rev. Dr. Whyte, of British Columbia. The lecturer was introduced by the Pastor, the Rev. Dr.
Bond. A "Summer trip to the Yukon" was beautifully illustrated. As one was carried through the grand and majestic gorges, rivers and canyons and over the immense beds of rivers and mountains containing the much sought for gold, could not help but feeling impressed with the vastness of the Yukon country. A vote of thanks was proposed by the Rev. Dr. Fenwick and seconded by Mr. H. N. Burt, and put to the meeting by the Pastor. After singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Rev. T. W. Atkinson pronounced the Benediction.

An Optimistic View.

London Daily News: With the British Empire, France and the United States bound indissolubly together in this League of Peace, the world would be able to look to the morrow of the war with the hope of emancipation of a liberated Russia under the leadership of the founder of The Hague Convention might be expected to take an eager share. And in time all would be compelled in sheer self-interest to come under the shield of this world-embracing idea. Then at last the activities of men would be turned from war-making to the nobler task of building up a world citizenship in which the nightmares of the past would have no place.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 31.

On the northern and northwestern fronts, from Tulgheaz to Biczaz, the situation remains unchanged. At Bratocsea a small detachment surprised and repulsed the enemy on Mount Rosca, causing him heavy loss. In a single trench we found two officers and 40 men dead. We have occupied Mount Rosca, taking some prisoners capturing a machine-gun and searchlight. At Predaleus the bombardment has slackened. In Prahova valley and in the region of Drobeta north of Campolung, we repulsed several enemy attacks. To the east of the river Alt an action is proceeding in Jial valley the pursuit has not yet my continues. At Orova on the Danube, the bombardment is less violent. On the southern front the situation unchanged.

RESULT OF GERMAN RAID ON CHANNEL.

LONDON, Oct. 31.

The loss of six drift net boats, in addition to the sinking of the transport Queen, in the torpedo boat destroyer fleet raid, held by German submarines in the English Channel, was admitted by Arthur Balfour in the Commons to-day. In answering a number of questions concerning the raid on the Channel transport service, the First Lord said that while the raiders had all the advantages that raiders possess in choosing the time and place for attack, in this case it was certainly failed. The only cross-Channel steamer to be attacked, Balfour said
