THE RUSSIAN FAMINE

Furnishes President Harrison With Matter for a Message.

Proposal to Freight a United States Vessel with Food for the Starving.

Eussian Methodists Coming to Americ -Heartless Conduct of Wealthy Landowners.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—President Harrison recommends that the secretary of the U. S. navy be authorized to charter a suitable yessel to receive contributions for the starving Russians if a sufficient amount should be offered, and to send them under charge of a naval officer.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Numerous Russian Methodists have crossed the Prussian frontier at Eydtkuhnen. They intend to immigrate to America. They state they were in great distress in Russia. They though a property of the starving of the famine.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Public interest in Wassaw is centered in the faming. Every hotel and inn in Warsaw displays large cards in the dining rooms and elsewhere operating the inscription "Spare a morsel for the starving."

A correspondent, making a tour of the famine districts of Toula, writes: "The wealthier landowners keep away from their estates, leaving the entire burden of helping the shiftless peasantry upon the poorer gentry, who are little better of than the starving. Careful lists that have been prepared of the stores of each family show many instances where a peasant and six shildren has only 180 pounds of grain to last through the winter. A state of national bankruptey is feared. The chief reliance is placed in the Red Cross Society. At the first meeting of a local branch of the society is was disclosed that only £110 had been subscribed for a district having 83,000 population verging on starvation. Many million roubles have gone into the coffers of the central committees of the society in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and nobody knows on the central committees of the society in St. the central committees of the society in St. Petersburg and Moscow, and nobody knows Petersburg and Moscow, and nobedy knows now the money has been expended."

Sr. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 6.—In reply to a dispatch of inquiry as to the real condition of affairs in Russia, Charles Emory Smith, the American Minister, says: "Distress in Russia from short crops is widespread and severe. Difficult to overdraw extent of suffering. Many provinces are destitute and must be helped until next harvest. Am able to say that proposed contributions of Minnesota and Northwest indicated in your dispatch will be accepted with most grateful appreciation."

that port picked up the schooner La Croix, her into the harbor. She had disappeared while at anchor on the banks during one of the heavy September gales. When she was dried on the dock the bodies of ten men were discovered in her. She had a crew of sixteen or seventeen. It is a curious zircumstance that she should have drifted from the Grand Banks to St. Pierre.

BERING SEA.

A Basis of Arbitration on the Seal Question Agreed Upon.

London, Jan. 6.—Sir George Baden-Powell, of the British Bering Sea Commission, announced at Liverpool yesterday that, at Lord Salisbury's request, he will start for Washington on Saturday next, and that the two Governments have agreed to a basis of arbitration. to a basis of arbitration on the seal New York, Jan. 6.—A Washington dis-

New York, Jan. 6.—A Washington dispatch to the Tribune says: In regard to Attorney-General Miller's announcement before the Supreme Court of the United States that a basis for arbitrating the Bering Sea difficulty had been reached, all this has been upset by demands on the part of Lord Salisbury for a further modification to the agreement. Precisely what the nature of these demands is, it is impossible to ascertain, but that they are touching minor points not heretofore touched by him seems pretty certain. To that extent they appear frivolous and insincer rather than based upon sound premises. Indeed they suggest in an unpleasant manner the policy of delay which has characterized Lord Salisbury's conduct throughout these negotiations.

But for the 'ateness in the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon its much the season at t

But for the lateness in the season at which the modus vivendi was agreed upon it would have been impossible for the Canadian peachers to make the headway they did last year. In this respect Lord Salisbury was playing directly into their hands at the expense of the United States. His present attitude seems to have this object in view. The sealing season opens in May next. By that time the outlay of the poachers will have been completed and they will be ready to sail. If Lord Salisbury with his frivolous manner is able to delay until then the formal signing of a treaty and of its ratification by the ing of a treaty and of its ratification by th Senate he will have gone far toward inflict-ing a telling blow upon what was once a prosperous American industry and a source of no inconsiderable revenue to the Govern-

There is much complaint because of the limited power conferred by Lord Salisbury upon Sir Julian Pauncefoote in the negotiations. Lord Salisbury insists upon having every detail submitted to him. This is a course of delay. There is good reason, however, for believing that the patience of the Government is exhausted, and nothing the Government is exhausted, and nothing will be wanting when necessary to compel a more prompt consideration of the questions at issue on the part of Lord Salis-

After the meeting of the directors of the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association the regular business of the convention was entered upon. The secretary's report dealt merely with a few financial matters.

merely with a few financial matters.

R. McKnight, of Owen Sound, treasurer of the association, read his annual report. It showed the assets at the beginning of the year to have been $51.88; receipts during the year, $220; Government grant, $500; expenditure, $742.02; balance on hand, $90.86.

expenditure, $742 02; balance on hand, $29 86.

President Allen Pringle, of Selby, read his annual address. The changes in becculture during the past 50 years had been greater than during the previous 5,000 years, especially in the methods and appliances of bee-keepers. The honey season had been fairly prosperous throughout the Province. The principal work of the association had been the warfare against the foul-brood pest, the prevalence of which had been wider than they had supposed. Some bee-keepers had not properly co-operated with the inspectors in curing the disease instead of destroying the colonies. The Government grant had been insufficient to keep both inspectors at work during the whole season, but although they had exceeded the grant the Minister of Agriculture paid their accounts in full. The president urged the inadvisibility of exceeding the Government grant during this season. The urged the inadvisibility or exceeding. The Government grant during this season. The inspectors had performed their duties falthfully and well, and had succeeded in curing the disease to a certain extent. Their the disease to a certain extent. Their English apiarian brethren looked with the English apiarian brethren looked with the utmost incredulity, if not contempt, on the methods of cure practiced so successfully by the inspectors, and refused to a great extent to test them. The association in turn deemed the plan of cure practiced by the English as queer, if not ridiculous. The latter treated the disease to fit the theories which they held, while the Ontario foul-brood doctors paid but little attention to theory, but adopted the treatment that resulted in a cure. After communicating with the Minister and Deputy Minister of Agriculture, the president was assured that an

the Minister and Deputy Minister of Agri-culture, the president was assured that an order-in-Council would be passed, if the association so desired, quarantining or checking altogether the importation of bees into Canada. He (the speaker) had attend-ed the annual meeting of the Central Farm-ers' Institute held in Toronto last February, and read a paper on "Bee Culture in On-tario," which paper he submitted to the convention.

and read a paper on "Dee Culture in Ontario," which paper he submitted to the convention.

A lengthy discussion followed the president's address, and at the close he was tendered a unanimous vote of thanks.

The matter of killing bees by spraying fruit trees was brought up. A number of gentlemen present were of the opinion that spraying did the trees no good and did the bees harm. It was decided to request the Government to pass a law regulating the spraying of trees. The president, vice-president and E. D. Smith, of Winona, were appointed a committee to wait on the Government in regard to the matter.

S. Cornell, of Lindsay, Ont., delegate to the annual meeting of the North American Bee-Keepers' Association, held at Albany, N. Y., on Dec. 8 to 11 last, read his report. It contained an account of the proceedings of the meeting. The attendance had been very large. The report was received and filed.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

or the meeting. The attendance had been filed.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

A paper was read by R. H. Smith, of Bracebridge, on "Apiarian Exhibits."
During the past ten years, he said, beekeeping had increased very much in parts of Canada. Honey should be used more extensively than it is, and it was necessary for the beekeepers to educate the public to its nature and uses. They should commence at home and have in some attractive spot an exhibit of honey in all its forms, beeswax, etc. Exhibits should also be made at all the local fairs. The paper was very interesting and instructive.

The affiliated societies report was submitted to the convention. It showed that of all the counties in Ontario Middlesex had the largest number of beekeepers. In this county there were last spring 1,077 colonies of bees, and 1,461 in the fall. During the season 8,240 pounds of comb honey and 51,172 pounds of extracted honey had been obtained. There were eight affiliated societies, six of which reported to the association a total membership of 138. In all the production of comb honey was 16,147 pounds, and of extracted honey 85,567 pounds. The reports varied but little from those of last year.

Inspector McKvoy submitted his report of work done during the season. Ho was out from May 18 until Oct. 3, with the exception of a few days, and had inspected 197 apiaries. The scene is laid on the Cernish coast, and tells a pure though dramatic story. The author is Benjamin Landeck, an Englishman, and intimate friend of Henry M. Stanley, the explorer. The twelve scenes, all carried by the company, comprise the exterior and interior of Falmouth lighthouse, the rescue of a French fishing sloop by a boan-fide lifeboat purchased from the United States Government, the deck of the British gunboat Scagull, and the great desert scene. Strange But True. Strange But True.

This is one of the curious things floating about. Takea piece of paper and upon it put in figures your age in years, dropping months, weeks and days, multiply it by 2; then add to the result obtained the figures 3,833 and then divide by 2; substract from the result obtained the number of your years on earth, and see if you do not obtain figures that you will not be likely to forget.
