

MAKES A PLEA FOR INDIGENT

T. G. Turnbull Wants Government Aid For Discharged Hospital Patients.

The question of providing for indigent patients after they are discharged from Victoria Hospital will be brought to the attention of the county council at its session next week by T. G. Turnbull, of Komoka, the county representative on the hospital trust, and he will urge that the Government be asked to increase its grant.

"When a prisoner leaves the prison farm at Guelph," said Mr. Turnbull to The Advertiser, "he is given $5 and a suit of clothes. In many instances these men who receive this aid are, comparatively speaking, undesirable. At Victoria Hospital there are scores of cases where a little money given to those who have been in for a long time, are destitute and unable to work and have no money to reach friends, would be real charity. I have known in many cases where the members of the trust have helped unfortunate cases of this kind. There are so many that all cannot be assisted, but if the Government can provide for the prison farm it certainly ought to be able to provide in such worthy cases as these. If the present grant were increased, the trust could make most excellent use of the additional money in aiding these unfortunate. We could at least give them a start or assist them to reach relatives."

"I intend to bring this matter up before the county council and ask that the Government be requested to increase its grant. It costs far more to conduct a hospital now than it did a few years ago, but the Government grant has not been increased. If it is we can do splendid work with the additional funds."

CONTROL BOARD GRILLS KING AT LIVELY MEETING

"The People Are Laughing at Us," Says Mayor of Street Railway Situation.

BIG STICK BROUGHT OUT Service and Cars Called "Lemons" and Will Be Checked Up.

OLIVE BRANCH IGNORED Local Street Car Service Was "Knocked" for One Hour and a Half.

Mayor Graham and the board of control bitterly arraigned Manager C. B. King and the London Street Railway for an hour and a half last night, declaring the "service and the rolling stock" were "lemons," and that the whole equipment would have disgraced any city 25 years ago. The session ended by the board voting to check up the service throughout the city, and hold the London West complaint in abeyance in the meantime.

Manager King came to the meeting, as he has come many times before, with the olive branch of peace, but there was no peace, and when he left the meeting, Mayor Graham's big stick had dented his disposition on several places.

The battle opened. Some citizens, who are willing to come forward as reputable witnesses, checking up your service on Dundas street, and I don't see how you are going to improve matters when the crews reach the end of the line, sit down and smoke, and tell the passengers that the reason they can't give better service is because Mayor Graham won't let the company do it.

Manager King: If you have any information like that you ought to help us correct these wrongs. It is a public duty. We can't be everywhere at the same time on the system.

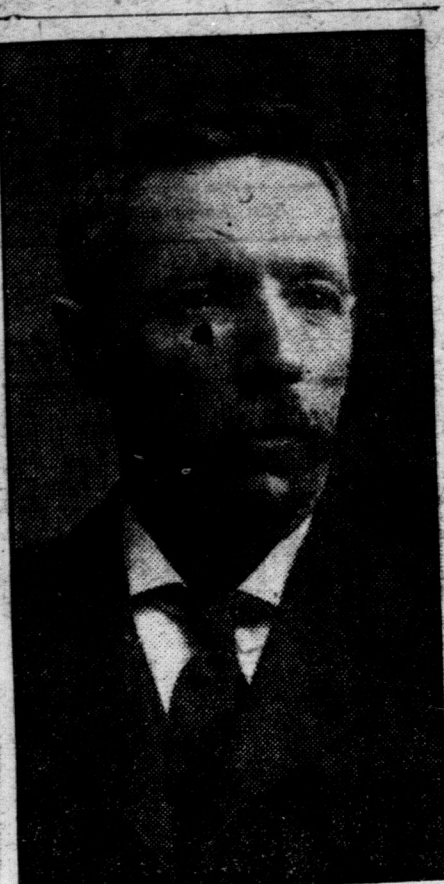

Mayor Graham: Why don't you run your company in a business-like manner? Let the crews run it. I think the way it is being run now is simply for the purpose of aggravating the people.

Manager King: The business we get on the Dundas street line won't justify a ten-minute schedule. Why don't you give us a chance to try out this twelve-minute schedule to see if it won't satisfy all the people?

Mayor Graham: You have had that chance long enough now, and never made good on it. The most disgraceful thing we have in London is to show visitors in the cars you have on your line. What did you do Monday but withdraw cars from Dundas street. Why did you?

To Help Out Springfield.

Manager King: We took some cars to help the crush at Springfield, believing

T. G. TURNBULL.

it was important to get the people home from there.

Controller Ashplant: You didn't have any cars at the ball ground either. Why was that?

Manager King: We couldn't handle them.

Mayor Graham: My contention has been all along that your company is going how much it can get out of London and how little it can give in return. You have no right to run the cars you do. Why don't you paint some of them occasionally? You should never have been allowed to put trolleys on those old trailers.

Manager King: We are overhauling our cars every day. They cost about $5,000 each. The high voltage of Hydro power crippled two of our cars on Monday and it made quite an hour. We are doing the best we can. Our business depends on serving the public.

Mayor Graham: I am surprised you got any business.

Manager King: You are prejudiced. Besides, that is not what we are here to discuss.

Board Will Show Its Power.

Mayor Graham: Well, it is what we are here to discuss. We want to find out what power we got as a board, and do something to get better service and run these old cars in the barn where they belong. Everyone is laughing at us, including the present board of directors of the company. Your efforts to give us better service is the worst case of bluff ever showed down the city's throat.

Manager King: There is no doubt, but you are prejudiced. Leave this to any fair outsider; I don't care who it is.

Mayor Graham: It's your service, your rolling stock with their flat wheels, that are prejudiced. We don't need the manager of the street railway to come up here and tell us what we want and how we are going to get it.

Controller Ashplant: I move we have the service all over the city checked up.

An insinuation of Bribery.

Manager King: If you check up the service why not do it with one of our men. Your man and our man can go out together.

Mayor Graham: That would never do. Our man might be prejudiced when he went out with yours, but he might not remain so.

Manager King: What do you mean?

Mayor Graham: I don't think we ought to surrender any employee of ours into the hands of those self-edged diplomats of your company.

After a further parley it was agreed that the board should check up the system any time, and make a report to the council, and the members indicated to the company that they would under the company's operations would be brought out and perhaps effectually amended.

Manager King was willing to submit to anything that meant a square deal for the company.

DOMINION FARM EXHIBIT

Western Fair Will Have Striking Exhibit From Experimental Farm.

Secretary A. M. Hunt, of the Western Fair, has just received definite word from the Dominion Experimental Farm that an exhibit will be placed by it at the exhibition in September. Mr. Hunt has been quietly working on this for some time, and considerable correspondence has been carried on regarding the matter. Blue prints have been sent as to space required and the exhibit will be located in the agricultural hall. The exhibit will be a large one and will occupy one side of the building. It will consist of a display of models, specimens, sheaves of grain, grasses, fruit, vegetables and various other branches of the different industries of the farm. The exhibit will be a distinctive feature of the exhibition this year, and the management will do everything in its power to make it as attractive as possible. The space in this great building is being allotted very rapidly, and the indications at present are that this year's exhibition will be the very best yet.

Nervous Trouble Followed By Locomotor Ataxia

Treatment From Doctors Proved of No Avail - Was Fully Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It has been said that "nervous people are the salt of the earth." You only have to find the nervous, high-tensioned, active-brained men and women in the highest positions in the land.

The enormous expenditure of nervous energy made by such natures too frequently leads to nervous breakdown. Worry, excessive mental work and shock such as referred to in this letter are often the immediate cause of nervous collapse. Recovery is often slow and tedious, and doctors, as well as the sufferers, lose patience.

There can no longer be any doubt that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective of nerve restoratives. There are many thousands of cures on record similar to the one described in this letter:

Mrs. F. F. Tweedie, Brighton, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled with the stomach, and have always been of a nervous temperament. The death of my husband was a great shock to me, and a few months later I was prostrated by nervous trouble. Locomotor ataxia developed later, and I was in a bad condition. "I took treatment from different doctors, but did not gain until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. When I had used five boxes I was fully restored and that I was like a different person. I am sure that the Nerve Food is a good medicine, and it has made many people about the remarkable way in which it has restored my health."

MORE CASES SET DOWN FOR JUNE COURT SITTING

Percy James Is Suing Employer for $500—Real Estate Tangle To Be Aired.

Three more cases have been set down for the June sitting of the County Court.

Percy Edward James is suing Alexander Henderson for $500 and costs, alleging that on July 11, 1913, he suffered severe injuries as a result of a piano falling on his legs and crushing them. James states that he was in Henderson's employ at the time, and alleges that the injuries were caused by negligence on the part of defendant, who did not have enough men on the job.

Henderson claims that he is not responsible for any injuries James may have received.

Real Estate Mix-up.

Two cases held over from the last session will be tried at the June sittings.

The case of E. S. Hunt, who alleges that J. T. Emerson owes him $5,000 for selling Port Arthur real estate, will be tried as will also the case of Robt. W. Nickleson, of Strathroy, who alleges that the Grand Traffic, John Mills and J. C. Scott, are responsible for the filling up of a drain. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of the water not being able to gain an outlet from his premises, his building was flooded and much damage done to machinery, furniture and lumber, and that the building was undermined. He also alleges that he had to stop the manufacturing of furniture for over a month, and claims $5,000 damages.

The tenth jury case of the County Court sittings in June is that of Harry R. Hunt, who through his father, George R. Hunt, is suing Thos. F. McCracken for unstated damages.

The plaintiff who is sixteen years of age, alleges that while operating a circular saw for the defendant on June 2, 1913, his hand was caught in it owing to the saw being insufficiently protected and that he lost the third and fourth fingers of his left hand as a result and received other injuries of a permanent character.

Mr. McCracken alleges that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the lad.

Thrown on Head.

In the non-jury cases, Richard Neathway is suing Chantler Bros. for $500 and costs. Neathway alleges that while driving one of the defendant's coal wagons on May 29, 1913, the reach broke, throwing the plaintiff out on his head. He alleges that he received many painful injuries about the head, and claims, in addition to $500, the benefits of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The International Harvesting Company is suing H. Werdon, of Lambton County, for $110. The company alleges that this amount is due them on the sale of a binder to the defendant.

MAJOR W. A. MCCRIMMON MADE LIEUT.-COLONEL

Gazetted by Militia Orders But Will Not Command Seventh Regiment.

According to militia orders just issued, Major W. A. McCrimmon, of the Seventh Regiment, is given promotion to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. His staff appointment as organizer and inspector of cadet corps, however, will prevent him from succeeding Lieut.-Colonel A. A. Campbell as commanding officer, and he therefore will be transferred to the list of field officers actively employed and Major Campbell's successor to the command in his stead. The latter will be gazetted shortly.

The present commanding officer, Lieut.-Colonel Campbell, completed his term of office on May 1 and is now transferred to the general service list of field officers.

The announcement that Captain C. R. Hunt, of the Sixth London Battery, is permitted to resign his commission.

Joseph Baxter and Franklin Cross were business partners until a dispute arose over a deal made by Baxter, which so infuriated the older man, and made them enemies. Cross had a son George, who was brought up from childhood with Baxter's daughter Helen, and from playmates they became sweethearts.

The dispute between the two fathers did not separate the lovers, and they were wont to meet clandestinely. One night old Baxter caught young Cross in his grounds wooing his daughter, and ordered him out. George stated the circumstances to his father, who correspondingly opened a tirade about the Baxter girl. George resented the language, and in the quarrel seized a war club from the wall to protect himself.

Father overcame the old man, and, dropping with heart failure, he struck his head upon the table. Baxter, who had come over to the house next door, saw when event through the window, and when young Cross was accused of killing his father, refused to exonerate the boy.

George was found guilty and sentenced to be electrocuted in ninety days.

Before the execution day Baxter is attacked with a mortal disease which means death within a week. His conscience begins to prick him over the lax testimony at George's trial. He rushes Helen to the executioner, while he hurries to the governor, and is successful in obtaining an appeal. Two days later George is pardoned, and goes with Helen to her father's home, where they find that Joseph Baxter has passed away.
