

THE TORONTO WORLD. A One-Cent Morning Newspaper. OFFICE: 18 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO. W. F. MACLEAN, Publisher.

safe to assert that the words attributed to St. George Chetwynd when he made the attack—"Take that, you devil. Don't meddle with my Lily"—are a little bit of the coloring. That two married sables should publicly fight over a woman of seemingly doubtful reputation is bad enough, but that one of them should be guilty of using an expression even in his rage as absolutely idiotic is rather a surprise. It is stated that there was a languid public curiosity to know what Mr. Langtry, who has been mentioned by the beauty, thinks of the incident, but we should rather imagine that there would be more curiosity to know what the ladies and relatives of the principals think about it.

Beatrice and Battenberg. From the New York World. All Great Britain and her royal mother, Princess Beatrice, with her royal mother, consort, has picked up a beggarly German prince for a husband. At the mature age of twenty-eight, without a shilling of her own in the world, she has married a man whose army pay has been $400 a year, with the further annual allowance of $250 from his father. This seems small capital to begin married life upon, even if the couple, as is proposed, board with the "old lady."

Another chance for Justice. The city council has still another chance to rid itself of the odium which some of its members have attempted to attach to the College street paving contract. The council meets to-night, and it is to be hoped that the prolonged injustice that has been heaped upon Mr. Gordon will be removed. Mayor Manning has openly expressed himself to the effect that Mr. Gordon is the rightful contractor for the work. Then let his worship put the force of his convictions into execution by supporting Mr. Gordon at the board of works and at the council board.

To whom shall be given the credit of Stobbs? Gen. Mitchell and Col. Stranahan are now at loggerheads over the matter, if an interview with the general in the Manitoba is to be relied on.

The authorities of Toronto university have little faith in the sincerity of the city fathers entered into an agreement to buy the College street from Yonge to McColl. Last year the work was not touched and the council of this year is either trying to wriggle out of it or give it to a firm of contractors who are not entitled to it.

The excitement attending the non-coming of the volunteers having abated, we may look for a wave of peace if not of prosperity.

Winipeg is said to have profited immensely by the sojourn of the volunteers on their way home in that city week before last. Many of the battalions were paid off in the prairie city, and as the reports say the town was painted a bright red and blue, considerable of the good money of "army" must have been left with the Winipeggers.

Editor World: I beg to call the attention of the chairman of the health committee to the remembrance of Dr. Cassell's health. Queen street west attended. The case of a new drain was paid at the city hall Wednesday last. I feel that this matter has more keenly, as my wife is lying in a very dangerous state from the state of her health. It is there no way of getting city officials to attend to a pressing matter like this? DAVID WELSH.

Editor World: Will you permit me to suggest a couple of small additions to what you say in The World of the 21st concerning patents in the United States, which may be of benefit to your correspondents. In the first place, a recent rule of the patent office dispenses entirely with models, requiring drawing only, which will be executed entirely by lines, i.e. no models are permitted, as they cannot be so well reproduced. Secondly, the $25 which the government charges in that paid: $15 with the application, and the remaining $10 when the patent is issued. W. A. SHORT.

The Art of Making Love. From the Chicago Times. Love-making is an art. There is no such thing as love at first sight; you must admire each other in the beginning, but immediate affection is out of the question. First impressions, no matter how favorable, must be strengthened by actual cultivation. The love comes, and if the man who uses makes no mistake he is sure to win, no matter what his condition may be, no matter how much he is hated and despised.

More women are won by judicious flattery than by any other means, for every woman is more or less vain, and she is naturally fond of the man who finds her weakness and handles it with skill. Let a woman once imagine she is being praised, and if a man tells her so constantly and artfully she is certain to have a weakness for him which may easily be fanned into a flame of love and admiration for at that. This is merely an example. All women profess to hate men who are jealous, but in this they belie themselves. A woman who is violently jealous is a woman who is unable to love with a sting of the green-eyed monster. It is true that some women are fond of complacent, easy-going, impassioned men, but as a rule such fellows can never inspire the genuine emotion. It is your hot-headed, passionate and impulsive man who can drive a woman to distraction. A man must be more or less hot-headed; he must be more or less jealous, and more or less passionate to inspire a woman with the love that burns. The man who wouldn't kiss a woman when she tells him with her eyes that her lips are yearning for his, I do not mean by this that kissing is at all necessary, or even proper, but it is certainly a part and parcel of the art of love-making.

I heard a pretty girl from Cleveland say once that she had been devotedly sought by young Mr. L. for four years. She was fond of him and admired him for many excellent qualities, but she finally let him go because, as she put it, he never had the courage to propose to her. I know her. I do not know her name, but she never was a purer or better girl than that one, but she was too full of mercy to ever give to a man who loved her in a ministerial mind over the situation. It is thought to be certain that England will fight for Zullicar. The Russians rely on this belief, but they are started to be disturbed at the evidences of Lord Salisbury's popular strength. Whatever the issue may be, the news of the occupation of Zullicar pass by Russia troops cannot fail to create a sensation in London and throughout the whole of Europe.

It is probable that the Lonsdale-Chetwynd fracas over Mrs. Langtry has been grossly exaggerated. In fact it is almost safe to assert that the words attributed to St. George Chetwynd when he made the attack—"Take that, you devil. Don't meddle with my Lily"—are a little bit of the coloring. TO THE PUBLIC.

One W. D. Dorn and agents of his have been to the business men of Toronto saying that they represent The World, and that they were getting a new business. Exhibits for which they solicited cards. The World does not intend to publish any such Business Exhibits, and the public are warned against paying money to any of these men, as their representations are false. W. F. MACLEAN.
