Amongst other privileges which I consider it expedient that you should erjoy one of the most the portant is the reasonable compensation to which your Grand and Petit Jurors are entitled. The most affluent amongst us, by reason of holding various offices, are frequently privileged from serving in either capacity, and the burden in either capacity, and the burden mainly falls upon those whose circumstances will harely warrant the loss of time and pecuniary expenses to which they are so frequently made liable. Let the whole community assist in sharing the expense, as all of us resp. alvantage from the protection to life, liberty and property which Courts of Justice are constituted to atthis body are now iffle, because it means from the Court. In general, experience teacher is, they should be more imperative. It being a fact, that the higher functions of the Grand Jury are faithfully discharged, furnishes convincing proof that those of all inferior nature will not be overlooked.
