

Leal their faith in Him they trusted,
 Bauldly frae the buchtid glen,
In the stillness o' the gloamin',
 Gather'd still the muirlan' men:
Signed the Solemn League an' Covenant,
 Wi' their blude it might hae been,
'Mang the blooms o' wavin' heather,
 And the breekan dells sae green.

THE ANGEL OF SORROW.

(Luke xxii., 43 and 44.)

He came from a far-off land of light,
The Angel of Sorrow in garments white.

And with heavenly pity he stirred again,
The water of life in the hearts of men.

But the multitude cried as he held his way,
“The shadow of Death on his forehead lay.”

“He shall not dwell in our valley here
When the blossoming vine doth crown the year.”
