

White here we are to last with a general cold.
The man may have a few days leading to him,
And you were he - such is a happy state,
While blessings so numerous seem to be his due.

Strange indeed we feel it is to like our own
Where others, though small, are sweetest when blown.
Though our winters are long and sometimes severe,
But lead to summer's delight by ease.
Should be less attractive, because of its cold,
Then far is full of virtue - though trimming with gold!

But prosperity in Canada always hath been,
This year is the best that she ever had I see,
And now she is wearing a tassel to wear.
That nature may one day be anxious to share

Her prosperity is for us, it will appear very plain.
Where her farms are a dollar to a quarter of grain.
While all their productions so easily sell,
At prices which we pay them equally well.

To many, it doubtless may seem very queer,
Why Dry Goods are cheap and Provisions so dear,
It is true, notwithstanding, which our patrons may see,

By calling on Young Street "One Hundred and Three."

While many must know an advance very great,
Has been made in the value of woollens of late.
Yet our flannels and blankets will quickly appear,
Quite as low as the prices we offered last year.

Our Bonnets and Cloaks have been tastefully made,
With a prospect of greatly increasing our trade,
And our Shawls and our Furs will at once please the eye.

And induce even the most fastidious to buy.
Our manner of business is extensively known.
The lowest price asked with the article shown;
And such, we determine, shall continue to be,
The unceasing practice at ONE HUNDRED AND THREE.
