A New Romance by Marie Corelli

TEMPORAL POWER

A Study in Supremacy

The story is a singularly striking and powerful one, dealing with a subject which has never before been treated in fiction, and intimately touching on certain topics which have been for some time uppermost in the minds of the people.

Paper, 75c.; Cloth, $1.25.

The White Man's Burden, 1865-1900

THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS

By Thomas Dixon, jr.

"Two great questions overshadow the future of the American people—the conflict between labor and capital, and the conflict between the African and the Anglo-Saxon races. The greatest, most dangerous and worst of these is the latter."—Montreal Star.

NONE BUT THE BRAVE. By Hamblen Sears

An Altogether Charming Story of Love and Adventure.

This is an uncommonly good story of adventure, laid in the Fall and Winter of the year 1780, during the American Revolution. The scene is largely that interesting and much-disputed territory on the east bank of the Hudson between Tarrytown and Croton Point, respectively the outposts of the opposing armies. The hero, a young American officer, and the heroine, a Tory maiden from New York, are constantly thrown into difficulties and discussions because of the diametrically opposite views they take as to contemporary affairs, and the plot is complicated by the fact that they are all the time falling in love with each other. General Washington, Sir Henry Clinton, Benedict Arnold and Major Andre, besides many other historic characters, figure in the romance. The story is one of absorbing interest, carrying the reader along from page to page with an ever-increasing enthusiasm.
