Alcorno will soothe the trembling nerves and remove the craving, restoring your home and stealing an otherwise kind husband or father from you. It costs only $1.50 per box, and if it does not cure you, you get a trial. The money will be refunded.

Alcorno No. 1 is tasteless and can be used in tea, coffee or food.

Alcorno No. 2 is taken voluntarily by those willing to help themselves.

Alcorno can now be obtained at G. W. Robinson, 1011 1/2 street, St. Louis. Ask for free booklet telling all about it and give Alcorno a trial.

THE POPULAR TANGO.

He claims that the very new dance is the heel and toe maxixe. It is from Paris and New York the maxixe is extremely popular. It consists of various figures and when correctly danced is most artistic.

At the present time most people, and especially the children, are learning the tango and for them Mr. Macrolis has this advice: The upper part of the body must be held perfectly straight, the shoulders square, the arms extended, the hands and the head must be secure and very sufficiently loose, so that the body may move easily to the side position. The knees are kept bent practically all the time. The feet are kept close together and the dance is a glide. The deep dips that are sometimes seen are foreign to the tango. The body must be carried very lightly and the weight the only movement is below the waist.

Puff Pastes

DELICIOUS apple, mince or any other sort of a pastry is within reach

The under crust seems to be where the trouble usually lies; it is soggy or hard, or too thin or too thick; but this is more often a fault of the baking than in the pastry making.

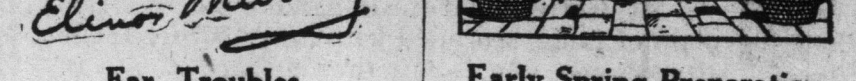

The following proportions will make one pie with two crusts or two pies with one crust, or two dozen pasties.

One and a half cups of pastry flour sifted with one level teaspoon of salt, one-half a cup of shortening, one-third of a cup or more of cold water. By shortening a mixture of lard and butter is meant; if you have pure lard you may use all lard, but a small amount of butter makes a far better pastry. The French pasties are made of pure fresh butter; which accounts for their superior flakiness.

Work one-half of whatever shortening you use into the sifted flour and salt. Use the finger tips or a flexible knife. Moisten to a dough with cold water. Use just as little water as possible; too much water makes a hard, leathery crust. Flour the pastry board and turn the mixture upon it, roll out to the spread and the part of the remaining butter or shortening; sprinkle flour over the top and bottom of the sheet of pastry over and over again, and repeat the process until you have used all the butter and as much as is needed for one pie, roll and use it; then make another.

To put a pie together, roll the paste about an eighth of an inch thick and a trifle larger than the pie tin. Dust the tin with flour, lay the crust in and draw and shrink it and draw together all the will, lifting it from the sides and shaping it evenly with the rolling pin. Press the pie in and pinch up the edge if it is to be an open affair. Put it in the oven and bake. For a partly baked, draw it out and prick the air bubbles with a sharp fork. For

If the pie is to have an upper and lower crust, after fitting the latter into the tin, trim the edges and lay a narrow strip of pastry around it. Brush the bottom crust with a egg wash and brush the upper crust with it. Sprinkle a little flour on it. Put in the filling and put on the top crust. Moisten the top of the strip of pastry so the upper crust will adhere to it. This gives three layers around the edge of the pie and the juice cannot run out. The pie is then baked as usual. While it is baking, someone writes to this department about a little chimney made of a short length of macaroni to carry off the steam: a roll of stiff paper inserted into the upper crust acts the same. A pie made of this kind of macaroni cannot fail to tempt the most fastidious taste, for it is as good as a chimney. The pie is baked as usual. It is made from a mixture of butter and shortening, will have splendid food value. Tomorrow the writer will give you simple directions for French pastries.

Ear Troubles
Often an abscess will form inside of the ear—after the ear trouble has been cured.

of yesterday and this will break and discharge. If this occurs the pain will be less, but the ear must be kept very clean. It should be syringed with a warm solution of boracic acid every three hours—or oftener if the discharge collects rapidly. The ear must be carefully syringed after every treatment. I mentioned this thoro drying yesterday, and let me repeat it now, so that mothers will watch this on every occasion, even when it is just a matter of syringing for cleaning. Sometimes the discharge is very irritating to the skin around the ear and it will become quite sore. In such cases it is well to coat parts with olive oil and apply a soothing ointment several times daily. With this treatment you may find on a case of skin chafing, I have found that mutton tallow, obtained any part of the body, is superior to any other remedy. It is useful for all simple skin diseases, and for eczema use a doctor's prescription.

But to return to our subject. Some of the most common accompaniments are abscesses of the ear. In such cases, I would consult an ear doctor, who will give the proper treatment and prevent any more serious trouble.

The most serious ear disease is otitis media, which is caused by one to three weeks.

For the treatment of this disease, use three crops of asters. For instance, if the intervals of one week or ten days, plant a crop of asters. In the middle of summer and late in the fall, plant a crop of asters. The asters are also good sowings of poppies and corn. There are some of these brilliant flowers that are some of the most tires of, especially those that never present varieties of form and color.

which occurs in the scold but does not spread the ear. There is pain, swelling and tenderness of this part, and the child will go on crying enough to make him redness and swelling made to stand right out by reason of the intense swelling behind it. If the child is not very much swollen, but, have an ear speculum to examine the child at once. Immediate treatment may be needed, otherwise the infection may spread downward and cause serious brain trouble.

Applying local home treatments, or relying on neighborhood advice, will not do. The child will still call in a specialist, the case will be treated as a case of the Sick Children's or the General Hospital.

The Ordinary June pink-fringed and very double, may be sown in two crops, will start, so that early June flowering will take place in the first two weeks later, for fall bloom.

Cosmos is also a late bloomer, but the seeds are very fine, like minute grains of sand, and shining. These are the Sweet William-like pinks, the columbines, the poppies, the other double pinks, flat, tufted, whitish, oblong and fuzzy, such as the asters. Who does not know the nasturtium, or the flat hollyhock disk?

But no matter what the size or shape of the seed, see to it that these are well pressed flat into the earth as advised.

Exhibition Board Selects Attraction for Canadian National.

Preparations for this year's Canadian National Exhibition are reported as already considerably advanced. The attendance mark aimed at is one and a quarter millions. This, it is expected, will be made possible by having the eastern entrance in completion. Last year the million mark was passed.

The best bands in Great Britain and the United States, the board says, are to take part in the exhibition. The spectacular piece chosen for grandstand crowds is to be the Fall of Balaclava. With this will be presentations of the progress in arts of peace for the past hundred years.

The exhibition, it is said, will join in the celebration of the century of peace between the United States and Canada. Thousands of visitors from the United States are expected, and it is said that probably one or more members of the United States Govern-to Samaritans.

Encouraging Work in Earls Court

Rev. Peter Bryce of Earlscourt addressed a meeting of the Samaritan Club in the Bible House, College street, yesterday afternoon. Dealing with the problem of poor relief on the city outskirts he said that his experience had impressed upon him the general fact that assistance is usually required only in the first winter.

"If we except the shiftees, percentage which is found in every strata of society, we are bound," he said, "to come to the conclusion that a large number of the newcomers need a start, and only that."

The Samaritan Club is an association of women who are interested in the welfare of the city's poor. The membership reaches two hundred, and there was a fair attendance at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. Burns, president, was in the chair.

Ninety-five per cent. of the boys of 14 years or over are at school. Less than 5 per cent go to school, and 10 per cent. continue their education to the extent of college. Such was the situation reported by C. C. Robinson, secretary of the International Y.M.C.A. committee on the employed boys' department, at the conference. The yesterday morning session was how to utilize the boys' savings, and the afternoon session was official.

Robinson addressed a conference at noon at Eaton's grill room, City street, at the night shift of the Drummond glass works.
