Hears Alderman Took a Bribe... Lobbyist Spends $1200 to Secure Permit... $300 For Vote of Puddy Abattoir

Dr. Lynd Mentioned in Affidavit in Hands of Mayor With Ex-Alderman Ramsden as One of the Go-Betweens—Charges Indignantly Denied and Claimed to Be Wrongly Based on Stolen Letters.

ALD. LYND: "I have received no money whatever. My reason for changing my vote was fully explained in council at the time."

EDWARD PUDDY: "Not a dollar passed from the firm's hands in any such way as that claimed."

CHARGE IS BRIBERY.

That $1200 was distributed between Ald. Lynd, ex-Ald. Ramsden and Geo. Elliott, a company promoter and a fourth man whose name is not given, but who acted as a go-between, in order to influence and secure the granting of a permit for the establishment of an abattoir by Puddy Bros. on Paton-

ALD. DR. A. LYND.

BASED ON STOLEN LETTERS.

Mr. Elliott is manager of the Toronto Cast Stone Company. To the World last night, he said:

"A month or so ago, when I was leaving the city, I left a parcel of letters in my office drawer. While I was away these letters did not refer to any transactions concerning the Puddy Company, but were in connection with other affairs. There is nothing discreditable in the letters, but he evidently has been able to convert them into the purpose of a blackmail."

"All I can say is that anything that I have said in connection with any alderman was in favor of Puddy Bros. getting their permit, but I was in no way instrumental in getting their permit. I know nothing of the unknown 'go-between,' nor of the conversations alleged to have taken place with him. I did not lobby at the city hall, which I have not visited, except to pay my water rates, for months. I have no knowledge of any division of money."

"There is absolutely no reason known to me why they should use my name as they have."

OPPOSES CATHOLIC PARTY.

True Witness Says There's Nothing to Agitate Against.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—(Special)—The True Witness, organ of the English-speaking Catholics here, says: "Our French-Canadian contemporaries have been giving us the affirmative answer to the question of a Catholic party in the Canadian parliament. The discussion will give a new theme to their Orange conferees up in Ontario so that the declaration of another newspaper war is imminent."

The Catholic membership of the Canadian commons and senate bears not the least resemblance to the party in any religious minority, but it cannot be said to be conscious of the fact. Again, if it were organized in Ontario so that the government in this country would become impossible. The essential motive in organizing a Catholic party is to create a balance of power to disarm at least one hostile force. There is no force in the parliament of Canada hostile to Catholics, except the Orangemen, who are not a respectable minority, but as the party which will contribute more to the general harmony of the country than any other party. It is a party which will contribute more to the general harmony of the country than any other party. It is a party which will contribute more to the general harmony of the country than any other party."

"I didn't intend it to come out yet," he said. "Is the statement correct?" "It was taken," "Yes and no." "In what respect is it incorrect?" "I didn't want to come out until tomorrow at least, when matters will be in better shape," he answered. "I can not tell you what the errors are, but"

Winnipeg River Claims as Victims Party Employed on Transcontinental Railway—The Canoe Capsizes, Throwing Occupants Into Turbulent Stream.

Four Drown. Fred Crookes, Vankleek Hill, Ontario; William Porter, Ottawa; Anton Larsson, Kenora; and John Brown, Kenora.

Kenora, Ont., Oct. 13.—(Special)—Another accident occurred about fifteen miles from here on the Winnipeg River about nine o'clock this morning, when four men belonging to party number seven of the transcontinental surveyors, lost their lives.

None of the other canoes behind witnessed the accident and the first that did pass, hearing their cries thought they were Indians and went on. The canoe next following, however, took them in charge, but it was hours afterwards before Gibson reported the accident.

Several of the party arrived in Kenora at three o'clock this afternoon, and reported the accident to divisional engineer Major Hodgins, who has taken a party with grappling irons etc., to search for the bodies. They were all well known around town.

NO BLAME PLACED BY JURY ARTILLERY HORSES DASH WITH RIDERS OVER CLIFF

Find That Michael Quealey Died From Carbolic Acid Self-Administered, But Why is Not Known.

Coroner McConnell last night concluded the inquest on Michael Quealey, who died from a dose of carbolic acid, said to have been taken by mistake.

The verdict of the jury was, "That the said Michael Quealey came to his death by carbolic acid poisoning, the said carbolic acid being administered by deceased's own hand, in mistake for castor oil. The evidence was conflicting, and insufficient to place the blame upon anyone."

It will be remembered that Quealey and his wife, in Fullerton's drug store at 586 West Queen-street, purchased an auto accident, in which his chauffeur received fatal injuries, was not encouraging to-night.

At the Newton Hospital, where the senator lies, it was stated that he was steadily losing ground, and that his condition was critical.

The extent of Senator Fulford's injuries had not been definitely determined by the attending physicians, but it is believed that he is hurt internally. The senator's recovery is considered doubtful.

Sir Henry Irving is Dead "The Rest is Silence."

Most Distinguished Actor Receives Final Call—Succumbs From Attack of Syncope After the Performance at Bradford, England.

London, Oct. 13.—The English-speaking world has suffered an irreparable loss by the sudden death to-night of Sir Henry Irving, who was universally regarded as the most representative English actor of contemporary times.

He was giving a series of farewell performances in the English provinces and this week was playing an engagement at Bradford, appearing in several favorite roles. Thursday he represented King Henry's Daughter and the Bells, and appeared in the excellent health, taking the exhausting part of Matthias in the latter play with all the vigor of youth.

To-night before an enthusiastic audience he portrayed one of his most characteristic intellectual characters—the title role in his own stage adaptation of Lord Tennyson's Becket, with marked success. It was during the performance Sir Henry returned to his hotel, reaching his rooms at 11.30 o'clock, when it was observed that he was in a great pain. Physicians were immediately summoned, but before they could arrive he had expired.

The Associated Press to-night received the following telegram from Sir Henry's manager, Bram Stoker: "Very terrible news. Sir Henry Irving had an attack of syncope after returning from the theatre to the hotel to-night and died suddenly."

To the last moment of his life Sir Henry Irving's heart was in the work to which he had devoted his career—the raising of the standard of his art. On Wednesday he was entertained at luncheon in the Grand Trunk Railway, when the mayor presented to him an address from his admirers. In replying to the address, Sir Henry Irving himself as one of the hands of whose life were fast running out, but no one then present had the slightest idea that the end would be so near.

Proceeded in his reply to eloquently advocate the establishment of theatres by the municipalities, "because," he said, "I believe that by this means the standard of the true drama, as distinguished from the vulgar entertainments, would be successfully upheld. Money is spent like water for the endowment of our universities, but no one ever dreams of endowing the theatre? I am sure the time will come when you will regard the theatre as necessary to a liberal education, and be prepared to consider any reasonable suggestion for the extension of its sphere of influence. It may be that in years to come our countrymen will scarcely understand the method of elevating the stage to its proper place—that of a great moral and social force for the uplifting of the people."

Henry Irving. By the death of Sir Henry Irving, Britain loses not only its greatest actor, but a man of rare gifts, who was equally an artistically. He has occupied for so long a time the leading place in the eyes of our countrymen, that it will be difficult to imagine the British stage without his commanding and inspiring presence. He has died too, as he would have wished to die—in harness. Only the day before he had spoken of his own future plans, and the establishment of a municipal theatre, which he regarded as the best and surest method of elevating the stage to its proper place—that of a great moral and social force for the uplifting of the people.

Henry Irving's baptismal name was John Henry Blarney, and he was born in Kent, England, on Feb. 6, 1838, and received his education in Dr. Pinches' school in George-yard, Lombard-street, London. Having a strong predilection for the stage, he made his first appearance at the

CHEESE MAN DISAPPEARS

Joseph H. Wilson of Mountain Station is Heavily Injured.

Brookville, Oct. 13.—(Special)—The people of Mountain Station and vicinity and particularly the patrons of Mountain No. 1 cheese factory are exercised over the disappearance of Joseph Wilson, proprietor of that factory.

Subsequent investigations showed that Mr. Wilson had cashed two cheese checks on Alex. Grant & Co. of Montreal at a local bank amounting to $700, and gone on to Prescott that same afternoon. Previous to leaving Montreal he had collected money for the sale of cheese in the Village of Mountain.

Mr. Wilson is believed to be heavily involved financially, and his factory is mortgaged for about $800. Altho his books are not made up it is estimated that he is some $1400 behind. This, of course, is largely a matter of conjecture.
