MOSCOW A BATTLE FIELD

Revolutionaries Mowed Down

Casualties on Saturday over 500

Revolutionist Plot to Seize Railway Station Headed Off by Military.

Moscow, Dec. 24.—(5 p.m.)—Artillery, machine and revolver firing continued throughout the day, but the noise of the battle has now somewhat abated.

The revolutionaries apparently have not in the least lost heart, notwithstanding Saturday's heavy casualties.

It is now known that 600 is a moderate estimate of the losses, and many more persons fell today.

The revolutionaries had few successes. They surprised a force of gendarmes at Karamita, killing or wounding 20 of them.

Since then artillery has been firing uninterruptedly in that section of the city.

In many cases Dragoons fired into private houses, where they suspected revolutionists were hiding.

In nearly every district large numbers of innocent persons were accidentally killed.

Late this afternoon it was reported that fighting was proceeding in the outskirts of the city and that there were heavy losses on both sides.

During the day bombs were thrown in the streets. The troops held the railway stations, but the plundering of freight cars continues.

Three hundred of these cars have been entirely stripped on the Kasan Railway siding alone.

HOW IT BEGAN

London, Dec. 24.—The Daily Telegraph correspondent at St. Petersburg says about Moscow fighting:

The first shots were fired by the revolutionaries on the troops outside Ploshchad-square, which was surrounded.

The revolutionaries were given one hour in which to surrender. Fifty minutes had passed and the commander of the troops was about to give the order to fire when a volley came from the house.

Soldiers were immediately wounded. The troops immediately reloaded.

Soon a white handkerchief was waved from a window. The troops entered, but were greeted with rifle fire and they retired and again reloaded.

Shortly afterwards a white handkerchief was again waved from the window of the revolutionaries who complained.

WAR IN MOSCOW

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—(11.35 p.m.)—The situation at Moscow to-night is described in the following telegram:

A regular battle is raging in the streets of the city, and a state of terror reigns.

Telegraphic messages just received by the Associated Press says that the drumming of machine guns, volleys by infantry and the booming of cannon can be heard at intervals.

The military seems to have the upper hand, although there are rumors that the gendarmes and the Cossacks have revolted and have refused to fire on the people.

According to this telegraphic message the revolutionary leaders had given the signal for an armed rising at the provincial at 8 o'clock this evening.

General Governor Doubaissoff discovered their plans and her headquarters. He massed twenty-five thousand troops of the Kronstadt and the city.

In the towers of the old Chinese wall, posted artillery at intervals encircling the Tverskaya boulevard and placed heavy detachments of horse and light artillery at strategic points.

The first scene of butchery occurred at 2 o'clock, when the troops and the cannon, which were loaded with grape, fired into a procession of workmen carrying red flags and singing revolutionary songs as they swung into the boulevard.

Continued Fighting.

Since then there has been almost constant fighting somewhere in the city.

The workmen threw up barricades at the Triumfal arch, to places in the Dostrovsky-street, and at another place, but all were assaulted and carried by the troops.

The principal resistance was at the Triumphal arch, the defenders of the arch being armed only with revolvers.

They held their ground for a time against the machine guns.

One hundred and twenty student militia, who were surrounded at Filderskiy place, made a heroic stand, defending the place with bombs and revolvers from a window.

They killed two officers and eight soldiers, and wounded many before they surrendered with a loss of five killed and thirteen wounded.

The chief of police says that to estimate the total number of casualties would be mere guess work, but he thinks they will probably run into the hundreds.

The Plan Which Failed.

The plan of the armed rising of the proletariat was to seize the St. Petersburg station at dawn Saturday, take possession of the Douma building, capture the State Bank and proclaim a provisional government.

To the workingmen the task of taking the station, the object of which was to prevent communication and the despatch of troops from St. Petersburg.

The student revolutionary organizations were to have captured the Douma building and the bank.

General Doubaissoff learned of the scheme at a conference at the Palace Friday night, and decided to put it down ruthlessly.

He accepted the offer of the notorious revolutionary, Prince Tcherbatoff, to organize a militia composed of workmen.

The attack of the station at dawn failed.

Many Awful Scenes.

There are many revolting details of the day. At Filderskiy school, after the students had raised the white flag, and come out, they were charged, put down and subdued by the dragoons.

The revolutionaries retreated wherever they sought an officer alone, and on the slightest resistance he was beaten into submission.

Telegraph poles, wires, planks, barrels and any material available was used in the construction of the many barricades which sprang up all over the city, and as soon as one was destroyed it was soon replaced by another at a different point.

The crowds fought the Hope Young Will Be Placed in Asylum—Destroys Jail Furnishings.

Halifax, Dec. 24.—(Special.)—Hope Young, convicted of the murder of May Ward, now lying in Digby jail awaiting a new trial, recently ordered by the supreme court, became violently insane last night, and before she could be secured had broken the glass of the window in her cell, smashed the scanty jail furniture and wrecked the stove.

Jailor Hutchinson had trouble some nights ago with the unfortunate woman, and had to hold her to prevent her doing herself injury.

As her ravings also declared that she was haunted by witches, who were trying to murder her, but said that she had succeeded in hanging them all, except Marie Ward. The last named is the mother of the dead child for whose murder Hope Young was sentenced to death.

Until yesterday no actual symptoms of insanity were noticeable. To-day she was examined as to her mental condition and has been placed in a straight jacket. Sheriff Smith will probably take steps to secure her removal to the provincial insane asylum at Halifax.

Young Man Taken to Hospital—Doctors Examine Several Suspects.

A young man from a house on Sornauren-avenue was removed to the Swiss Hospital last night, suffering from smallpox.

Medical Health Officer Sheard said that any further cases had not been reported to him.

He admitted, however, that in the company of several physicians he had made a tour yesterday of various suspected cases, but declared that so far no case had been traced.

The health department are making the most rigid examination of all presumed cases in an effort to immediately stamp out the disease and avert an epidemic.

Ellis Corey Makes Offer to Wife Which is Accepted.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Laura Cook Corey, wife of W. Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has decided to abandon her intention of applying for divorce.

She has been offered $1,000,000 as a Christmas gift by her husband, not to do so, and he has, thru a messenger, his father, assured her that he has broken with Mabelle Gilman. He has also promised to make a will in which his son Allan shall be his sole heir.

Mrs. Corey has accepted this, according to some of her close friends.

All But Four in Bowmanville Fail to File Qualification Papers.

Bowmanville, Dec. 23.—(Special.)—Municipal honors are a negative quantity in this town, for out of fifteen candidates nominated for town council only four put in qualification papers to-day, and another nomination and election must be held to fill the two vacant seats.

The only contest here on New Year's Day will be for the office of mayor, between Archie Tall and Lewis Cornish, M. A. James having withdrawn.

New York, Dec. 24.—James E. Mahan, prominent in New York Society, a member of the New York Yacht Club, the Metropolitan Club and the Country Club, was instantly killed near Alto, N. Y., when his auto completely struck a strip of loose dirt on the side of the road and turned completely over. The accident was witnessed by Mr. Mahan's wife and son and daughter-in-law, who were following in another car.

Orono Lighting up.

Port Hope is threatened with darkness because its municipal council do not seem to know that they can install a Siche Gas Plant that would light the whole town at about one-fourth the cost of electric lighting, for about one-tenth the cost of an electric plant, and give a better and more reliable service, with the yearly cost dropping as the price of carbide drops from $65 per ton, to a reasonable profit on the cost of manufacture $20 per ton. With carbide at the price it will be in two years from date, a municipality will be able to light its streets for a fortnight with Siche Gas for what it costs to light for one day now with electricity.

These figures can be proved to any one who will take the time to look into the facts.

But Orono is lighting up, Siche gas plants are going into Orono, and it will soon be one of the brightest towns in the province.

DR. J. H. McFAUL IS DEAD SEIZED BY HEART FAILURE

Well-Known City Educationist Expired Suddenly at His Home on Saturday Night.

One of the best known local educationists was suddenly removed by death on Saturday night in the person of Dr. John H. McFaul, 197 Carlton-street.

Dr. McFaul, while he had suffered from intermittent attacks of heart trouble for the last two years, had been apparently enjoying good health of late. He was present at the nominations in the city hall on Friday morning, and it had been expected by his friends that he would offer himself as a candidate, his tenure for a number of years of the office of secretary-treasurer of the high school board having made his name a familiar one in educational matters.

About 8 o'clock on Saturday night he felt unwell and retired to his room. A few minutes later he was discovered in a dying condition and passed away shortly afterwards. The cause of death was angina pectoris.

Born in 1846 in Wallington, Prince Edward County of U. E. Loyalist stock, it was in 1884 that he came to Toronto as an instructor in drawing at the Normal School. Previous to this, he had been a school inspector at Peterborough and later St. Catharines. He took up medicine as a study, and began practice about fifteen years ago. He continued to take a deep interest in the school and in the high school board by the city council, retaining the position to the time of the amalgamation of the public and high school boards.

Dr. McFaul made a specialty of drawing and penmanship. In 1892 he brought out a manual of drawing adopted by the government as a public school text book, and retained as a standard for a number of years. He was also the originator of a number of copy books, he being the author of a clear, copper-plate style of writing, that was used for illustrated purposes.

Dr. McFaul had been since coming to Toronto a member of Sherbourne-street Methodist Church. He leaves a widow and two daughters. Mrs. Dr. A. K. McFaul, Detroit, and Mrs. A. E. Brownlie of Toronto, were his sisters. He was also the father of Mrs. H. H. McFaul, Toronto, and Mrs. H. H. McFaul, Toronto, who will be under the services which will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 26, at 2 p.m. at St. Andrew's Masnie Lodge.

"HE COMETH NOT," SHE SAID.

Rally at Sign of Cross In Anti-Liquor Crusade

Mr. Bruchesi Issues Strong Pastoral Letter Calling for Foundation of Temperance Societies in Every Locality.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—(Special.)—Bishop Paul Bruchesi's long expected pastoral message inaugurating a determined crusade against intemperance, was read to-day in all the Roman Catholic churches, and it is radical in its scope.

His grace says that without establishing a connection between the Province of Quebec and the other provinces of Canada, between the Dominion and the other States of America and Europe, it is an undeniable fact that we are suffering from the evil of intemperance. His grace believes that intemperance would abolish penmanship; stoppage of work would be unknown and strikes would hardly exist.

"A happy picture some would say," Mr. Bruchesi said, "but no, the drinking close and all these will become realities. Our watchword will be to found temperance societies in all localities, without exception. These societies will form together a holy league endowed with precious indulgences. They will be the old-fashioned societies, still to be seen in the old families, will be the new rallying sign."

His grace recommends initiatives in the number of liquor shops and in the liquor business and the liquor has been drunk by our authority it would be an injustice for us to take away from these men the property which they have acquired by their own industry.

"I am not in a position to say whether it is right or wrong to cut off these licenses, but we must be just and equitable. I would say that if it is shown before a competent court or board appointed for the purpose that the government has encouraged these men to put their money in the liquor business and the liquor has been drunk by our authority it would be an injustice for us to take away from these men the property which they have acquired by their own industry."

Instructions to Diocese. 1st—The clergy shall be the first to set an example of the temperance they must preach. 2nd—We request all families to do the same thing and entirely give up the whole habit of offering and of taking spirituous liquors, such as brandy, gin, rum, whiskey, on the occasion of gatherings, dinners, parties, and especially on New Year's Day. Let all kinds of alcohol disappear from our homes.

3rd—We implore young men and fathers of families not to enter saloons except for serious reasons. 4th—We request priests, principals of colleges and teachers in general to frequently refer to intemperance in the class room.

5th—We order that all the parishes, parishes, and societies for children, young men and the members shall pledge themselves not to use spirituous liquors, either in cases of sickness and of real need. 6th—We particularly exhort the preaching of temperance to the Rev. Fr. Francis Kellen, whom we hereby appoint apostle of this great work in our diocese. 7th—It is also our wish that these temperance societies be founded in our colleges and the universities.

THE MEANEST MAN. Oh, he is mean, indeed, who schemes to drag his neighbors down, and who is mean who glibly spreads foul scandal through the town, and who is mean who, having youth and steadfast friends and health, put on unlovely frowns and fret, because they can't have wealth.

The one who brings out last year's toys, declaring they are new, and thus imposes on his boys, ah, he's a mean man, too; and they are mean who sit around and harbor discontent. Because the gifts they get cost less than did the ones they sent.

But meaner than the meanest of the mean ones mentioned here is he who hears his little wife say, "Give me nothing, dear. Save your true love, on Christmas day, for that is all to me." And then accepts her at her word—ah, what a wretch is he!
