The Street Railway Strike to Date.

It is ten days since the Street Railway Company resumed their car servise, or semi-service. If the Comgaining ground it is visible to the naked eye. street cars continue to flit by like ghosts of their former selves. If the public are gradually tiring out, the public are strictly concealing the fact. The only sign of exhaustion is an exhaustion of public patience at the Company's persistent opposition to public feeling

A few words as to the wage question. The Company now claim credit for offering a maximum wage of $9 20 per week. Nothing was heard of this until after the strike. Had the Company revealed a glimpse of this liberality last October there would not have been a strike, and perhaps not union. The regular men, previous to the first strike, had been earning 15 cents per hour, working 10 hours per day. The relief men were earning 121/2 cents per hour, working 7 and 71/2 hours per day. The latter considered that 87 cents to 93 cents per day was not decent wages, and they asked for The Company granted the request by the old plan of robbing Peter to pay Paul. They cut a slice off the regular men's pay to give to the relief men. As a result the regulars, some of whom had worked on the street railway system for many years, were reduced to the pittance of $1 05 per day for two weeks in every four. The men naturally protested, but their representatives were refused a hearing way responsible, and to prove that I by the Company, and two or three of have no anger with you; if there them were even discharged for attempting it. It was during this period them. I am invited to witness the -after the reduction of the regular men's wages-that the union was formed, the employes feeling, in face of this oppression, that they must band together for self-preservation. The Company had begun to apply the screws as far back as 1897, when the automatic advance in wages, according to the length of service, was suddenly stopped. The employes had a just cause, while the Company were not directed only selfish in refusing their requests, but positively stupid in not exercising a little tact and courtesy, which would have smoothed the way toward a settlement and established both parties

It is no secret that the men were dissatisfied with the terms of the last agreement. It was bad walking weather venience the public, the strikers returned to work in the hope that six months later they would be able to secure better conditions. The regular men accepted a wage of $8 38 per week, or less than they made before their wages were cut down last fall. The men consider that the agreement, signed on Nov. 11, expired on May 11, by the effluxion of time, and they have presented the draft of a new The Company claim that the old agreement is still in force. We do not accuse the Company of using cunother party, but it is certain that the employes understood, the press underit was a six-months' agreement. It is not reasonable to suppose the men signed a perpetual compact, and that they should be denied the right of asking a new one. They do ask a new

because the Company's record is no wrong.

bitration must be based on the late Now as to the Union. Unfortunately, the Company's high-handed actions have left the impression in the men's mind that they have no security for fair treatment unless they are banded together and have an organized power behind them. They feel they cannot return to work as individual units, proper discipline, or in any way in the assurance that they will not be ground down or weeded out for non-unionists. as we have pointed out repeatedly, the Company should frankly recognize the situation, deal with the men collectively, and, as is done in Detroit, make an arbitration proviso, which would prevent either side imposing on the other, and which would be a fair and ready way of adjusting disputes and differences. The Company should have enough confidence in the public to know that public opinion would not uphold the men if the latter proved to be arrogant or averse to

The President Attacked by the Leader of the Mob.

Scenes of Disorder Enacted in the Streets.

The Disputed Alaskan Boundary-Canada's Proposition May Ba Accepted by Both Parties.

Paris, June 5.-The papers this morning praise the calmness of President Loubet throughout the demonstration the stewards of the Anteuil races, the president remarked: "You are in no were races tomorrow I would attend grand prix on Sunday next and you may be sure I will be present."

It appears that President Loubet, accompanied by the premier, M. Dupuy, and the chief of the military household, Gen. M. C. Bailoud, drove to the Auteuil races yesterday afternoon, closely followed by Madame Loubet in a second landau. As they drove along the avenue Champs Elysee, the crowd bowed respectfully, but on arriving at Auteuil they were met by a violent demonstration, evidently organized and

During the second race the clamor increased in violence, and was plainly at the time, and not to longer incon- directed by a committee of the League of Patriots, collected, with their supporters, both before and behind the presidential stand, around which formidable affray proceeded. During the grand steeplechase, many blows were struck and several policemen were injured in their endeavors to prevent an invasion of the presidential Comtess Boni de Castellane, who was Miss Anna Gould, of New York city, placed herself at the head of the Jeunesse Royaliste and marched up and down the lawn shouting "Vive l'Armee!" Comte Boni de Castellane and his brother Jean were arrested, but soon liberated. Count de Dion, when arrested, resisted and fought with his cane, smashing it on a policeman's head and causing the jeweled top to fly off, striking a journalist. He was detained in custody.

Altogether about 130 arrests were made, one being that of M. Danzette, deputy mayor of Armontres.

Demonstrations and counter-demonstrations continued until M. Loubet left the race course at 4:20 p.m., the arrival of his carriage being the signal for an indescribable tumult. The mounted guards with difficulty opened a passage through the crowd, the president being pursued to the last with hoots and yells. Even eggs were thrown. It was noteworthy, however, that the people generally cheered him loudly, the cheering increasing as he drove toward the Elysee, which he reached safely at 4:45 p.m. Inspector Grilliere, who was hit in the nape of the neck by a loaded cane, was carried away insensible, and now lies in a dangerous condition. It is asserted that the president's hat was pressed down over his face by Christiani's stick, and that the occupants of the carriage were hit with eggs while returning to the Elysee. The hot summer weather which has recently set in has been very beneficial for wheat in Great Britain and on the continent. Reports received at the close of the week from the principal grain producing centers are favorable for a good crop.

CRIMPING SAILORS. London, June 5.-An interesting blue book was issued on Saturday, comprising the reports of the consults at New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Portland, Ore., describing the operations of the boarding-house keepers and shipping masters in alluring British sailors to leave their ships. The general gist of the report appears to be that the sailors desert in order to secure the higher rate of wages obtained in the Amercian ports, but that the number of desertions is decreasing.

FORTY-FIVE EARTHQUAKES. Kingston, Jamaica, June 5.-Advices from the Island of Montserrat, off the Leeward group, British West Indies, report that 45 earthquakes occurred in a period of five hours on May 17, and that these were followed by frequent isolated shocks. Much damage was done to buildings and growing crops.

GARNETT CASE DISMISSED

Was Charged With Putting Explosives on the Track.

Magistrate Parke Says Perjury Was Committed.

The case against Mr. John Garnett chairman of the street railway employes' committee, came up before Magastrate Parke this morning. Mr. Garnett was charged by Manager Carr with having placed explosives on the

Geo. Constable, a non-union motorman, was the first witness for the prosecution. He swore positively that he saw the defendant cross the street in company with James Westbrook and George Wrightman. He further swore that Garnet stooped down and placed something on the track. He stopped his car, and the conductor picked up the box containing the explosive.

When cross-examined by Mr. E. T. Essery, the witness could not say whether there were any other persons around or how fast the car was going. Austin Addison, non-union conductor, who was riding in the car at the time, corroborated the evidence of Motorman Constable, and swore that he had taken the box containing the exthe box on the track from where he was sitting in the car. Mr. Essery-Does not the wooden part of the vestibule go up to a man's waist? Witness-Yes, sir. Mr. Essery-And then there is the wooden portion in the front part of the car. You never left your seat, and yet you saw the box? Witness-Yes, sir. Frederick Cassidy, an employe of the company, testified to going forward and finding the explosive on the track. Manager Carr testified that Austin Addison had given him the explosive at his office. He had sent it to Prof.

J. H. Bowman for analysis. Cross-examined by Mr. Essery, Manager Carr said that Mr. Garnett had always been looked upon as a good motorman.

Mr. Essery-Did you ever say, with your finger pointed at the defendant, Mr. Garnett, "I am just waiting to get a chance at you, and then I am going to push you, and you also, Dick," looking at Mr. Richard Westby?

grains of sulphur, chloride of potash, and gravel. He exploded a portion of it, which made a loud report. The gravel was the most dangerous part of it, he thought. Magistrate Parke-I understand that this explosive would not be destructive to property. Mr. McKillop-But it must necessarfly interfere with the free running of the road. Magistrate Parke-If a person was to fall on the tracks it would interfere with the free running. If a thing merely makes a noise, I don't hardly see the harm it is doing. John Garnett, the defendant, did not deny crossing the street at the point stated, bu ttahht stated, but swore that he did not place anything on the track. He had not had an explosive of any kind on his person during the strike. He could not say as to whether his companion had or not, but was sure he carried none. Mr. McKillop—Then what the witnesses said about seeing you place something on the track is not true? Mr. Garnett-It is absolutely false.

James Westbrook, who was with the defendant at the time of the alleged offense, swore that Mr. Garnett had neither stooped nor put anything on the track. He was a little behind him in crossing, and could have seen any such action on his part.

Charles Wrightman was also with Mr. Garnett. He corroborated the evidence given by the defendant, and the former witness. This closed the case.

Magistrate Parke, in summing up the evidence, stated "that there was much room for doubt from the evidence offered by the prosecution, while the evidence offered by the defense was very strong. Addison swears," said the magistrate, "he saw the box on the track, while sitting in a car seat. Whether he really did or not, is open to grave doubt. There has been perjury of the worst kind committed by somebody.' The magistrate then discharged the prisoner on the first charge. The sec-ond charge, similar to the first, will

Toronto Sectionmen Started in, but Were Ordered to Quit-Superintendent Jones' Statement.

Toronto, June 5 .- The trackmen's strike appears not to be so completely, over as was supposed. The men went to work on the Toronto division, as on all other divisions, this morning, but had not been working more than a couple of hours when word came from the road master ordering them to stop. No explanation was given, and the men are in a great quandary, not knowing what to do or in what position they stand. The local superintendent of the G. T. R., Mr. Jones, states that the order of the roadmaster came from headquarters, and was sent all over the system. Two days after the strike commenced, he says, the G. T. R. management sent word along the line that unless the strikers returned immediately they would not be regarded plosive direct to Manager Carr.
