of the New York teams is shot out of the world series this fall, it will not be the Giants as was forecast widely before the season opened.

"The team without a pitching staff," which won a pennant last season and worried along in first place through the first two months of the current race has suddenly come into possession of the biggest staff of victory producers. Last week six Giant hurlers won seven games, allowing slightly more than a run and less than seven hits each game.

Joe Bush was driven from the box by the Red Sox yesterday while his mates, Ruth included, failed to worry Esmke. The 6 to 2 victory broke a six game loosing streak for the Red Sox and allowed them to keep a point ahead of Washington as the Senators theat Rommell and the Athletics 5 to 4, in one big inning.

The Indians won their 14th game in 19 starts by overcoming a four run lead and beating Detroit 7 to 4.

The Browns yesterday lost to Chicago 6 to 4. Lyons held St. Louis safe while the Sox batted Kolp from the box.

DO MEN PLAY TOO MUCH

(Toronto Star.) Sir Joseph Flavelle has caused something of a stir by saying that Toonto's motto seems to be that "a man ronto's motto seems to be that "a man must not let his business interfere with his golf." It is a remark which one golfer often jocularly makes to another. One of its earliest appearances was in the old golf story of the clergyman who, playing his game badly, observed to his ancient caddy that it was hard to keep up his game and attend to the duties of his parish. "I shall hae to gie it up," he concluded sadly. "What, gowf?" exclaimed the caddie. "Na, na the menistry." This is all right as a humorous story, just as saying that one must not let business in terfere with golf is all right as a jocular remark, but all wrong if taken seriously or even half so.

Nearly every golfer feels that the criticism offered by Sir Joseph Flavelle is uncalled for so far as he is concerned, but nearly every one of them agrees that there are other golfers who ought to take good advice to heart when they get it, and spend less of their time playing the game. As a man can sit in church and feel that there are others present to whom the minister's sermon is pointedly directed, though not at him, so it is with golfers in this matter.

There is scarcely a golfer who does not say to himself that if he were must not let his business interfere with in this matter.

There is scarcely a golfer who does not say to himself that if he were willing to neglect his business as other
