Notwithstanding the fact that the weather conditions on the coast early in March when the steamers left for the ice, were exceptionally favorable, the season proved to be severe, and resulted in the loss of three vessels, which were crushed in the heavy ice-floes. Fortunately these wrecks were not attended with loss of lite, as the crews were able to make their escape to other steamers that happened to be in the vicinity. It is understood that the owners of the lost steamers are already taking steps to replace them with mod-ern specially constructed, and more powerful vessels, that will be adapted for freighting purposes, when not employed as sealers during the few weeks that the seal fishery lasts.
