WAR NEWS.

London, March 12, 4.45 a. m.—The war office maps shows a group of kopjes and a large water pan at Driefontein, a position which has apparently considerable defensive advantages. The Boers who retreated to Abraham's Kraal from Poplar Grove, must have moved southwards or else a fresh force must have come from Bloemfontein or the Orange River.

The opposition met at Driefontein was somewhat unexpected, the idea being that, if there were any resistance it would be at Petrusbreg. Profiting by their experience, the Boers were prepared for a British flanking movement, but in extending their position in order to avoid being outdanked, they probably weakened their centre, thus making it possible for the British infantry to carry this with a bayonet charge.

There is no confirmation of the rumors of the raising of the siege of Mafeking, concerning which the gravest anxiety continues to be felt.

London, March 12.-The Morning Post's London, March 12.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Dreidfontein, telegraphing Sunday, says: "The fight throughout was much involved. The enemy evacuated and re-occupied positions, subtly concealing their intentions and only withdrawing their guns a few minutes prior to their impending capture. Their guns outranged ours, the naval brigade not a riving in time.

London, March 12-A despatch to the Times from Dreifontein, dated Sunday,

London, March 10.-Several papers an London, March 10.—Several papers announce that the government on Tuesday received five messages from President Kruger and President Steyn in Dutch asking upon what terms a cessation of hostilities could be brought about. The messages surprised and delighted the department concerned. While their tenor was understood, it was found necessary to summon persons thoroughly capable of accurately interpreting the messages, all of which were filed at Bloemfontein.

All of yesterday was ocupied in fighting. The Boers maintained a stubborn rear guard along a running front of 12 miles on very difficult ground. The British were advancing in three columns, GeneralTucker to the southward, occupied Petrusburg unopposed. General Kelly-Kenny after following the river bank, moved in the direction of Abraham's Kraal.

At Dreifontein, about 8 miles south of Abraham's Kraal the Boers were found posted in considerable strength on the ridges connecting several kopies where they had mounted guns. The action began at 8 collect in the receiping with they had mounted guns. The action began at 8 o'clock in the morning with an artillery duel. General French's cavalry and General Porter's Brigade supported our guns. The Boer artillery was accurately handled and the British cavalry found a task harder than they had expected.

General Broadwood, with dogged perse verance, moved altogether six miles south-ward, trying to find a means to get round but the Boers followed behind rising ground and even attempted to outflank him. Meanwhile the sixth division of him. Meanwhile the sixth division of infantry advancing on the Boer left, slowly forced the enemy to retire. Had the infantry been able to move faster the Boers would have been enveloped. The last shot was fired at 7.30 p. m. This morning not a Boer was to be seen. The prisoners belonged to President Kruger's own commands.

DAISY AIR RIFLE

Death of Senator Lewin. Within three weeks of the completion of his 88th year, Senator Lewin passed away Sunday morning at his residence at Lancaster Heights. He contracted a cold a short time ago and, at his great age, was not capable of warding off its effects and bronchitis and pneumonia set in and proved fatal. The senator had been unwell for some few weeks and during the past week there has been much anxiety as to the outcome. He was reported better on Friday last but a turn for the worse came on Saturday and the battle for life was given over Sunday morning. Hon. James Davies Lewin was born at Womaston, Radnorshire, on April 1st, 1812. He was a descendant of the Lewins of that place, who were a family of private country gentlemen. He received his education at the Kingston, Wales, grammar school. He was but a young man holding a position in the Imperial customs when he came to St. John. He was located first at Chatham, Northumberland Within three weeks of the completion when he came to St. John. He was located first at Chatham, Northumberland county, where he married Sarah Ann, daughter of the late Sheriff Clarke, of Northumberiand, in 1832. He came to the quently he was collector at the outport of St. Andrews and at St. John's, New-

Twenty years thus passed and, upon the abolition of the department with which he was connected, the Imperial customs being transferred to the Dominion, he took up the insurance business in this city and prosecuted it for some years. The Bank of New Brunswick—then an in-stitution which had not attained the volstitution which had not attained the vol-ume of business which it now can boast— was at this time looking for a careful, shrewd business man who would accept the management of its transactions. Mr. Lewin's abilities and reputation made the selection fall upon him and, in 1855, he assumed the presidency and management of the bank. For over 30 years he guided of the bank. For over 30 years he guided its destinies as manager and president, retiring from the management some 14 years ago, on which Mr. George A.Schofield, the present able manager, succeeded him. Mr. Lewin has retained the presidency, being elected year by year, so that he has been at the head of the board of directors of the institution for almost half a century. The growth of the bank's business and the excellent position it holds among the financial concerns of the counamong the financial concerns of the country tell more than words could, of the ability with which he guided its affairs He was appointed a senator, under the Mackenzie government, on November 10, 1876. He was a regular attendant at the sessions and in fact his years did not prevent his being at the present setting of the Senate of Canada.

Some years ago, Senator Lewin, who previously lived in the city, and then in Fairville, bought the commodious house on Lancaster Heights where his long life ended. He there had a chance to satisfy a love for amateur gardening, which he carried on with much pleasure. Senator was a generous supporter. His son, Mr. Percy L. Lewin, who is in business in Shenactadie, N. Y., had been summoned home and arrived before his father passed . A daughter is Mrs. Elizabeth Mrs. Lewin died in 1882.
