BY J. E. U. N. Oh, mothers over all the earth!
To you I make my moan.
You have your burdens, all of you,
And each one bears her own;
But you around whose necks a child's arms
twine.
Pity me desolate: God took all mine!

All!

I know the most of you have graves,
Where some sweet flower lies
That drooped too soon; yet you may look
With loving, happy eyes
On others, playing in the spring sunshine.
O pray for me to-night: God took all mine!

Perhaps, losing many; you have kept,
Through God's kind mercy, one;
Kiss its sweet face in peace, and pray;
"God help her who has none!"
I had four, but the trailing mosses twine
Around his grave and theirs,—God took all

Not sparing one, although I prayed
So hard to keep this last—
My little Mary, my one sweet flow'r!
But 'tiss prayer gone past.
My God! not my will any more, but Thine;
All Thou hast done was best for me and mine!

Ave Maria

We beg leave to enter our protest against the action of the Government of this province in pandering to the greed and cupidity of the coterie of Toronto politicians by their action in regard to Queen's College and other seats of learning. Is Toronto University jealous of the prestige of Queen's College, enhanced as it has been of late by the interest of such men as Mr. Sandford Fleming and the personal labors of such men as Principal Grant? That Toronto does desire to centralize all the benefits of the expenditure of the That Toronto does desire to centralize all the benefits of the expenditure of the money taken out of the pockets of the people of Ontario, the whole province has long been well aware, and no portion of it more painfully so than Eastern Ontario; but the proposal to disturb the foundations of Queen's College—one of the few educational institutions of the foundations of Queen's College—one of the few educational institutions of the country about which the ivy green of historic associations has begun to cluster, is—aside from the fact that it is an outrage upon the people of Eastern Ontario—a piece of vandalism of which it is simply amazing to think that such men as Oliver Mowat and Christopher Fesser could think of and Christopher Fraser could think of perpetrating, much less of originating. Has Mr. Fraser ceased to regard the fact that he is the only representative of East-ern Ontario in the Provincial Cabinet? ern Ontario in the Provincial Caomer, Are there no hallowed associations in the foliage of the tree of knowledge in whose beneficent shade Mr. Mowat in his youth acquired those intellectual weapons by the selfish and mercenary instinct of the Toronto coterie paramount in this province? These questions will be answered forcibly and directly when the gentlemen who so coolly propose to disendow Queen's College, have again the occasion to consult the public conscience of Eastern Ontario. In the meantime it is satisfactory to note that Queen's College, in its determination to maintain its historia individuality is endorsed by toric individuality, is endorsed by that practical expression of the moral sentiment of this division of the province which will enable it to dispense with the aid which Toronto interests have induced and when I oronto incless have induced the provincial government to seek to withdraw, while our own University of Ottawa has treated the proposal of the Toronto people with a well-merited contempt. If the Ontario Government have no higher function than to tax the people of Ontario for the exclusive benefit of the of Ontario for the exclusive benefit of the provincial capital, people will soon be forced to the conclusion, to which many circumstances urge them, that it was a mistake to have preferred a federal to a legislative union in 1865. Mr. Mowat once acquired a strong claim to popular favor by propounding the principle that the money which was taken from the people by the government must be repeople by the government must be re-turned to the people in its expenditure. This action of his would seem to indicate that he is desirous of abandoning that claim to public favor. Our townsman Dr. Grant accurately voiced the sentiments Practical Advice to Young Fellows:

After claiming that Ontario should have more than one college, the speaker said that there was but one opinion in Ottawa regarding the grants, and that was that if Toronto University received state aid the same should be extended to all the colleges. After referring to foreign colleges, he alluded to the fact that Ottawa University, which has an able staff selected in France and some three hundred stu-dents, had been requested to enter the scheme, and that it paid no attention to the request, not even sending a delegate to Toronto. It was a serious consideration for the scheme not to receive the support of such an excellent institution. After referring to the position of Queen's with a head who was the Carlisle of today, and to her graduates throughout the country, the speaker said he felt sure that the scheme in a great measure would the scheme in a great measure would prove an abortion (Applause.) It could not be carried out in theory. The people down here were a strong, able, and prosperous people, and all they wanted was their rights (Cheers). How many women there are working to-day in various branches of industry—to say nothing of the thousands of patient housewives whose lives are an unceasing round of toil-who are martyrs to those complaints to which the weaker sex is liable. Their tasks are rendered doubly hard and irksome and their lives short-ened, yet hard necessity compels them to keep on. To such Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" offers a sure means of relief. For all female weaknesses it is a certain cure. All druggists.

It is a good rule to accept only such medicines as have, after long years of trial, proved worthy of confidence. When we went up to the hotel the landlord gave us a big room with three beds in it. A big negro brought the trunks up, and when he was ready to go the Judge called to him and began:

"Colored man, stand up! Now I want to say to you that I shall expect prompt service without fees. You have brought up my trunk; that's all right, it was your business to. I shall want water, and I may want a fire, and I shall probably want you to go errands, but if you even look fees at me I'll throw you out of the window."

Now is the time when an ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure in warding off colds and coughs. Colds, sore throats, etc., are not always the storm, Till the angel's call on the conject of His love.

Her body is laid in the silent grave, and the green grass will soon over it wave, and the Colds, sore throats, etc., are not always the results of exposure. Indigestion, constipation, greasy foods, lack of personal cleanliness, and ill-ventilation are each and all prolific sources of these maladies.

If you want to be somebody in this world you must begin by being yourself. Your great-grandfather can't help you, because he is dead, and this is a live world that wants living men. When I hear a man talking too much about his ancestors, I say, "There is a man who needs them." I have known men who were very proud of their ancestors whose ancestors would have been dismally ashamed of them. We care more for the pedigree of the horse we buy than for that of the man who sells them. After all, hard work is the greatest secret of success. It accomplished more than genius. There are white cows, but they are no more useful than the black ones. Hard work doesn't kill men, "Fun" kills men. The "good times" the boys have lay them out. The hard workers have no time for dissipation, so they live long. Man's work goes on for-ever, but every man doesn't go torever to do it. He doesn't do it all while he does stay here. A young man must do his best and hardest work now. When you get fifty dollars a line for your poetry, my boy, as Mr. Tennyson does, then you can afford to write as poor poetry as Mr. Tennyson does.

In Memoriam.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF YOUR DEAR CHILD, MAGGIE.

She was a rose that budded here on earth To blossom in a land beyond our birth, Far from the scorching sun and biting blast Of sin's domain, where our sad lot is east. She braved the tempests of this stormy life, Without a murmur in the painful strife; Walting, watching, praying until the end, Knowing that her course did heavenward wend.

Through many years of suffering and pain She did pass, an immortal crown to gain; Spent a blameless life in expectation, Bearing all with holy resignation.

Always in her sweet virgin mind did dwell A thoogat for Jesus, whom she loved so well. "All for Jesus," she oftentimes would say, And longed to be with Him day after day.

Such do the guardian angels greatly prize, And with Joy take them home to Paradise Where their yearning love may be satisfied. In the bright presence of Christ crucified.

Her soul was wafted to mansions of rest, To enjoy God in the home of the blest. He took her to that happy place above. E'er sin would stain the object of His love.

Friends do now mourn the loss of a dear child,
Who was always so patient, meek, and mild,
Sweet in disposition, to all so kind;
Endeared forever,—those she left behind.

When painting the pictures for the Capuchins, Murillo dwelt in their convent nearly three years, it is said, without once leaving it. He painted for these monks lit's worth a quarter to shave some of 'em." twenty pictures with life-size figures, and several smaller works. Seventeen of these are now in the Museum of Seville, for the monks had the wisdom to send their pic-tures to Cadiz for safe keeping before the "Plunder-master general of Napoleon," as Soult has been called, could reach them. When the French wars were ended, the not speak of them separately, but will say that the Madonna called "La Virgen de la Servilleta," or the Virgin of the Napkin, now in the museum, has this pretty story Murillo during his long service to the artist, and when the time came for them to be separated the cook begged the painter for a keepsake. The painter said he had no canvass left; the cook quickly ne nad no canvass lett; the cook quickly gave him a napkin and asked him to use that; with his usual good nature, Murillo assented, and soon painted this picture, which is now one of the famous art treasures of the world. It is not large, and represents the Virgin with the child Jesus, who leaves forward almost out of the signs forward almost out of who leans forward almost out of the pic ture, as if to welcome anyone who approaches it. It has a brilliant color, and so affects one that it is not easy to turn away from it .- Clara Erskine Clement in February St. Nicholas.

LONDON, ONT Apples as Food.

Apples have always been used for desert. Pliny tells us of 22 varieties cultiva-ted by the Romans; now we possess over ted by the Romans; now we possess over 2,000 kinds. As an article of food they rank with the potato, and on account of the variety of ways they can be cooked are preferred by many to the potato. As a substitute for pastry they are invaluable, feeding the brain as well as flesh producing, preventing constipation and acidity. A ripe, raw apple is digested in an hour and a half, while a boiled potato takes three, hours. Sweet apples, baked or stewed, should be used instead of the sour varieties. Every meal should have apples varieties. Every meal should have apple cooked in some form or other, and children should be allowed to eat as many as they want. Instead of using the quack nos-trums sold for the blood, and other patent medicines, use apples freely as food, and as far as possible in the place of potatoes, and the testimony of the medical pro-fession goes to prove the healthful quali-ties of this excellent fruit.

Kerosene for Cleaning Windows.

The great number of uses to which kerosene may be applied are daily multi-plying. It not only lights our homes with great brilliancy and very cheaply, but a friend of the writer, who has just had a new house made ready for occupancy, and was unable on account of the extreme cold to use water for cleaning windows has found that a cloth dipped in kerosen now in the museum, has this pretty story connected with it. The legend is that the cook of the convent grew very fond of Murillo during his long service to the artist, and when the time came for them to be separated the cook begged the painter for a keepsake. The painter said known that it was valuable for polishing tarnished furniture, and we have tested its efficacy in relieving severe rheumatic pains; so we shall cease to wonder at its astonishing adaptability to many other human wants.
