Finger-nail Facts.
 The bone-like skin on the tops of our fingers is one of the marks left from the time when men walked on all fours.
 The lower animals use their finger and toe coverings for a number of purposes—including climbing, the tearing of food, fighting with their enemies, and scratching in the ground.
 The farther man got from his original surroundings, when his finger-nails served a multitude of purposes for which he now uses other utensils, the less prominent they became. They are, however, still very useful in helping to make the tips of the fingers firm and in picking up small objects, though it is possible that the time may come when, through constant disuse, man may have neither finger nor toe nails.
 Evolution along precisely the opposite line—the use of the nails so that they became greatly enlarged—is to be noted in the case of the horse, which now walks on its "finger-nails."

His Hearing Restored.
 The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York City. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or perforated, or wholly destroyed naturally. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 437, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will be given a prompt reply. advt.

League of Nations.
 "Are you a British-born subject?" demanded the official at the passport office.
 "My mother was British—" began the applicant.
 "Yes, yes."
 "But she married a Frenchman."
 "Yes."
 "In Italy."
 "Yes; but where were you born?"
 "I was born on a ship" flying the Spanish colors whilst she was lying at anchor in Honolulu Harbor, but my parents died in Brazil when I was only four years of age, and I was adopted by a Chinaman, who brought me up in Russia—"
 "Well, he's—" began an official.
 "He's a bloomin' League of Nations!" exploded the official who had first spoken.

WINTER HARD ON BABY.
 The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is often so stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tactless Suitor.
 She was a large woman, and not what you might call handsome. But she was an heiress. Still, the designing youth should have been more diplomatic.
 "Miss Tubbs," he said, when he thought it was about time to bring matters to a head—"Sarah—for months past my thoughts and aspirations have been centred on one great object—"
 She smiled encouragingly.
 "Miss Tubbs—Sarah—need I say it? You are that great object!"
 "Sir!" And a few moments later the would-be suitor crept dejectedly from the house.

A smile day a will keep old age away.

Care of the Complexion.
 Don't bundle up your face every time you go out in the cold. Let it breathe if you want glowing cheeks and a skin of satiny texture. You know many secretions of the body are thrown off through the skin. If the skin isn't breathing as it should, it will look oily, enlarged pores will come, and unsightly blackheads will be the result.
 Now, don't let this happen. Every night thoroughly cleanse the face by massaging into the skin a good cream. Do it with vigor, too. Friction, you know, is good for the circulation. A special cream for this purpose not only gets every bit of dirt out of the pores, but also whitens the skin and softens it at the same time. It is a cream with lemon as its principal ingredient. If you have ever cleaned a straw hat with a lemon I don't need to say anything more about how well this cream does its work.
 Then there's a lotion to use that acts directly on the pores of the skin, and helps to make it breathe as it should. It's well to use it in the morning every few days. If you do, you are apt to be well pleased with your appearance the whole day through.
 Be sure to select the powder that isn't going to undo all the good work of the massage. Too often we carefully cleanse our skin, we stimulate it into activity, and then, just when we have it where it is beginning to feel and look well, we undo the whole thing by dusting on a coarse clogging powder. So choose a powder that will help along the good work—one that is healing and soothing and protective. There are such powders, several of them. One of them is best suited to the thin dry skin, the kind that wrinkles and ages early; while another is better for the thick oily skin that doesn't seem to hold the powder so well.

Rich, Red Blood Means Health
 Pale Cheeks and Bloodless Lips Are a Danger Signal.
 To be pale is no longer the fashion; to be languid is an affliction. To-day the most winsome girl is the one with the pink tinge of health in her cheeks, lips naturally red, and eyes sparkling with life. Add to this a quick, active step and everyone can tell the girl whose veins are full of the pure, rich blood of health. How different she appears from her ailing sisters, whose aching limbs and weak backs make them pale and dejected. Anaemia is the cause of so much suffering among girls and women that it cannot be too widely known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have transformed thousands of delicate, anaemic invalids into happy, healthy women. These pills help to put rich, red blood into the veins, and this blood reaches every part of the body, giving strength, rosy cheeks and brightness in place of weakness, prostrating headaches and a wretched state of half-health. Miss Edna E. Weaver, R.R. No. 1, Chippewa, Ont., says: "I was very much run down, weak, nervous and troubled with pains in the side. I tried different medicines but without any benefit until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I gained strength, had better appetite, slept better and the pain in my side disappeared. My health has since remained excellent and I advise any one troubled with anaemia, or weakness, to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."
 Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia and nervousness. Build up your blood and note how the purer and richer blood fights your battles against disease. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that with the observance of ordinary rules of health will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment now, or send to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent you postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Edison, Optimist.
 Though Edison is seventy-four, his reactions to the world of matter and the world of mystery are as scintillant as ever. He tells an interviewer that he can't give advice to young men on how to achieve success in business. "Who can?" he adds naively. But in a letter written August 9, 1917, he gave this recipe as the first rule of success for a young man: "Get a job and do more than he is expected to do." He has taken his own medicine, and in large doses. Mr. Edison has always worked without paying the slightest attention to the clock-hands. And he has done the unexpected. He has had, as Wordsworth said of Isaac Newton, "a mind forever voyaging through strange seas of thought alone." He went beyond the confines to lonely regions of pioneer research where none could help him. There is much for aspirant youth to ponder in Edison's words:
 "All I know is that if a man has reached the age of twenty-one and is dead mentally, no amount of advice, example or experience will ever change him in the slightest. If at some period between twelve and sixteen he can be interested in some subject and become enthusiastic, he will advance and become a high type of

The Outdoor Life of the Scout.
 The great increase of the number of Scoutmasters and other Scout officers during 1920 means a great stimulus to the outdoor activities of Canadian boys. It is probable that throughout the past year more boys have spent days and nights in the open than ever before in the history of Canada since pioneer days; and because Boy Scouts have taken this message of the outdoors into their homes, have conducted open-window campaigns and fresh-air crusades, it is likely that more grown-ups have breathed pure air during 1920 than has been the case since the time of our great-grandfathers.
 Boys have been taught to care for forests and to fight forest fires. They have gathered information for numerous departments of forestry. They have engaged in fights against insect pests and have made notes on different varieties of birds.
 Thousands of Canadian boys who a year ago or so were absolutely helpless in the open, can now be depended upon to find their way about, to cook their own meals, to choose a proper Camp site and to erect a comfortable shelter. Thousands of Canadian boys who formerly knew little or nothing of nature can now recognize different kinds of trees, and give the name of dozens of wild flowers; can easily recognize the more common birds, and know enough about mushrooms to avoid being poisoned.
 As a result of Boy Scout training, the energy of the Canadian boy has become a force of great value to the Dominion. More and more are recognizing its value, and are taking advantage of it to reduce loss by fire, control crowds and to teach the people the laws of safety and sanitation. Many lives are saved by Scouts who, because of their special training, because they carry a first-aid kit or a safety-first rope, are prepared to act when no one else is. The good which is accomplished by boys of this type, and the good done to the boys themselves through their activities, can hardly be over estimated. The Secretary in charge of the Ontario office of the Boy Scout Association at the corner of Bloor and Sherbourne Streets, Toronto, is always glad to provide full information about Scouting, and to help persons interested in securing the formation of local Troops.

The Subjugated Sex.
 "Of course there is no such thing as woman's supremacy," says a man whom the Cleveland Plain Dealer quotes.
 "Do you think not?" replied his friend. "From the time a boy sits under a street light, playing with toads, until he is blind and old and toothless he has to explain to some woman why he didn't come home earlier."
 The rubber industry has become an important one in Canada. Nearly $43,000,000 are invested in it, employing 11,500. The annual production value is $56,000,000.

BITS OF HUMOR
 FROM HERE & THERE
 Modern Youth.
 Aunt—"Now, dear, what was the date of William the Conqueror's great battle?"
 Gerald (who has learned to use the telephone)—"One, o-double-six, Haastings."
 What They Thought.
 The Sunday-school teacher had been reading about Canaan, the "land flowing with milk and honey."
 "Now," she said to the class, "what do you think of a land flowing with milk and honey would be like?"
 "Please, teacher," was the instant reply, "sticky!"
 A Gasoline Rainbow.
 A wide space in the fork of two roads used as a terminus for suburban buses was covered with a film of gasoline and water, with the usual mother-of-pearl effect.
 To Madge the spectacle was new. Looking up at the rank of buses, she exclaimed: "Oh, auntie, look! They have run over a rainbow!"
 Silver is Too Common.
 The profiteer's wife called on a specialist to attend her husband, who complained of huskiness in his throat.
 "I think I might paint the throat with nitrate of silver," said the doctor.
 "Oh, doctor," said the devoted wife, "expense is no object; please use gold."

"Cascarets" To-night For Constipation
 Just think! A pleasant, harmless Cascarets works while you sleep and has your liver active, head clear, stomach sweet and bowels moving as regular as a clock by morning. No griping or inconvenience. 10, 25 or 50 cent boxes. Children love this candy cathartic too.
 Large Total.
 The total number of British and Allied troops and prisoners of war carried by the British Ministry of Shipping between the Armistice and July 31, 1920, was 7,868,763, including 3,248,196 from France.

 Persuasive.
 The head of a big Chicago business house was extolling the salesmanship of a certain man in his employ.
 "I gather from what you say," observed a friend, "that this man is indeed persuasive in his methods."
 "Persuasive!" repeated the head of the house. "Why, my friend, that chap could sell the Cuban Government a snowplow!"

Surnames and Their Origin

CLARK
 Variations—Clarke, Clarkson, Cleary, O'Clery.
 Racial Origin—Norman-French, also Gaelic.
 Source—An occupation, also a given name.

In the Norman and the Gaelic divisions of this group of family names we have a vivid example of the romance of tongues. Clarke is an English name from the Latin through the Norman-French. Cleary is an Irish name. Yet both mean the same thing, and indeed there are many Clark and Clarke families whose names are simply the Anglicized versions of the old Celtic name.

Of course, originally, back somewhere in the dim, prehistoric past, there was a mother tongue which gave rise to the entire Indo-European family of languages (which includes the Latin, Greek, Teutonic, Celtic, Sanskrit and certain other ancient tongues of India) as distinguished from the Semitic tongues, for instance, of which examples are the Hebrew and the Arabic. In this prehistoric Indo-European tongue there must have been a word-root from which both the Latin and the Gaelic developed words with the same meaning, "clerk" or "scribe," notwithstanding the fact that the progenitors of the Gaelic and the Latin languages split off from one another long before the dawn of recorded history. The Latin word was "clericus" (of which the final "us" is merely a case ending). The Irish word was "cleirach."

The Latin word coming into English through the Norman-French, developed into a surname through its use as descriptive of an individual's occupation, as "Roger le Clerke," or "Clarke." The Irish word became first a given name, "Cleirach," and from this a family or clan name, as "O'Clairigh" and "MacCleirigh," whence developed the modern forms of O'Clery and Cleary, often changed to Clark and Clarke, in the north of Ireland particularly, where the British affiliations were stronger.

GREENE
 Variation—Green.
 Racial Origin—English.
 Source—A locality.

There are a number of possible explanations of the source of the family name of Greene, but all of them are rather unsatisfactory, with the exception of one.

It is possible that in some instances the name originated in a sobriquet of the same type as "Robert the Red," the "Black Douglas," and the like. But in judging the degree of probability of this we have two significant facts to guide us. Green is not likely to be the color of a man's complexion. Red, white, black, brown, pink and even yellow are all probabilities of descriptive value when applied variously to the description of hair, beard and complexion, but not green. Then we have modern analogy. Nicknames of color are very common to-day in rough-and-ready speech, and are quite popular among schoolboys. We have our "Reddies," "Blackies," "Pinkeys," "Whites" and the like, but who ever heard of a "Greeney"? The use of "green" to denote gullibility is a thoroughly modern usage, one unknown to medieval England.

There is a better chance of the name sometimes having originated from a man's custom of dressing in green, but even this is not so likely as the source from which the name is actually known to have sprung in literally hundreds of cases.

To-day the word "green" is often used to denote a grassy stretch of ground. The English of the eleventh and thirteenth centuries, the period in which a large proportion of the family names were formed, used it that way also. Therefore, such names as "Robert Atte Green," or "Hobert A' Green," "Atte Grene," or "De La Grene," of which the old records are full, would signify a person who lived at or near such a spot.
