Owing to the recent heavy rains much damage has been done along the Tobique River. Many million feet of lumber have gone adrift from the Fraser Lumber Co. and F. D. Sadler's mill it was feared at one time that the mill at Plaster Rock, also the station, bridge and other buildings would be swept away. Acres of land was under water, destroying the crops on the lowlands, all this being a great loss to the people of the Tobique as a great many men were employed in the mill and the loss of the lumber means a loss of summer's work in the timber business. The Tobique Valley Railway has been in such bad condition that no trains have passed over it since Tuesday.

The Alpine Club of Canada

Living Room Alpine Club, at Banff.

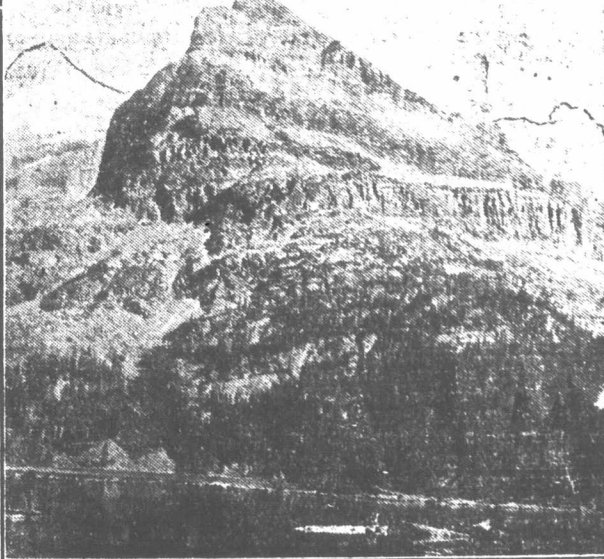

Of all the trails, the mountain ones are most alluring and each year they call to the members of the Alpine Club of Canada who held their annual camp this season at Lake O'Hara. The Camp, known as the "O'Hara Meadows Camp" was an open Alpine Meadow at an altitude of 6,600 feet above sea level, away with mountain blooms.

The Lake, an Alpine gem, in whose bright surface, with witchery of reflection, towering mountains are held captive, with the bright green of the forests that surround the shore.

This Alpine realm in the heart of the Rockies, a realm of crags and canyons, of encircling and overhanging peaks, has a variety of charms that are never exhausted. The mountains, ranging from ten thousand to eleven thousand, five hundred feet above sea level, include the matchless picture of Lefroy glacier, the great white peaks of Victoria, the massive Cathedral Crags, Stephen, Odaray and other giants of the Rockies. Each new view beckoned to fresh delights. Below Odaray is the cabin built by the Swiss guides in which there is always a camper's cot.

In 1909 the Alpine Club of Canada opened its club house headquarters at Banff and held a special annual camp at Lake O'Hara. It was unique in that an invitation to attend this camp, as guests of the Alpine Club of Canada, was sent to the president and members of the Alpine Club of England. A party of 20 accepted the invitation. The guests included mountaineers, well known in many parts of the world. It is interesting to note that in 1920, the Alpine Club of Canada became affiliated with the "Alpine Club" of England, the oldest and most famous of all Alpine clubs.

The annual camp is for the purpose of enabling members of the club to meet together and the great hills of Canada, and to assist graduating members to qualify for active membership. Those who have made an ascent of at least 2,500 feet, are eligible for active membership. Those distinguished in literature, art or science, relating to mountains, are given certain recognition.

At Lake O'Hara.

The objects of the club are the promotion of scientific study and exploration of Canadian Alpine regions, the cultivation of art in relation to mountain scenery, the education of Canadians to an appreciation of their Canadian heritage, the encouragement of mountain craft and the opening of new regions as national playgrounds. The preservation of the natural beauties of the mountain places and of the fauna and flora in their habitat, is promoted.

The Club House of the Alpine Club of Canada, opened in 1909, is situated on the slope of Sulphur Mountain, 300 feet above the town of Banff. Spread in vast panorama, are the deep river-threaded valleys of the Bow and Spray and the forest clad mountains beyond with their snowy peaks glistening in the sun. From the broad verandas of the Club House, nature seemed one harmonious tune.

The Club House is replete with interest. Bowls and baskets of mountain flowers were in attractive arrangement. The fine pictures of Canadian mountains were worthy of study as well as interesting photographs of well known mountaineers of Europe and Canada. The group of men and women who founded the Alpine Club of Canada, are pictured, at their first meeting in Winnipeg in 1906. Included are Professor Coleman of Toronto and Mrs. Parker of the Winnipeg "Free Press." There is a picture of Sir James Outram, the first man to climb Mount Assiniboine, the Matterhorn of Canada, and many others of interest. The stone fireplace in the spacious living room was built in memory of William S. Vaux, a student of glaciers who died in 1908. The drinking fountain in the hall was given by the late Edward Whymper, the hero of the Matterhorn—in its basin, in a bed of moss, grows the little yellow mountain rose.

A treasure of the Club House is a worn copy of the 1917 Constitution of the Alpine Club of Canada, framed, hanging on the walls of the library. Under is the caption, "Found in a German dug-out when the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge."

A BUSINESS COUPE OF STEEL

Dodge Brothers offer to the business public of America an entirely new principle in Coupe body construction.

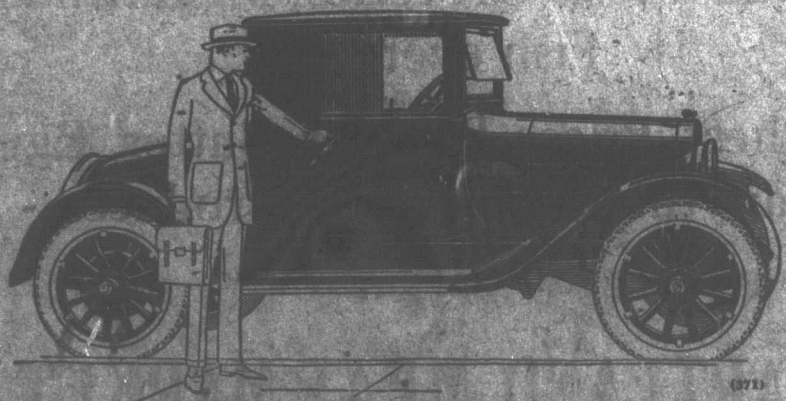

From framework to window mouldings the body is built of steel. It is the first all-steel closed car ever marketed. This design anticipates every possible requirement of commercial travel. It insures unusual quietness—unusual grace—unusual stamina. It has made it possible to give the Coupe that same lustrous baked-on enamel finish for which Dodge Brothers open cars have long been famous.

The upholstery is of genuine leather—leather that will wash and wear. The seat is wide and comfortable. Carrying compartments are accessible and spacious. The car is equipped with a heater, dome light, window levers, windshield cleaner, cord tires, Yale door locks, and every other appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and protection.

Built inside and out to withstand the wear and tear of everyday use, it retains the same lightness and beauty of line which you are accustomed to look for in Dodge Brothers cars.

It is the Business Coupe which business people the world over have been expecting—from Dodge Brothers.
