THE RUIH OF IRELAND.—On Saturday, an aged and respectable tenant farmer from the West of Bandon entered the shop of Mr Hawkesworth jeweller, on the Grand Parade, and offered to sell twenty guineas as old gold, they having been refused at the bank. In the course of the dealing the farmer remarked that he had a considerable loss by them, as each of them had cost him 25s. 9d. "Then," said Mr Hawkesworth, "you must have had them a long time."

"Wisha," replied the farmer, "I have them and more like them, these forty years." "How many more have you?" was the next question. "About four hundred," was the reply. "Oh," said Mr Hawkesworth, "you have lost £1,000." "Terra, how?" was the inquiry. "Why if you had them out at interest for the forty years, you would have made that much by them by this time."

"Made, do you say," was the rejoinder of the farmer; "Why, man," he continued, "I am longer in the world than you, and I know that interest money was the ruin of Ireland. Numbers of gentlemen around me were ruined by interest, it was well I wasn't bothered by it—I lent out some money myself, and they d—d—I a halfpenny of interest or more; I ever saw again and the man I lent it to was broke. There was interest for you! I promise you I've lived too long to have anything again to do with interest."

Argument was unavailing; the farmer could not be persuaded there was any other use to be made of money than to keep it in a box; and being now asked why he parted with his gold, he said that hearing all the country talking of 'Digging,' and that gold was getting so plenty that they would be making spades of it in some time to come, he determined to try what he would get for twenty pieces before he disposed of the rest, and that he would keep his money in future in the Bank of Ireland notes, as no one ever yet heard of their finding notes in the ground and each pound notes would be worth 20s always.—[Cork Constitution.]

PROGRESS UNDER DIFFICULTIES.—The establishment of the Royal Society was opposed because it was asserted that 'experimental philosophy was subversive of the Christian faith; and the readers of Disraeli will remember the telescope and microscope were stigmatised as 'atheistical inventions which perverted our organ of sight, and made everything appear in a false light.' So late as 1806, the Anti-vaccination Society denounced the discovery of vaccination as 'the cruel despotic tyranny of forcing cow-pox misery on the innocent babes of the poor—a gross violation of religion, morality, law, and humanity.' Learned men gravely printed statements, that vaccinated children became 'ox-faced,' that abscesses broke out to 'indicate sprouting horns,' that the countenance was gradually 'transmuted into the visage of a cow, the voice into the bellowing of bulls'—that the character underwent 'strange mutations from quadruped sympathy.' The influence of religion was called in to strengthen the prejudice of ignorance, and the operation was denounced from the pulpit as 'diabolical,' as a 'tempting of God's providence, and therefore a heinous crime,' and its abettors were charged with sorcery and atheism. When fanatics were first introduced to assist in winning corn from the chaff by producing artificial currents of air, it was argued, that 'winds were raised by God alone, and it was irreligious in man to attempt to raise wind for himself and by effort of his own.' A route has just been successfully opened by Panama between the Atlantic and Pacific. In 1588, a priest named Acosta wrote respecting a proposal then made for this very undertaking, that it was his opinion that 'human power should not be allowed to cut through the strong and impenetrable bounds which God has put between the two oceans, of mountains and iron rocks, which can stand the fury of the raging seas. And, if it were possible, it would appear to me very just, that we should fear the vengeance of Heaven, for attempting to improve that which the Creator, in his Almighty will and providence, has ordained from the creation of the world. When forks were first introduced into England, some preachers denounced their use 'as an insult on Providence, not to touch our meat with our fingers.' Many worthy people had great scruples about the emancipation of the negro, because they were the descendants of Ham, on whom the curse of perpetual slavery had been pronounced. Many others plead against the measure for the emancipation of the Jews, that the bill is a direct attempt to contravert the will and word of God, and to revoke his sentence upon the chosen but rebellious people.—[Abridged from the Scottish Review.]

The Wonder of the World! Devines' Compound Pitch Lozenge.

THE Great Remedy is at last discovered, and COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, OBSTINATE BRONCHITIS AND CONSUMPTION have lost their terrors, and vanish as we if by magic before this Sovereign remedy. Was it ever before known that, Hopeless cases of Consumption were cured for less than 5s? Truly, if any individual is to be pitied, and needs sympathy, it is the consumptive, always expecting to get well, and yet the painful evidence of decay almost "makes the inner soul shrink with the outer flesh."

"Some bloom as roses bloom, And live as roses live, A single morning space!"
