Grit and Enterprise That Deserve Encouragement

There are frequent references made to the neglected wealth of our waters, wealth that could be obtained by the means and equipment which we possess, if only they were applied to the best account and if our faith in the fisheries was stronger. At last night's dinner at Donovan's, Sir Michael Cashin referred to the falling off in recent years of the prosecution of our fisheries, our chief industry, and from knowledge gained by practical experience he proved conclusively that the resources of the sea were sufficient to restore to Newfoundland her former prosperity, to place her in the front line of the British dependencies, and to lift from her shoulders her great burden of debt.

We know that this is true; we also know that the prosecution of this great industry is the natural bet of Newfoundlanders, and yet the tendency is to desert the fisheries for other occupations when opportunity offers. It is not because the supply of fish has been depleted, nor because the physical hardships inseparable from the calling are any greater to-day than they were in the past. In fact they have been considerably mitigated, and certainly the physique of our fishermen has not deteriorated. Fish is required abroad now in even greater quantity than in the past, and in the face of such circumstances, surely there is urgent need on the part of the authorities, business men, and producers to give this problem of ours first consideration.

It is gratifying to be able to refer to an actual case of what can be accomplished even under present conditions by energy, enterprise and determination. We refer to the successful prosecution of the fishery this year by Captain George Moulton of the schooner "James Arnold," which is a record of which he may well feel proud. Fitting out from the firm of W. W. Wareham & Sons of Harbour Buffett early in the season for the Bank fishery, he was soon back with 450 quintals. In a second voyage he secured 750 quintals, and on the third trip, 300. As soon as possible he was away again, this time bound for the Labrador, and he has just returned with a load of about 1,000 qts. We cannot state whether this constitutes a record for a vessel of the class of the "James Arnold," and it is immaterial, but it stands out as a fine achievement, an excellent testimony to the grit and tenacity of both master and crew, and a practical rebuff to those would lead us to believe that Newfoundland must look elsewhere to retrieve her fortune.

This country possesses an army of men of such sterling worth. Reverses do not daunt them, as witness the case of the fisherman who for ten long years was dogged by misfortune every season before his luck turned. Instances without number of such persistence might be quoted, instances too of accomplishments that would make a fitting subject for an epic. But these men are not seeking fame. All that they ask is that their labour will provide the frugal comforts required by their families and the wherewithal to enable them to carry on.

New War Memorial

A war memorial, the work of Mair's Marble Works, has been completed for the people of Port Blandford, to be erected to the memory of the men of that place who laid down their lives in the Great War. The memorial is a splendid piece of workmanship, and reflects great credit on the designers. It bears the following inscription:

WAR MEMORIAL.

Erected by the people of Port Blandford in memory of their glorious soldiers, who died in the Great War.
 No. 2693 Pte. Alexander William Penny; Killed in action at Monchy.
 No. 3484 Pte. John Sulley; Died of Wounds in France.
 No. 1727 Pte. Charles A. Mesher; Killed in action at Monchy.
 "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."
 It is now being made ready for shipment, and the unveiling will take place at Port Blandford in the very near future.

The Belvedere Orphans

This is the last opportunity to again call attention to the collection to be taken up at the Roman Catholic Churches to-morrow in aid of the Belvedere Orphans. Too much cannot be said of the good work accomplished by those talented Nuns who have made it their lifework to foster and educate little ones who have been deprived of their parents. It must take a vast amount of money to finance an institution which houses nearly two hundred children beside the regular staff, and the Mother Superior out there must have a busy time throughout the year financing their requirements. Our Catholic citizens have always felt it their duty to relieve the Sisters of all monetary worry, and it goes without saying that when to-morrow's collection is counted it will turn out to be a record one. Every dollar given to this collection is well and wisely spent, and those of us who have families and homes of our own to finance know too well how very many dollars are required to properly carry out the work assigned to those good Sisters.—adv. 11

Committed to Supreme Court

The preliminary enquiry into the charge of murder preferred against Alonzo Russell concluded this morning before Judge Morris when the depositions of Drs. Anderson and Macpherson were read over and certified. About a dozen witnesses gave evidence in the enquiry. The accused when asked by the Judge had nothing to say and was committed to the Supreme Court for trial.

Making Alterations at Post Office

A staff of carpenters are now busily engaged making some alterations on the second floor of the General Post Office. A portion of the partition has been torn down on the eastern end of the building to enlarge the Money Order Department. The Cashiers' and Accountants' quarters will be moved to the front of the building, and the Registration office will in future be conducted on the ground floor. The caretaker's quarters will be removed elsewhere, and will be fitted up as an office for the Inspectors and other officials.

Auctioneering Firm

REMOVE TO NEW PREMISES.

Those who attended the Auction Sale in the spacious premises in the Morris Building, recently taken over by the firm of Fearn and Barnes, were led in their appreciation of the excellent arrangements made for the exhibition of goods on sale, the manner in which the business was conducted and the splendid quality and variety of the articles from which to obtain bargains. This enterprising firm has rapidly secured the goodwill of the public since it started in business, and the keynote of its success has been Service. With the new facilities at their disposal we speak for this enterprising firm an increasing share of the patronage of the public in the future.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Sept. 26.—The weather grown mighty cold, and some rain falling; so my wife would have me remain in doors, since I am taken with a great cold of the head. This, however, I would not do, since it is better to suffer from cold longer than to listen to her complaints all the day. But Lord, how many others do also suffer from cold and poor Pepys the worst of all. Not able to speak almost, and sneezing perpetually. He tells me he did see some fine snow fall this morning, at which I ask him if he had overdone himself with hot portions for his cold since I did never hear of snow in September. Little news anywhere, and seemingly no interest in the by-election at Bonaville, albeit I am told the Opposition will contest it. Divers names are mentioned as their candidates but none that I can believe. The election, I learn, like to be held in October, and, if this be true, the proclamation should be made by the end of next fortnight. This day to buy myself a shot gun against a shooting trip which I hope to make soon, but my wife thinks I am not safe to be trusted with a gun and prays me not to go.

Child Welfare

HEALTHY BABIES.

"An ounce of Prevention is worth a Pound of Cure."
 Clinics—Our Clinic attendance this week was a record one; mostly new admissions. This no doubt is due to the helpful propaganda of Baby Week. The West End Clinic is becoming very popular to the mothers in that District, and despite the showers on Friday we had a very large attendance. Our Dental Clinic re-opened on Monday last and was very largely attended.
 Wembley Photographs—Our baby photographs have arrived from the Wembley Exhibition. Mothers who sent photos of babies to Wembley can have them by calling at the Community Nurses' Rooms, 268 Duckworth Street.

Burglar Rounded Up

Yesterday evening constables Bennett and Walsh arrested an 18 year old laborer named Whiteway on a charge of breaking into the store of Chas. Kelly Gower Street. The prisoner admitted his guilt and also confessed to two other robberies. One committed in August the other during the present month. In the former case Whiteway found himself in the bedroom of the son of a well known citizen, but extricated himself by enquiring if his father was at home. The young man who was asleep when the intruder entered found his watch missing when he went to dress himself.

The accused, who is an old offender, having served various sentences for larceny, consented to a summary trial and entered a plea of guilty on all three charges. He was sent down for six months with hard labor.

Ceremony at National Memorial

An impressive ceremony took place at 11 a.m. to-day when governor Prescott Baker on behalf of Rotary International placed a beautiful wreath on the war memorial in memory of the deceased veterans of all the Newfoundland forces. Governor Baker spoke briefly before placing the wreath, after which vice-president Crocker recited the G. W. V. A. Ritual and all stood with bowed heads for the period of one minute. Following the ceremony Lt. C. F. Garland thanked the Rotarians for the kind thought which prompted their action. He pointed out that the memorial was erected on a site which had been the cradle of the Empire and reminded his hearers that to-day is the 9th anniversary of Cambrai, in which battle so many Newfoundlanders paid the Supreme Sacrifice.
