wention at Harriston, which neminated Mr. Robert McKim as the candidate of the party at the forthcoming election. From the first the feeling was strongly in favour of Mr McKim, who was regarded as the strongest and most available candidate, and who from his past services as a faithful representative of the Riding, had a strong claim on the electors. We are heartily glad that the Convention came to this decision. During the seven years that Mr. McKim represented this Riding he was a most active and valuable member, and tour knowledge made many sacrifices of his time and means in the discharge of his duty, and in order to further the interests of his constituents. So attached were they to him that not a few blamed him for resigning his position as member, and accepting the nomination as a candidate for the Dominion Parliament in the Centre Riding. But we must remember that, in a sense, he was urged to accept that nomination against his will, and that it was made and announced throughout the Riding before he was sware of it. Under the incumstances he left himself in the hands of his friends, willing to dwhatever was best for the party. We think, therefore, that he should receive all credit for his patriotic spirit, and that now, when he is free once more to accept the nomination from his friends in the North Riding, they should rally round him as one man, determined to put him in his old position.

If you want to keep your money then don't go to Day's Bookstore, for Day has determined to put him in his old position.

By the Redistribution Act, Amaranth and Luther have been taken from this Riding, which leaves the Reform element stronger than under the old arrangement. Still, Reformers must not rest on their cars, and say that all is now safe. Palmerston, recently incorporated, will form part of the Riding, and the Wallace lambs in that section are not all dead yet. It behoves our friends, therefore, to give instant and vigorous aid to Mr. McKim, to perfect the Reform organizations in all the municipalities, and to enter on the canvass with spirit and determination. We all know that Mr. McKim will do his share, and more than his share, of the work. But cooperation can do a great deal also. We feel assured that he will have this, and that every Reformer will do his part as though he was working for humself.

That Envious Old Neighbour Again!
To the Editor of the Mercury.

Dran Sin,—I take the liberty of again trespassing on your space. On this occasion I rise to defend my own character, as "Old Neighbor" has chosen to call in question the truth of my assertions in reference to the general success of Mr. J. Stirton as a farmer.

Now, sir, as I make no pretension whatever as a critic or censor, nor yet to the learning and courtesy of "Old Neighbor," I am forced, reluctantly, to pass over a large portion of his letter, as his reasoning is too profound for a simple-uninded individual to comprehend; but confine myself to the charges of untrufulness contained therein, and which I am anxious to refute. I said before, most of Mr. Stirton's business transactions were satisfactory. Will "Old Neighbor" point out one single instance, which he can record as a failure?

"Old Neighbor" exhibits a sad defici-and the control of the can record as a failure?

"Old Neighbor" exhibits a sad deficiency some place, and which the "best teachers cannot supply." in expecting success in every instance. Should every speculation prove successful in farming and mereantile life, people would soon become rich. Profit and loss would no longer be taught in the Academies, as the necessity for that sheet would, in our book-keeping, cease to exist.

In conclusion, I may state I am still propared to substantiate my first statement, but not till a more important end is to be attained than merely gratifying the meddlesome curiosity of a predjudiced "Old Neighbor."

Thanking you for your forbearance thus far.

I am, Mr. Editor, Yours Truly, VERITAS.

Liquor at Auction Sales.

To the Editor of the Mercury,
SIR,—Allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to make a few remarks, in reference to the use of intoxicating liquor at auction sales of farm stock, &c. On Monday, the 7th inst., I attended one of these sales, at which a well-known Guelph gentleman officiated as auctioneer, and was very much pleas-ed with the way in which things were conducted, it being the only sale I ever attended where there was no liquor of conducted, it being the only sale a very attended where there was no liquor of any kind; and at the same time every thing that was sold went for the very highest value.

Now, sir, I think a man who calls a sale, and carries it through in that manner deserves great credit for the example shown, for there are many who think that a sale cannot be carried on successfully without continually passing around the whiskey bottle until the buyers become intoxicated, and as a general thing, as far as I know, one-third of the people who attend these sales go for the express purpose of getting a few horns of this accursed poison; but in that farm house, hanging upon the wall, incased in a neat frame, was what I took to be a form of the Sons of Temperance pledge, which told the story, "No liquor here now."

Now, as the country is being agitated by the liquor question, would it not be well if farmers who intend selling off their stock by action would try this—"No liquor system." The idea that a man will not give as much for anything he wants to buy when he is sober as he will when he is drunk is to say the least, preposterous.

CROUP.—This disease is caused by the ormation of a false membrane lining the wind-pipe, and obstructing the passage of the air, and is known by the shrill, croup-sounding ough and rattling in the throat. This membrane must be removed by expectoration. Take a double dose of the Balsam every ten or fifteen minutes, which will reduce it, after taking a few doses. The Balsam will and has saved the lives of thousands of children attacked with Croup, where it has been taken in season.
