Something About the Basis of Most Good Perfumes.

Most Good Perfumes.

Tachienlu, which derives its importance from being what is called China's gateway to Tibet, is one of the principal musk markets of the world. During the past few years a large firm with headquarters in Paris stationed a representative at Tachienlu for the sole purpose of buying musk. It is very difficult to obtain pure musk, and every pod has to be carefully examined. While musk is exported at several points along the Tibetan border, the best quality is obtained at Tachienlu. Three thousand pounds of musk on an average are shipped every year from Chungking, and it is estimated that fully half of this amount passes through Tachlienlu.

Most of the musk is sent to France where it is employed in the manufacture of parfure of the sone of the preference.

developed bullet proof cloths or breast-plates, and in spite of much advertising their suggestions were never adopted, much to the surp. (29) of civilians. The reason is very sim-ple. If the bullet is stopped its energy is transmitted to the shield, which in turn delivers a blow to the soldier's body. The severity of the blow depends upon the velocity of the bullet, and if the shield is very light the chest wall receives more or less injury. In order to be effective the shield must woigh at least ten pounds. It is a repetition of the old circus trick of striking with a sledgehammer an anvil on a man's chest. If in place of the anvil we substitute a thin metal plate the blow would be fatal, and the sledgehammer has about the same energy as a bullet at high velocity. If the shield weighs but six or eight pounds the blow of the bullet almost the blow of the blow of the bullet almost the blow of the b knocks a man down. ## GERMAN FINANCE

The minuteness and detail of Ger man misrepresentations are quit extraordinary, and one is not sur-prised to find that they have taken considerable trouble to mislead the public on this continent into the be public on this continent into the be-lief that the condition of their national finances is in some way superior to that of the British Empire. In point of fact the two positions are scarcely a subject for comparison, but are clearly a matter of contrast. German methods of war finance are curiously like the conditions.

curiously like their conduct of the war itself. They are based on the sup-position that Germany must win. If and when she is defeated, and defeated she assuredly will be, and instead of receiving was indemnities sh has to pay them, the financial confu-sion cannot fail to be appalling. From the days when certain of our early English kings "clipped" the coinage to make their store of gold and silver go further, debasement and inflation of currency have been the familiar incidents of clever but desperate national finance.

By the exercise of great pressure the exercise of great pressure the German Government have accumulated in the Reichsbank some £120,000,000 of gold. This seems to have been skilfully and effectively done, and undoubtedly there is extremely little gold in Germany apart from the well advantage dates. from this well advertised store. But of the Riechsbank notes alone there are issued some £270,000,000, and in addition to that an unknown amount of notes issued by the Government against which no gold at all is held. This is complete mobilization dear to the German mind and terribly effective for the first blow, but leaving no

For example, the forcing of all the gold into the hands of the official bank, the entire drainage of all the ordinary repositorics of gold coin, has two important effects. First of ail it gives an impressive sound to the bankers represented and the Reichsbank's reserve. In the second place it deprives the new paper cur-rency of competition with coin. In that way, if the matter is conducted with the skill of which German organeffects of an exclusively paper cur-rency is that so far as foreign ex-change is concerned German bills are at a discount of some 15 per cent. Here's the distinction between the vords lonely and lonesome, although often they are used in the same sense. The difference between the words is persesion.

The difference between the words is better illustrated in the following: A man is sitting in the library of his home, both lonely and lenesome. The telephone rings. Friends invite him to join a merry party then in progress a few miles away. In order to reach this party he must mount his horse and traverse a lonely and dangerous road. In this journey he is lonely, for the road is lonely, but he is not the least hit lonesome, for his thoughts are pleasant in anticipation of the enloyable evening he is about to spend with gay comrades.—St. Louis Post-Despatch.

WORK OF THE CRUISERS.

Varied Functions of the "Police-

The cruiser in time of war has to perform perhaps more varied runctions than any other class of warship in the fleet. It is her business to stop and fight when the circumstances are, from ner point of view, favorable and also to possess a high speed to enable her to run away when the position is unfavorable. The cruiser is admirably termed the policeman of the fleet, for her capacities of mobility and long passage making without replenishing her busikers are her chief attributes.

Although the introduction of wireless telegraphy has somewhat lessened the responsibility placed upon the cruiser for scouting work, she is still regarded as the "eyes of the fleet."

For the object of scouting work there is a special type of scouting cruiser in existence.
