It is not a usual condition of affairs to have fillies constituting an important factor in the decision of the King's Plate, or, in fact, of any other distance race at this season of the year. From the time Shimonese won last year, back to 1902, when Shimonese's mother won, no filly had been successful in the Plate, and only Flyin-Amber and Bellcourt had even been in the first two in that period. Yet the colors of the Valley Farm owe all their success in the Plate to horses of the weaker sex. It was the Butterscotch that earned the first guineas for the late Mr. Hendrie, and . when he repeated it was with another filly Lyddite. The establishment carried on by his sons, Hon, John S. and Mr. George M. Hendrie, scored year with Lyddite's daughter, so that the fortunes of the brown and vellow have not suffered by having to depend on fillies for the Plate. In twenty years only four of that sex have won, and three of them were from the Valley Farm, the other being Mr. Seagram's Bon Inc. Though the chief; reliance of the stable this year is not on a filly since the colts Parmer and

FROLIC There is still another filly to be seriously considered in this year's Plate. Like Jane Shore, the bearer of Mr. Robt. Davies' canary and black jacket is of unimpeachable breeding, and with a brief racing experience that demonstrated her

Mr. Seagram's most prominent representative in this year's race for the guineas of the King is not without experience in that field. Last year he raced with Fort Garry the first three furlongs in the Plate course in 35 seconds, and the half-mile in .48 4-5. That ghowed he had speed but it was a mile showed he had speed, but it was a ruinous pace, with such a stayer as Shimonese waiting behind to take advantage of it. Of course, when the front-runners defeated each other she went on to victory, but Tollendal outstayed all the others, and finished second. He came nome in the same place in his only other m appearance at the races, when he was next to his stable companion, Courtier, in the Breeders' Stakes a few days later. The Seagram pair had no difficulty over-coming the opposition in this race, which was composed of Fort Garry and Desert Star. Though still a maiden, and eligible for the Plate, Tollendal added $900 to his owner's account by the two second moneys in these races. His dam, the Emperor mare Delicia, was added to the Waterloo establishment when with foal
