CANADIAN FIRMS SUPPLY FOOD TO TRENCHES. MONTREAL FIRM SHIPPING REGULARLY TO FRANCE.

While many Canadian firms are busy manufacturing shells and army equipment for the Allies, it is interesting to note also that Canadian firms are shipping food products to the front. One Montreal firm is regularly shipping huge quantities of its product to France, the bulk of which is being consumed in the trenches. Recently over half a million tins of Paris Pate have been supplied to France and steady progress continues to pour in. The firm is receiving letters from Canadian soldiers saying how much they enjoy it.

Paris Pate is evidently a favorite in the trenches because it is nutritive, can easily be carried and is cooked, ready to eat.

Pleasing Program Delights Large Audience in St. Andrew's Hall.

Among the many June pupils recitals, a notably artistic event was the program given last night before a large audience in St. Andrew's Hall by two advanced pupils of Miss Nora Little, Miss Edith Petherston, soprano, and William A. Rosseter, baritone, assisted by Miss Mary Lyon of Detroit, reader, and Elmer Petherston, flautist. The latter obligato is something of a novelty in London recitals, it proved a charming acquisition to the program. Miss Petherston's numbers, cleverly played as it was by her brother, Elmer Petherston. A decided acquisition it also was to the duets sung by the two pupils, and her idea of interpretation well developed. Her winsome personality, combined with her real ability, established her as a favorite with her audience, and her scores were demanded after each number.

Mr. Rosseter also had a most gratifying reception, his rendering of the aria from Elijah, "It is Enough," and also his other difficult numbers reflecting greatest credit both on himself and Miss Little. His voice is a pleasing, resonant baritone. One of his most appreciated efforts was the Faust number (found) "Avant de Quitter ce Lieu."

Miss Mary Lyon of Detroit, who is deeply and favorably known throughout Canada as a reader, quite captivated with her charming personality, her musical voice and her entire sincerity.

Her reading of a heart-stirring act from Bayard Veiller's celebrated play, "Within the Law," evoked the highest imaginable praise from the audience. Her voice for a full minute after she closed before the storm of applause broke.

Very happy was the introduction of three or four selections with musical setting, the accompaniment, by the Misses Lyon herself. These included a stirring patriotic poem, "Union Jack," a bit of negro philosophy, "Don't Be What You Ain't," and "De Hell of St. Michel" (Drummond), to the accompaniment of chimes and the Mendelssohn spring song.

The galaxy of celebrated composers represented on the program it was interesting to note the name of Genia Branscombe, a Canadian who has won for herself laurels as a song writer.

Beautiful bouquets were showered upon Miss Petherston and Miss Lyon, and also upon the artist teacher and accompanist, Miss Little, who received many congratulations upon the success of the evening.

FLORISTS WILL CONVEY IN LONDON IN AUGUST

Ontario flower growers, lovers and exhibitors will gather in London for the annual gathering of florists, which, at a meeting of growers held in the board rooms last night, was scheduled for this city on August 4, 5 and 6.

Plans for the convention are still in embryo form, but it has been decided that one of the largest public halls in the city will be secured, and leading speakers on horticultural subjects will be invited to give up-to-the-minute lectures along lines of interest.

In addition, a half day, or probably more, will be set aside for a picnic at Port Stanley, when the entire delegation will be taken for a trip to London's lake resort.

E. B. Hamilton is chairman of the local committee and W. Gammage secretary. Frank Chiesman will look after the exhibits which, it is expected, will be the feature of the convention.

INTERESTING NOTE FROM MISSING WATERFORD MAN

Was Simply Injured in Head By Bursting Shell While Walking.

Watford, June 22.—The following letters from Capt. T. Swift, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Swift, Watford, received them yesterday, show that he was simply injured in the head by a bursting shell while walking.

Dear People,—We are still in the same spot as we landed in on June 1, 1915. We are expecting to move again tonight or tomorrow. I had a close call yesterday while in the city of which I am only now two miles from here. I went in with Mr. Wilkinson, my company commander, and lost track of him in the crowd, meeting Capt. Hahn shortly after. We were walking down the street when we heard two shells whistling, and they burst down the street in front of us a few hundred yards. We stopped a minute to figure out what was going on, and one hit the top corner of the building immediately across the street in front of us with a terrific roar. The bricks and glass came tumbling around us. The force of the explosion knocked us over against the wall and a small splinter of shell went through my chest, dating me for a minute. We went into the house, and in a few minutes felt all O. K. again, and beat it back to camp. I had a plaster on my chest, but I had to go on my way back, I assure you. It seemed so ridiculous to be hit so far away in the city, but I am a lucky fellow, when I have been right up there and never been touched for several weeks.

June 6.—Went to church parade at 10:50, which was held in an orchard at Battalion Building. The doctor took the bandage off my head. It is quite alright now. The doctor says I am a lucky fellow, when I have been right up there and never been touched for several weeks.
