were scored by either team after the change in hurlers.
Stratford got to Pring in the first and gathered enough runs to win. With two gone they slammed in two singles. Then Jamieson leaned on it for a three-bagger, scoring on Edwards' single. They added another in the fourth. London rapped two in the second and one in the fifth. Pring pulled himself out of a nasty hole in the second, when with three on bases Moore popped a foul fly to Armstrong. Likewise London had three on in the fourth, but Southcott hit into a double play.

Harry Owens skipped the high rink at yesterday afternoon's presidents' and vice-presidents' opening tournament at the Thistle Club, winning both games, with the Thistle Club, winning both games, with a plus of 17.

Ideal weather made the opening day a feature one, and veteran members of the club recalled that not for several years had such excellent weather greeted the opening of the season. The greens were in excellent condition.

Results were as follows:

bad bet to take the short odds in a wager that Tommy Loughran will fight a fallen idol on June 25. Funny things do sometimes happen in no-decision scraps.

Loughran is a tough bird, as Greb himself discovered last winter. Besides being tough, he is clever. For McTigue to take the second dose so soon after the Greb affair is, in the opinion of the writer, more than a five-day program. Of course, though, if Mikes beats them both he will be considered quite some slick boy.
