

Miscellaneous.

Mrs. Archer's Mission. BY KATE SUMNER YATES. 'Oh, dear!' sighed Mrs. Archer...

Brother Jack furiously brushed away two big tear drops that would come in spite of him, muttering something about having caught...

'Well, I was thinking of one thing, at the store yesterday. There's young Graham, one of the under clerks, just in from the country...

'Well, well, little woman!' laughed Jack, half at the deluge of questions, and more than half in delight at the look of interest on his sister's face...

'Loney?' 'Yes, he was,' he frankly admitted. Boarding-houses weren't homes by any means.

Too Free with Medicines. Salt, sulphur, saltpetre, resin, and such common drugs are too often given to cattle without reason or knowledge.

'Salt is good,' but if given in excess it becomes an irritant poison. I once casually remarked to a neighbor that salt was good for pigs, and that I threw a handful into the slop barrel every day.

THE BREEDING OF TROTTERS. - The Kentucky Live Stock Journal makes the following remarks: 'Every year parties during the winter months ventilate their theories how to breed the trotter; some contending for a strong infusion of thorough bred blood as one of great injury.

For the Ladies. Zopher's Corner.

Domestic. Not Exact. LEMON PIE WITHOUT EGGS OR MILK. - Cut one lemon very fine, removing nearly all of the peel, and the seeds, add two tablespoonsful of corn starch, one cup of white sugar, one teaspoonful of butter, and one cup of hot water. Stir all well together and bake between two crusts.

APPLE MANAGER. Three apples, stewed, one-half cup of rolled cracker, the yolks of two eggs (reserving the whites for frosting), one cup of milk, and the size of a walnut, one teaspoonful of lemon, salt and sweetener with sugar to your taste. Line a pudding dish with pie crust and turn in the mixture.

CRACKER PUDDING. - Four common crackers ground fine, one pint of milk, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonsful of sugar, one cup of raisins, and a little salt and nutmeg. Take the whites of your two eggs, and a little sugar, and beat to a froth, place this, after the pudding has baked half an hour, on it, and bake fifteen minutes more.

CHAPLAIN HASH. - Out bits of cold beef, steak into mouthfuls, and put the bones and trimmings which you have left into a saucepan with enough cold water to cover them. When the water has boiled five minutes, take out the bones and put in your bits of beef with half the quantity of cold potatoes, out in pieces. Add pepper and salt, and boil altogether for half an hour.

FRICASSE OF COLD ROAST BEEF. - Cut the beef into very thin slices, shred a handful of parsley very fine, put into a small onion into quarters, and put altogether into a stew pan with a small piece of butter, and some strong soup stock. Season with salt and pepper, and simmer very gently fifteen minutes. Then mix the yolks of two eggs and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Rub a hot dish with a clove of garlic, and turn the fricassee into it.

VEGETABLE PIE. - For a small pie, take three or four potatoes and onions, season and boil in about a pint of water. When done line a deep pie plate with crust, put in the potatoes, water and all, and slice the eggs over. If the water has boiled away, add more, and season accordingly, as plenty of juice is required. Cover with top crust and bake quickly. This is an old Maryland recipe and is excellent.

TO SAVE SUGAR. - Every housewife should know that sugar, boiled with an acid, if it be but three minutes, will be converted into glucose, which is the form of sugar found in sweet apples. One pound of sugar has as much sweetening power as two pounds of glucose. In other words, one pound of sugar stirred into fruit after it is cooked, and while yet hot, will make the fruit as sweet as two and a quarter pounds added while the fruit is boiling. Save your sugar by a chemical knowledge. It is an established fact that if fruit is sweetened when it is hot requires much more sugar than if sweetened when cold.

MILK AS FOOD FOR CHILDREN. - Whenever milk is used plentifully, there the children grow into robust men and women. Whenever the place is traded by tea, we have degeneracy swift and certain. Dr. Ferguson, who has devoted a large share of his attention to this subject, has ascertained, from careful measurements of numerous factory children, that between thirteen and fourteen years they grow nearly four times as fast on milk for breakfast and supper as on tea and coffee, a fact which shows the benefit of proper diet. No diet is so suitable for growing children as well cooked oatmeal porridge and milk. Owing to its easy digestibility, it is of equal benefit to invalids, more especially dyspeptics, who often gain flesh and pick up flesh at wonderful rapid rate on milk, or milk and food bread. Good as cow's milk is for children and invalids, the milk of the goat is much better; and it often happens that persons will thrive and grow stout on the latter, who could not digest the former. For this reason, goats' milk is largely prescribed by the faculty, and would be more so if we were more plentiful. Dr. Pyc Chevreuse says: The finest, healthiest children are those who for the first four or five years of their lives are fed principally upon it. He also states that begins to milk is more valuable for delicate infants, goats' milk for strong ones. - Modern Age.

ABSENT FRIENDS. - Banking up a fire, requires some skill and tuition, but is a valuable acquisition, during illness especially, and is well worth the housewife's attention in the training of her wants. The fire should be completely made up some time before the room is arranged for the night, and allowed to burn into a solid heat; then small coal, almost cold heat, should be spread over the top, which has been fully flamed for its reception. Then over this heap up the ashes, and sprinkle the whole freely with water. Fuel so arranged will continue burning far into the night without being stirred, and makes also a very silent fire. When it needs replenishing, coals that have been already put into paper bags holding about a pound may be quietly placed on the fire. If the coal be of the large kind, as that coming from the Midlands generally is, a large sized lump may be put on with the fingers used in a housemaid's glove, in either case the invalid is not disturbed. If the fire is very low, a lump of sugar or a dry cork is an excellent restorer. - An American Obituarist.

ALLIGATOR-SKIN BONNETS have not met with general success, but when trimmed with brown, green or garnet velvet, pulled very full across the brows, have an air of style about them and appeal to lovers of novelties.

FUR TRIMMINGS are fashionable this season, not only for street garments, but for house dresses, for waistcoats, for tea-gowns, for robes de chambre, and for evening toilets of satin or velvet.

Among the favorite designs for evening shoes are those having high heels and pointed toes covered with an embroidery of beads.

When Alexander T. Stewart, the dead millionaire, asked for the girl he wished to marry, her father said: Stewart wanted to marry her for her money; whereupon the ardent aviator replied: 'No, sir, you needn't leave her to me. I will soon be richer than you, anyhow.'

'Go ahead and take her, then, and heaven bless you both.' This story was told years ago, and is recalled now by the experience of a young man who, being familiar with the father of the girl he loved. When the father accused him of being after his money, the youth replied: 'Keep your money. I have started a news paper, and will soon be worth more money than you ever saw.'

And then the girl's father instead of saying 'Take her, and heaven bless you both,' kicked him out of the house and a month later he was in jail with his leg as he went down the steps. It would seem that all the fathers are not contented alike. One is more credulous than another.

Who He Was. 'You know, ma, that in Philadelphia people always ask who one's grand father was, and as I am going there soon you must tell me. Was my grandfather a judge, or a governor, or a president, or anything?'

'Well no, my dear. He became very rich, though, and you may say he had something to do with banks.'

'But what was his profession or trade?'

'Oh, never mind about that.' 'But those Philadelphia people will ask me, who the only trader he ever learned was shoe-making.'

'Shoemaking! Oh, well, he got rich, so that is all right.' 'Yes; he made shoes a great many years. He learned the trade and worked at it in a penitentiary; but you need not mention that.' - Weekly Call.

A FAIR DENTIST'S REPLY. - 'And it is really true that you are studying dentistry?' asked a Philadelphia dandy of a pretty girl who has entered a dental college. 'Yes, was the reply, and I intend to practice.' 'But those Philadelphia people will ask me, who the only trader he ever learned was shoe-making.'

'Shoemaking! Oh, well, he got rich, so that is all right.' 'Yes; he made shoes a great many years. He learned the trade and worked at it in a penitentiary; but you need not mention that.' - Weekly Call.
