

REVIEWS OF USEFUL LEAFLETS.

She Hath Done What She Thought She Couldn't.—This leaflet tells you how you can do this very impossible thing; how you can secure the help of others and get them so much interested in our missionary publications that they will become subscribers; how a zeal in the cause has its reflex influence upon others, and in the true spirit of consecration our talents may be increased and multiplied. We would cheerfully recommend this leaflet to all discouraged workers. Price, 1 cent.

That Missionary Meeting.—This leaflet shows how one person can organize an Auxiliary in a rural appointment. It first began in discouragement and difficulties in getting material and interest awakened. Then a new leader gives life to the waning cause. The illustrations drawn from the widow of Zarephath, the Leaven, Peter in prison, Miriam, and a host of other Scripture characters, are forcibly presented to stimulate and encourage. The interest created by individual effort, fresh, bright programmes for each service, and a variety of topics on missionary subjects can lend new interest to each meeting. We would most heartily recommend this to anybody in our Society who finds it difficult to maintain an interest in the monthly meeting. It is so very suggestive and comprehensive that even the best organized Society may get some helpful hints. Price, 2 cents.

 New Leaflets.

The Literature Committee has just issued a very useful publication entitled RULES OF ORDER, which it is hoped may be found helpful in the conduct of the various meetings in which, as members of the W. M. S., we take an active part from time to time. It would also be of service in business meetings of the Epworth League. Price, 5 cents each, 30 cents a dozen.

There is also in course of preparation a series of Leaflets on Our Work, of which the first and second numbers are
