McGAHEY-DAVIS.

A quiet early morning marriage was solemnized in St. Michael's Cathedral on Monday, the 18th, between Dr. R. J. McGahev and Miss Kate Davis, both highly esteemed by hosts of Toronto friends. The nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Treacy, who also performed the marriage ceremony. The bride, who wore a travelling gown, was given away by her cousin, Father Frank Walsh, of St. Michael's College. Miss Annie Davis, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid, and Mr. M. McGahey, brother of the groom, best 'man. The ceremony was at 6.50, and though the event was very quiet, some of the admirers of the happy couple came to the Cathedral to see them married. Dr. and Mrs. McGahey took a brief wedding trip south, and will take up house in Toronto in the spring. ·BIG CHRISTMAS TREE.

Expectations are high in the matter of the big Christmas Tree which has been standing in the large hall of the Confederation Life Building during this week of the Christmas Sale. Many longing eyes have been cast upon the heavily laden branches and visions of beautiful presents delight, the dreams of all the little ones who have gazed upon it. All the pretty gifts will be distributed on Saturday alternoon, 30th inst, when Santa Claus Tree.

Creelman Interviews Pope Leo.

His Holiness spoke with evident emotion about his desire for the disarmament of Europe.

"The existence of these vast armies," he added, "is a source of displeasure and sorrow to the Ho!y

see." "The military life, which has been invested with a military glamor, is injuring hundreds of thousands of young men. That fact must be apparent to every statesman who seriously considers the question. It surrounds young men with violent and immoral influences; it turns their thoughts from spiritual things and tends to harden and degrade them. These armies are not only full of peril to the souls of men, but they drain the world of its wealth. So long as Europe is filled with soldiery, so long will all the labor represented by millions of men in arms be withdrawn from the soil, and the poor will be overburdened with taxes to support the system. The armies of Europe are impoverishing Europe.

"These great military establishments have another deplorable effect. They set one people against another and intensify national jealousies. The inevitable result is the growth of a spirit of anger and revengefulness.

"I long to see a return of peace and charity among the nations. Mighty armies confronting each other on every frontier are not consistent with the teachings of Jesus

I reminded His Holiness that the principle of arbitration, rather than war, had become a part of tthe national policy of the United States.

"Yes," said the Pope, "that is a true and wise principle; but most of the men who control the affairs of Europe are not governed by a desire for truth. See how they exalt godlessness! Look at the men whose names are selected here in Italy for honor after death!-men who died opnosing and reviling Christianity-men like Mazzini."

That was the end of the first newspaper interview with the Pope. I knelt besides Mgr. Rooker and received the apostolic benediction. Then His Holiness arose.

"I hope that you will omit the petty personal details which are so offensive in newspaper articles," he said. "They are trivalities and beneath the dignity of the press."

As we moved out of the room the Pope called me back to him, and placing his frail hands upon my head, his eyes brimming with emotion, he said in a voice of great tenderness:

"Son, you are young, and you may be useful to the world. May the Father, Son and Holy Spirit go with you. Farewell!"

And as we retired we looked back at the slender white figure standand I knew that I had been face to face with the most exalted personality of modern history. Of all the famous men I have met in my world wandering since that day statesmen, monarchs, philoso-phers, philanthropists — I have seen no other man who seened to have such a universal point of

Once more I saw the Pope borne aloft on the shoulders of the Swiss guard into the Sistine Chapel in a scene of supreme splendor — the triple crown upon his head, jewels flashing on his bosom, the Sistine Choir chanting Palestrina's deathless music, and cloud of incense floating over the heads of a procession, headed by the Knight of Malta, and foll swed by a long train of cardinals, archi ishops, bishops and monsigno ...

The sunlight fell upon lines of shining steel, nodding plumes, golden chains, shimmering robes of silk, and all the glittering symbolry of peatifical glory. And gathered within the walls immortalized by Raphael ann Michael Angelo, before the eyes of the assembled aristocracy of Rome, was a horde of American savages in paint, feathers and blankets, carrying tomahawks and knives. At the entrance of the chapel stood Buffalo Bill, Buck Taylor and Brancho Bill, while a troop of cowboys, splashed with mud and picturesque beyond description, lined the human aisle beyond.

When the Pope appeared, swaying in his resplendent seat, high above the assembled host, the cowboys bowed their heads, the Indians knelt down, and Rocky Bear, the surly old chief, made the sign of the cross.

A few days afterward I was permitted to walk in the ancient garden of the Vatican. It was a day of surpassing loveliness. Every wandering breath of air came laden with the perfumes of distant fields of flowers. Here Plus IX. used to ride on his white mule among the venerable groves, interspersed with fountains and statues; and here the poets of an older time declaimed in the open air to the assembled gallants of the Roman courts. I saw the herd of shaggy goats from Africa, which were driven every day to the door of the Pope's apartments and freshly milked. Late grapes in the vinevard that furnished wine for the Pope's table. I saw the Pope's summer retreat, but the little tea pavilion on the roadside, with the scarlet velvet chair, and the caged parrots screaming the Pope's

I saw the : now white deer and the snow white peacock-emblem of immortality.

Then my guide suddenly knelt in the road and crossed himself, and in the shadow of a mighty tree I saw a bent, white figure and a hand faintly waving the sign of the cross.
