

the revolutions of endless ages, that He gave us grace to speak to them of the 'one thing needful,' and gave them grace to listen effectually to our words. 'O, taste and see' dear brethren, 'that the Lord is good.' We beseech you 'So run that ye may obtain.'

"And now to God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost, be ascribed, as is justly due, all praise and glory, majesty, power, and dominion for ever and ever. Amen."
