

THE EVERLASTING ARMS.

"GIVE me a great thought, that I may live upon it," said a poet of a foreign tongue. "Give me a great thought, that I may live upon it."

Here is such a thought: "The Eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms."

God, the Christian's refuge and abiding-place! Surely no greater thought can be expressed in language.

Anything is really valuable, so far, and only so far, as it satisfies real want.

There are three factors that enter in, to enhance values. First, the urgency of the need; second, the universality of the need; and third, the completeness of the satisfaction.

Let me illustrate this in a very simple way. Air and water and light are of the utmost
