OFFICER WHO UPHOLDS WORK OF THE Y.M.C.A.

H. W. Barker, secretary Broadway Boys Y.M.C.A., is an extremely doubtful as to whether they have ever been in France at all. No man at the front has anything but good to say of the splendid work of the Y. M. C. A. in France. They make canteen profits, but your critics have not been fair enough to say that these profits are immediately handed over to the battalions and batteries, either in the form of sporting goods for the amusement of those units who are at rest, or in actual cash to those who are holding the lines. The work of the Y.M.C.A. is splendid, and no man who has ever seen the front line can say otherwise. Perhaps some of these chaps are veterans of the battle of Brannshot or Shorncliffe only.

The drawing for the pig and croquet work will also take place. The complete financial statement of the field day will also be submitted.

The caretaker is a cripple, and reminded the young men that he was helpless, and after awhile with the assistance of passers-by, the intruders were ejected. They did slight damage.

YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

THREE MILLIONS TO BE SPENT ENLARGING PLANT AT LEASIDE

United States Government Has Awarded Contract for Many Shells There.

PAYROLL OF 7000

Building Will Be Completed and Fitted Before Winter Comes.

Leaside, the home of the new Canadian Northern yards, which will be in use next November and give employment to hundreds of trainmen and other employees, has received another impetus by the announcement made yesterday that the munitions plant there would be enlarged at a cost of at least $3,000,000. The plans call for the erection of two buildings of brick and steel construction, one 280 feet long and the larger one 640 feet. Work has already commenced and 500 workmen are busy on the job. The company has no trouble getting men, it is expected that the building will be completed and the machinery installed before the snow falls.

The company now has a payroll of about 7,000 men, including a large office staff. When the new addition is completed it will give work to a similar number so that the plant will have a total payroll of 7,000, making it one of the largest in Canada.

The new addition will be devoted entirely to the manufacture of shells for the United States war department. At present six-inch shells only are being turned out for the British Government at the rate of about 4,000 a month, and it was as a result of the way the work was executed and the prompt delivery of the shells that the Imperial Munitions Board, the Secretary of War Baker awarded the contract to the Canadian firm.

The shells to be made at Leaside will be both forged and machined so that when they leave the plant they will be complete and ready for use. The high explosive charge, which is inserted at the various United States military yards.

When the work commences, Secretary Baker will send over representatives from the ordnance department of the army, who will watch every stage of the manufacture of the shells from the arrival of the raw material to the shipment of the finished product.

E. A. Wallberg, of the Leaside Munition Company, explained yesterday to a reporter for The World that the company secured the big American order because of the way they had fulfilled contracts for the Imperial munition board. The United States authorities had made strict stipulations in the requirements for the quality and quantity of work, but he had no uneasiness as to the company's ability to carry them out to the letter.

The housing of such a large army of workers, however, did seriously concern the company, but on account of the high cost of labor and building material it did not feel justified in building any large number of working men's houses.

However, there were a number of partly finished houses at Leaside, and these were being completed and would help slightly in relieving the situation.

Transportation Problem. Another problem which Mr. Wallberg said was of importance to both the company and the community, would have to have immediate attention, was the transportation of its thousands of workers to and from Leaside. At present the company was compelled to charter a special C.P.R. train, and it made two trips to the plant daily—in the morning and evening. The arrangement, however, was not satisfactory, but it was all that could be done. A street car service was being arranged, and a demand for its immediate operation was growing. As far as his company was concerned it would be more than willing to sit on any such scheme that might be brought up for the relief of the town.

And Leaside, too, he thought, would be equally willing to pay for the cost of the cost of a service. He was not particularly interested in the route so long as the service was established, and was inclined to think that in any scheme considered regard would have to be paid to the needs of the new casualty clearing station and Rosedale military hospital, which would have a population shortly of about 5,000 people.

Mayor Ormsby of Leaside was enthusiastic about the future of Leaside, and he, too, says the town will do its share towards the cost of a street car line. One was urgently needed.

The importance of Leaside as a railway and manufacturing centre may be judged from the report that a well-known engineer, experienced in the requirements of a demand for public works, is about to be appointed to look after the growing requirements of Toronto's hustling next door neighbor. The name of C. H. Rust, who has just resigned his position as chief engineer of Victoria, B.C., and former city engineer in Toronto, is mentioned for the position. Mr. Rust was in Toronto a few weeks ago, but returned to the coast to wind up his affairs, and is now on his way to take up his permanent residence here.
