

Jamieson's Saturday Specials

IT HAS always been the persistent aim of this store to give the best obtainable in men's and boys' apparel—best in quality, style and tone, and at the lowest consistent prices. We are mindful of the careful man, whose income compels economy, but who is just as particular to have things right. Our facilities are equal to a large amount of trade, and prices are made on the basis of quick sales and small profits.

For Saturday we offer a number of special values that will bear the closest inspection. We believe in the nimble sixpence, in preference to the slow shilling. For instance:

HOUSING IN THE VITAL PHASE OF PROBLEM

Dr. Sheard Will Make Report on Conditions as They Are for Guidance of Committee.

The second conference on the civic housing problem, held last night, led to a decision being reached to have a report from Dr. Sheard on exact conditions of congestion in St. John's Ward, before proceeding further. Some interesting views were advanced during the discussion. The meeting was presided over by Controller Hocken as chairman.

The organizations and those representing them were:
Young Men's Municipal Club, W. S. B. Armstrong; "Locals" Council of Women, Mrs. Torringdon; Association of Property Owning Workmen, R. P. Hall; Architects' Association, J. W. Chapman; Builders' Exchange, Thomas Self; Board of Trade, James Ryrie; Architects' Association, J. W. Chapman; Building Trades Council, J. W. Bruce; Young Men's Zion Club, A. P. Lewis; Toronto City Mission, Rev. Robt. Hall; Manufacturers' Association, Thomas Roden; Toronto District Labor Council, R. Thompson; Single Tax Association, Julian Sale; Canadian Progress Association, W. B. Hamilton.

Thomas Roden, in outlining the plan of the Manufacturers' Association, for building 250 houses each year for four years, at a cost to the purchaser of $1000 each, payable in 12 yearly instalments, asked that the city lend aid. He suggested that the association be allowed to purchase tax sale lands cheaply from the city, that the city architect's department assist in preparing plans, that no charge be made for permits, and that the charges for drainage, etc., be reduced. He asserted that the city's charge for the last named item was double that which a private company would charge. The houses were designed for workmen earning from $2.25 to $3 a day, and it wasn't intended that the profit should exceed 5 per cent, while the actual calculation was on a 4 per cent basis. A small surplus would have to be paid annually to provide for contingencies. The T. Eaton Co., he said, was one of the largest supporters.

Problem's Three Phases.
J. W. Gray, the Architects' Association, thought the problem presented three phases. There was the mechanical, whose circumstances would be determined by the city; the individual who, while wanting to live in the city, didn't wish to purchase a home, and the workman who had the desire and ability to do so.

Mr. Gray dwelt upon the success of the tenement system introduced into Edinburgh by Sir Robert Peel. Provision was made for apartments of two rooms and upwards, and the buildings, which were erected on the city's land, were equipped with excellent sanitation and household conveniences were supplied. Co-operative housing societies were formed, and the problem of erecting houses worth between $1000 and $2000, but there was a disposition among people to prefer the property of the city, well ventilated flats. When tenements became unfit for human habitation the municipality had them eliminated.

Mr. Roden indulged in some humorous criticism of the condition of many houses in the "Ward," the situation being termed disgraceful. "We should take the district, and after condemning it, cut it down," he declared. Mr. Roden thought that contractors in New York or Philadelphia would be willing to co-operate in erecting proper dwellings in their stead.

Mr. Sale, speaking as a single taxpayer, thought the solution of the question lay in a readjustment of land values. Controller Hocken's suggestion that Dr. Sheard should report on the number of occupants in houses in the congested district bounded by Yonge-street, Queen-street, University-avenue and College-street, was approved. Further discussion, Mr. Armstrong, of the Young Men's Municipal Club, gave the view that one important phase of the housing question in the "Ward" had to do with the transient lodger. The city, he thought, might look after these birds of passage.

Mr. Roden, of the Young Men's Zion Club protested with some warmth against the centring of attention upon St. John's Ward, and Controller Hocken admitted that between Parliament and Sumach-streets was an extremely undesirable area.

Fleming the Persistent.
Manager Fleming of the street railway is nothing if not persistent in seeking to get the curved rail privileges. Again, yesterday, he was a visitor at the city hall, morning and afternoon, but found the board of control too busy, also he spent two hours last afternoon waiting for an opportunity. When he finally saw the mayor his worship informed Mr. Fleming that the matter would have to stand over for a while longer.

Island Improvement.
The island committee yesterday decided to recommend that the city pay $2500 to break the lease held by Chas. Dr. Sproule on property on the west side of Chippewa-avenue, south of the R.C.Y.C. holdings on Centre Island. The property in question takes in about 1-1/2 acres, and consists mainly of water lots, less than an acre being land. The purchase is in line with the city's policy of island improvement, and the acquisition will place the city in possession of a stretch of land from the ferry dock at Centre Island to Chippewa-avenue. It was agreed that the land pump should be used for two weeks in the rear of the R.C.Y.C. property.

Resolving the Problem.
The city council yesterday from Dr. W. C. Heagle of 35 towards the Longbeach education fund being the total to $60, outside of the city's gift of $200.

The Parkdale Canoe Club is seeking to sell the city 66 feet of land on the lake shore south of Meyer's restaurant for $3250 and to lease from the city 100 feet at $1 per foot per annum.

Strike Situation Grows Acute.
SAN ANTONIO, May 10.—A special to The Express from Orizaba, Mex., says: The strike situation here has grown more acute. The number of strikers has been augmented, and now reaches nearly 12,000, and the tendency to violence is more marked.

The federal forces and those of the rebels have also been augmented. All hope of immediate arbitration has been abandoned, and much apprehension is felt.
