The dishes in question were tiny little circles of tin of questionable cleanliness, and from these dreadful things the boys actually licked off their ice-cream with gusto, their tongues and lips supplying the place of hot water and dish towels! When I returned I found this foreign bandit at another corner of the same street still yending his

There Were Two Explosions.

There were two explosions, the first occurring at 8.55 and the second a few minutes later. The factory is a total wreck, and buildings for a distance of hair a square on both sides of Callowhill-street were partially demolished. In some instances windows in structures two squares away were shattered.

Adjoining Fleer's establishment was a grocery store owned by Arthur Donohue. Two boarders were said to have been asleep in the upper part of the house, and they have not been accounted for. Mrs. Donohue, the grocer's mother, was so badly injured that her death was momentarily expected.

I found this foreign bandit at another corner of the same street still vending his frozen messes, and more grinning kiddies feasting in the same promiscuous fashion. Now, if it is true that children carry about disease germs in their throats and mouths, as we are told they do, could any more ingenious method of spreading them than this be conceived of? You cau t plame they youngsters, for they cannot get a copper's worth of ice-cream any other place, and these children have not been brought up to be fastidious. But surely something ought to be done to keep them out of the way of the contagion which must cling to horid dishes licked by many mouths and that are plainly not properly cleaned. The children might be warned in the schools and at home about the danger, but as we "grown-ups" do not find it so easy to resist temptation deliberately thrown in our way, we cannot expect the youngsters to be stronger than ourselves. It would be ready much used), but for street wear, no matter what the color of the frock. They are correct. The newest and smoothest velis be stronger than ourselves. It would be are those of big mesh, without dots or the exact opposite, fine mesh, with closely be prinkled chemille dots. The latter veil is grinkled chemille dots. The latter veil is grinkled chemille dots. The latter veil is grinkled chemille dots. Striped or plain ribinjured that her death was momentarily expected.

On the opposite side of the street was the dwelling of Mrs. Giverson. The burning benzine ignited the clothing of Mrs. Giverson and that of her child. With the infant in her arms, she ran screaming into the street enveloped in flames. Firemen and hospital surgeons, who had responded promptly to the alarm, hastened to her assistance, and she was conveyed to a hospital in an ambulance.

It is impossible at this time to estimate the loss. Fully a hundred houses have been more or less damaged, those in close proximity to the chemical works being so badly wrecked as to probably necessitate their condemnation.

charge, was presented with an address. The address was read by Thomas Long. It was as follows:

To Hev. James Walsh, Rector of the Parish of Our Lady of Lourdes:
Hev. Father,—We, the congregation of the Parish of Our Lady of Lourdes, desire to express our sincere regret at losing you, our beloved pastor, who for the last ten years have labored so devotedly for the spiritual welfare of those committed to your care.

While it is a satisfaction to us to know that the new sphere of your duties will afford a greater scope for your zeal and ability, that knowledge makes our loss none the less, and we cannot but feel the keenest sorrow at the breaking of the tie which has so long bound us your flock lightly, yet lovingly, to you our shepherd.

You have endeared yourself to us by have learned to know and love and reverence you.

You have been intimately associated with us in all the most important events of our lives and the lives of those most dear to us; you have been our director, our comforter and our friend.

We deeply appreciate the thoughtful interest you have always taken in the various religious and charitable societies which, under your fostering care, have flourished in our midst; and we are various religious and charitable societies which, under your fostering care, have flourished in our midst; and we are mindful of the unflagging energy you have ever displayed in promoting all good works affecting the welfare of the parish.

Through your efforts a much needed Separate School has been established in the parish; and it was through your administrative ability and zeal that the debt on our parish church has been so considerably reduced without the making of any special call or the imposition of any extra burden upon the congregation for that purpose.

You have, therefore, the great satisfaction of knowing that you are delivering the parish to your successor in a far better innancial position than when it was entrusted to your successor in a far better innancial position than when it was entrusted to your guidance a number of years ago.

We assure you, Reverend Father, that you carry with you to the field of your new labors the heartfelt good wishes of your congregation, and that your work there may be as fruitful of good results as it has been in the past.

It is pleasant to know that the call of duty does not take you from our city, and we hope that we shall still have many opportunities of seeing you in our midst.

In conclusion, we desire to express our appreciation of the substantial good work you have done in the parish and to offer you a signat token of our Eatcem and affection on behalf of the congregation of the Parish of Our Lady of Lourdes.

Father Walsh Replies.

Father Walsh Replies.

Father Walsh feelingly replied to the many expressions of good-will contained in the address, and heartily thanked the congregation for their kindness to him during his stay among them.

Speaking of his removal to another church, he said the Archbishop could not have been more kind or considerate to him, and he had been consulted, and had his wish in everything. Even if he had been Archbishop Walsh, more kindness could not have been extended to him.

In conclusion, he asked the congregation to give the same treatment and support to his successor as he had received.

The congregation then one and all bade farewell to their beloved rector, many of them being visibly affected at the parting.

The members of the committee in charge of the address were: Thomas Long (chairman); J. J. Foy, Q.C., M.L.A.; Thomas J. Lee: J. T. C. Thompson, barrister; Commander F. C. Law, R.N.; A. W. Anglin, barrister; M. O'Connor.
