TORONTO.UNKNOWN MAN DYING
FROM DOSE OF LAUDANUMFound Unconscious in Queen St.
Hotel Where He Was Resting by Courtesy of Proprietor.What is likely to be a successful attempt at suicide was made about 6 o'clock by an unknown man at the Saranac Hotel, Queen and Soho-streets.
An empty two-ounce bottle which bore the label of W. J. Nichol, 170 East King-street, drugist, and which had evidently contained laudanum, was found in his coat pocket.He is now at St. Michael's Hospital, where every effort is being made to save his life.The unknown, who is a man of between 45 and 50 years of age, entered the hotel bar and asked for a glass of beer. He was served, but drank only a mouthful, when he asked Thomas Horder, proprietor of the hotel, if he could rest in the room. He then appeared to be drunk. He was taken upstairs to a sitting-room, and, taking off his coat, lay down. He wanted to take off his shoes, but was dissuaded.
At about 7:30 Mrs. Horder heard groans and called her husband. He declared to call Dr. Moore. Upon his arrival he diagnosed the case as one of narcotic poisoning and administered a stimulant and sent the man to the hospital. There he was rushed to the emergency ward and his stomach thoroughly washed. Every means of stimulation was applied, and at midnight he was given oxygen.He is a large, thickest man with brown hair and short-cropped moustache. His face is broad and the features distinctly German. His hands are stained as with oil and resemble those of a mechanic. His clothes are dark and he wore a soft black felt hat, bearing the imprint of the T. Eaton Company's Winnipeg store.He had also a pawtucket upon which he had obtained $1 on a silver watch and chain under the name of Heide or Heide. The ticket is numbered 21423.
He had also a card of C. Calver, 17 Soho-street, advertising rooms for exhibition.

Hot Water
BoilerThe great success of the Gurney-Oxford Hot Water Boiler is the result of taking advantage of every method to increase its power.
The fire-pot walls overhang the fire, giving a larger surface for the heat to act on. This is further increased by making the first water-section over the fire double the depth of the others and with bell-mouth flues. The Gurney-

MEN SWITCH ENGINES.

They Get Out and Shove, According to Strikers' Report.The strikers are relating the story of a novel method of switching railway cars which the C.P.R. have introduced at Owen Sound. The only yard engine in use there has collapsed and the company has got 150 men out of the freight sheds to switch the cars by shoving.At Windsor, where the company before the strike used to get an average of 145 cars per day from across the river, they only get 25 now, and no Armour contract cars at all. The only men at work are foreigners and very little inspecting is being done by the car and locomotive foremen.A freight train arrived at Havelock yesterday, with the air not work on half the train.
The locomotive foreman and travelling engineer at Havelock are still trying to do the mechanics' work on engines. The foremen tried without avail to induce the mechanics to work as mechanics and even promised them 2 cents per hour more than their present rate, which is 18 cents.No. 5 express was one hour late in arriving in Toronto yesterday, and No. 4 express was one hour late in leaving Toronto.John Sutton, third vice-grand chief of the Brotherhood of Carmen, arrived yesterday from Rochester to look after the interests of the carmen in the C.P.R. strike.News of the C.P.R. strike has traveled away over to Europe, and the strikers say that financial aid is on the way from France and Germany, as well as England, where the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, the society by the way that Mr. Cross in Montreal was hoping to break the strike by, is doing all in its power to help out the fighting men, and they have received the assurance that the railroad will not get any men from that society.The men on the T. H. and B. are also clubbing together to raise a fund for the men, and yesterday one of the prominent strikers was handed $100 from a train man on one of these trains.Another point the men base the strength of their cause upon is that in the John-street round house the men used to change from 20 to 30 pairs of wheels each month, but three pairs only have been changed, they positively state, since the strike began one month ago.The men also state that three detectives at the West Toronto yards were arrested for stealing bacon. The men say that the officers smuggled in liquor to the cooks and when they got them sufficiently "juiced up" walked off with the hams.The statement handed out by prominent C.P.R. officials that the men in West Toronto had turned out 51 engines since the strike started is en-phatically denied by the men, who maintain that the present body of men doing the work have their hands full looking after the running repairs and that when an engine goes "dead" it is put to one side and left there. They add to this the statement that yard engines are still running without head lights, making it very dangerous to men working in the yards.The enginemen on 854, the engine that pulls train 103, had to hammer the air pumps to make it work when the locomotive was on the train at the Union, and as the men say, this is a serious matter on a passenger train.The union officials vouch for the following: There has been a number of cases of engines throwing their side rods since the strike began. No. 1101 at Burlington station, 1100 at Claremont, and 798 at Bala only a few days ago, the rods of the last engine going thru the bridge. "The enginemen," said a union man last night, "are growing afraid of running these engines because if the rods come up thru the cab some one would be sure to be hurt."

AND MYSTERY DEEPENSC. P. R. Engineer Certain That Railway Constables Fired More Than the Twice They AdmitThe mystery surrounding the death of James German on Aug. 22 was further deepened by the evidence of William Armitage, C.P.R. engineer, at the resumption of the inquest last night, that he distinctly heard three shots, whereas the testimony of William O'Brien and James Balsam, C. T. R. constables, that only two shots were fired, was very positive. Armitage declared that there was a minute's interval between the reports, which occurred at 8 p.m. the time agreeing with the previous testimony. The inquest was adjourned until Sept. 10.J. Balsam, G.T.R. constable, resumed his testimony, begun at last week's sitting. He testified that later in the fatal night he heard a shot and saw his fellow-constable, Abbott, running across the tracks northward, and called out to ask him what he was doing, receiving a reply from the latter that he was chasing someone. Abbott then joined in the pursuit.After Policemen Jeffers had testified to finding a portion of German's body near the foot of Richmond-street and the left leg 50 yards further east, G.
T. R. Constable Abbott was called. He swore that the company's only instruction as to firearms was to fire as a signal or in self-defence. When he arrived on the scene Grey was struggling in Balsam's grasp and the latter told him another man had escaped.He testified that he pursued a man who appeared to leap out of a boxcar about 11:30 p.m., after first firing downward as a signal to his comrades. He overtook the fugitive at the foot of the steps of the Abell Engine Works, and discovered that he was a G. T. R. employe, George Foster, who explained that he had fled, thinking about a dangerous tramp. Abbott positively maintained that he did not see Balsam until the latter came up after Abbott had overtaken his quarry. There was a large pool of blood near German's head and severed left hand near the foot of Abell-st.The witness said that on the way to the police station Grey's actions were suspicious and that a search revealed a stone, hidden in the trousers. Abbott thought the stone had been used in trying to break a seal on a freight car.W. T. Connolly, C.P.R. operator at Parkdale Station, swore that German and Grey were apparently sober when about five minutes, German saying as he left that he "had a date down the street."William Armitage, C.P.R. engineer, said his yard engine was the only one working that night. He saw his fireman, Thomas Kemp, conversing with two strangers about 50 feet south of the station, but did not assist anyone riding on his engine. He was absolutely positive under examination that he heard three shots, about a minute apart, around 9 p.m.A written statement from Kemp was to the effect that, while he had talked with German and Grey, they did not board the engine.Mercer Marlin, G.T.R. engineer, said that his engine, with a tender in front and caboose behind, passed the Parkdale Station going east about eight miles an hour around 9 p.m. on the track south of the main line. On hearing of the tragedy he examined the engine and found portions of brain on the lower beam of the pilot J.
Firman, the fireman, and Jerry Flash,
