

GENERAL BOOTH'S FAREWELL TO AMERICAN S.A.

Wishes He Could Remain in the Flesh, as He Will,
He Says, in the Spirit.

STILL ON THE MARCH
Beckoned Forward by the Finger of Duty—Has Had a "Mighty
Time."

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 9.—With upward pointing right index finger preaching a final silent sermon of devotion, while his age-wrinkled face was wreathed in smiles, General William Booth, of the Salvation Army, said this morning on the steamer St. Louis for Europe. At the pier to bid him farewell were about a hundred of the leading staff officers of the United States, representing all sections of the country. Gen. Booth stood on the middle deck of the steamer with his personal staff, consisting of Commissioner Nicol and Colonels Lawley, Higgins and Cox, and as the vessel moved out into the stream doffed his cap repeatedly in response to the cheers, cries of respect, devotion and admiration from the waving of Salvation Army and American flags on the part of his followers.

It was remarked by the officers who were with Gen. Booth during his last hours in America that he was in unusually good physical condition, and he expressed the hope this morning that in spite of the fact that he was nearly 80 years old, he would again be privileged to visit this country.

Gen. Booth and his staff proceeded direct to Berlin, where on Monday, the 18th inst., he will begin a lengthy campaign in the German empire.

Open-Air Demonstration.
Last night a big open air demonstration of winter stereoscopic reproductions of various scenes connected with his life and work was a novel feature. Gen. Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army, who sailed for Europe after what will probably be his last American "campaign," bade his soldiers in America and the American people generally an affectionate farewell.

As he stood on the steps of the city hall surrounded by hundreds of uniformed followers, the glare of torches strikingly showed his tall erect figure, but his voice was somewhat husky, from the strain of his many recent public addresses, that it was necessary to repeat his words thru a megaphone.

Farewell Address.
When a near approach to order was had, General Booth addressed the assembly, thru a megaphone, standing before him repeating his words in unison. He said:

"My beloved comrades and friends: We have had a mighty time. I leave you with the confidence in your loyalty and perseverance in the war. Be true to your principles. Be true to your leader. Stand by his cross as he stood by you. Be true to your commander—she is worthy of it. She has the love of my soul. Be true to your general. Prepare to fight to the death for God, for salvation, for the true welfare of the nation; to get people to believe in God, and to bring them to Heaven, to be saviors of your fellow men. Salvation for the president. Salvation for the people. Salvation for the population. Salvation for the United States. Salvation for poor, old England. Salvation for the world. Win the world for Jesus. Fight the whole of your lives. Meet me in Heaven. Glory to God on the highest, and on earth, peace, good will to men, and love to all."

"You have nearly killed me, but I shall recuperate on the steamer." "Friends of everybody, enemies of none. Good-bye; I'll come to see you again if I live and if I die I'll be carried over here, if they'll let it be so. Bless you, my wives and your children, Hallelujah. Ten thousand Hallelujahs. All live for the salvation of the world. Fire a volley."

Here Commander Booth interposed: "Be careful father, you are killing yourself," whereupon the general concluded his epigrammatic address with the words, "God be with you till we meet again."

The hymn of this name was then thrown upon the screen and the crowd sang the words feelingly, after which the salvationist leader and his staff stepped into an automobile and were taken to the steamer St. Louis, on which he sailed to-day.

To People of America.
After the meeting General Booth

dictated to the Associated Press the following words to the people of America:

"Farewell, America, you have given me a right generous welcome. On this visit I have seemed to come nearer to the heart of the nation than on any other occasion. I have been here longer with you. Indeed I would have wished that some method might have been invented by which I could have been constituted one of your own sons and so taken a practicable step toward that fatherhood of the people which must of necessity be the first step to that brotherhood of nations, on which so many hearts are set. But I understand this to be impossible without sacrificing my fatherland. Nothing can prevent, however, my living in the spirit of that relationship and in that spirit I shall think of you and pray for you as I go forward on the path to which the beckoning finger of my duty invites me."

"My visit has been a busy one, and I hope useful one. It has served, among other things, to reveal to me the fact of the improved understanding as to the object and methods of the army, together with the existence of a higher appreciation of its value and influence. Many of our leaders in thought, commerce, and religion have said so in a most emphatic manner. In the great gathering which I have been privileged to hold. The press, which if anywhere under the sun is here a true exponent of the mind of the nation, has also said so in unmistakable terms. In fact your confidence and sympathy have made me hope for your hearty co-operation in carrying out the great program to which I have concentrated my life. That program contains the highest happiness and the truest welfare of the world, and to me, not only of every citizen, high and low, but of every member of the human race."

"With every assurance of my prayers and toils in all that concerns the honor and righteousness of your flag and the confidence of a future triumph of the principles on which the army is founded, I remain, yours in the bonds of faithful friendship, William Booth."

CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE.
Montreal Manufacturer Arrested on a Charge of Manslaughter.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Charles Davidson, of the tin plate manufacturing firm of Thomas Davidson & Sons was arrested this morning on a charge of manslaughter.

The arrest was made in connection with the death of Henri Rousseau, who met death by being caught in a fly wheel on the premises of the company. Davidson, held criminally responsible for Rousseau's death by the coroner's jury on the ground that the wheel was not protected as required by law. He was released on personal bail of $1000, and two sureties of $500 each.

BEER* IS GOOD TO ENRICH THE BLOOD

PEOPLE who drink good beer with their meals can't be anemic—thin-blooded.

Because beer, so drank, actually supplies the food elements that make the blood rich. Also beer assists the stomach in getting all the good possible out of all the food that enters it.

Put aside prejudice and learn just how good for almost every adult good beer really is.

*BEER is a term which covers lager, ale, porter and stout. The distinctive of each is determined by the process of brewing. All are made under most hygienic conditions, from Ontario barley the best in the world; malt, hops, and pure water.

dictated to the Associated Press the following words to the people of America:

"Farewell, America, you have given me a right generous welcome. On this visit I have seemed to come nearer to the heart of the nation than on any other occasion. I have been here longer with you. Indeed I would have wished that some method might have been invented by which I could have been constituted one of your own sons and so taken a practicable step toward that fatherhood of the people which must of necessity be the first step to that brotherhood of nations, on which so many hearts are set. But I understand this to be impossible without sacrificing my fatherland. Nothing can prevent, however, my living in the spirit of that relationship and in that spirit I shall think of you and pray for you as I go forward on the path to which the beckoning finger of my duty invites me."

"My visit has been a busy one, and I hope useful one. It has served, among other things, to reveal to me the fact of the improved understanding as to the object and methods of the army, together with the existence of a higher appreciation of its value and influence. Many of our leaders in thought, commerce, and religion have said so in a most emphatic manner. In the great gathering which I have been privileged to hold. The press, which if anywhere under the sun is here a true exponent of the mind of the nation, has also said so in unmistakable terms. In fact your confidence and sympathy have made me hope for your hearty co-operation in carrying out the great program to which I have concentrated my life. That program contains the highest happiness and the truest welfare of the world, and to me, not only of every citizen, high and low, but of every member of the human race."

"With every assurance of my prayers and toils in all that concerns the honor and righteousness of your flag and the confidence of a future triumph of the principles on which the army is founded, I remain, yours in the bonds of faithful friendship, William Booth."

CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE.
Montreal Manufacturer Arrested on a Charge of Manslaughter.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Charles Davidson, of the tin plate manufacturing firm of Thomas Davidson & Sons was arrested this morning on a charge of manslaughter.

The arrest was made in connection with the death of Henri Rousseau, who met death by being caught in a fly wheel on the premises of the company. Davidson, held criminally responsible for Rousseau's death by the coroner's jury on the ground that the wheel was not protected as required by law. He was released on personal bail of $1000, and two sureties of $500 each.

OFFICIALS SUPERANNUATED
Three of Oldest Employees of Customs House Retire on Good Allowance.

John Lowther, aged 72, landing waiter at C.P.R., 35 years in the civil service.

Cornelius Lorden, aged 74, clerk in the examining warehouse, 35 years in the service, and Edwin Fowles, aged 73, clerk, 34 years in the service, have received their notice of superannuation from the customs authorities.

A SPLENDID PRESCRIPTION.
An eminent physician states that he has used the following prescription in his practice for a number of years and found it very successful in the treatment of Kidney, Liver, Bladder and all urinary affections and is unsurpassed for the cure of rheumatism, driving the acid entirely from the system. He claims that a very few doses will relieve the most severe pains in the back, arising from disordered kidneys, and induce sweet sleep. It is one ounce of sweet spirits of nitre, four ounces of pure water, and four ounces of syrup of rhubarb, taken in dessertspoonful doses in water after meals and at bedtime. These ingredients are obtainable at any reliable drug store.

MINERS IN EXPLOSION.
COBALT, Nov. 9.—(Special)—While Alex. McKenzie and Simon Thurso were cutting a station at the 140-foot level in No. 5 shaft at the Foster mine their drill ran into a cut-off hole and an explosion followed. McKenzie lost an eye and it is feared Thurso will lose an arm.

Christmas in England.
Although the Christmas rush to England at this season increases every year, the agents of the different lines say that they have never experienced before such a tremendous demand for berths on the ships as at the present time. The bookings for the Cunard Christmas ships are very large, both for the Canada, Dec. 7, and Lusitania, Dec. 14, from New York. On account of their being so popular with travelers, they will be filled up long before the time. The bookings for the Cunard Christmas ships are very large, both for the Canada, Dec. 7, and Lusitania, Dec. 14, from New York. On account of their being so popular with travelers, they will be filled up long before the time. The bookings for the Cunard Christmas ships are very large, both for the Canada, Dec. 7, and Lusitania, Dec. 14, from New York. On account of their being so popular with travelers, they will be filled up long before the time.

Lady Jockey.
Miss Mary Money, an American lady rider, has gone to Paris with the object of obtaining a jockey's license. She had won twenty-eight prizes and fourteen silver cups in America, and hopes to be allowed to ride at the races in Paris.

THREE MILLIONS LOSS IN BIG ELEVATOR FIRE

Great Northern Plant, With Three Flour Mills, 40 Homes and Much Grain Consumed.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 9.—Fire which started in the Great Northern elevator at Superior, Wis., about 9 o'clock last night, was brought under control early this morning, after having destroyed the elevator, three flour mills, forty houses and 700,000 bushels of grain. Two cows, a derrick and two tugs were also destroyed. The loss is estimated at $3,268,000.

The man who entered the plant of the Duluth-Superior Storage Co. to rescue a tool chest was not seen again and it is thought he perished in the flames.

The estimated losses are partially distributed as follows: Great Northern elevator and power house, $1,250,000; Freeman flour mill and elevator, $350,000; Great Lakes Flouring Co. mill, $750,000; Minkota flour mill and elevator, $500,000; Webster Chair Co., $30,000; Superior Shipbuilding Co., $35,000; W. B. Brown, marine contractor, $350,000; Northern Pacific Railway bridge, $500,000.

The fire, the cause of which is unknown, started at the southwest corner of elevator "A" dock, and before it was discovered had spread to the elevator proper.

An alarm was turned in and four fire trucks responded. The intense heat, however, drove the tugs from the dock, unable to do anything to save the elevator, they concentrated their efforts on an attempt to save the adjoining property.

Flying sparks from the burning elevator soon ignited the Grand Republic Mill, the dock of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Co. and the plant of the Duluth-Superior Storage Company, which contained the finished plant of the Webster Chair Co.

The Globe elevator, owned by the Peavey Grain Co., which was situated behind the sawmill of Peyton, Kinball & Barber, but the flames at both these buildings were extinguished before much damage was done. The dock of the St. Paul and Western Coal Co. caught fire, but the blaze there was quickly brought under control. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

Coates Plymouth Gin NEARS THIS LABEL

EVERY BOTTLE OF GENUINE
Coates Plymouth Gin
NEARS THIS LABEL

PRICE OF MILK CAUSES CLASH AT PHILADELPHIA

Farmers Trying to Force Milk
Famine—Small Dealers Suffer
—Holding Shipments Back.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Finding it impossible to obtain 5-1-2 a quart of milk from a large number of the small dealers, more than a score of farmers stopped their shipments to this city yesterday, and as a result there was a shortage of nearly 30,000 quarts.

The dealers, however, appeared to have all the milk they wanted, and yet they claimed they were not paying 5-1-2 a quart. The little fellows asked in view of the distressing condition there is no use of trying to pull together, and 25 more declared yesterday they would leave the exchange and join the Independent Milkmen's Association, which will be started to-morrow afternoon at Schuyler Hall, Sixth and Diamond streets.

Among the dealers who have been seriously affected by the shortage is James P. Mallon of No. 1404 North Second-street. Nine farmers have refused to ship him milk, and to-day he will be 1400 quarts short. Should this shortage continue, he will have to take some of his own milk to the city.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

The elevator was owned by the Great Northern Railway, but was leased to the A. D. Thompson Grain Co. of Duluth. The grain there was fully insured. The losses on the Grand Republic, Duluth and Superior, was damaged enough to interfere with traffic between the two cities.

At the Theatres

The vaudeville war, which at one time during the early part of the theatrical season threatened to be a bitter fight, is ended, a settlement satisfactory to both the United States Amusement Co. (Klaw and Erlanger) and the United Booking Co. (Keith, Proctor and Williams) having been arrived at.

When the Shuberts merged with Klaw and Erlanger a number of the leading theatres erected for the former were taken over by the latter for "advanced vaudeville" attractions, in opposition to the Keith-Proctor-Williams interests. Klaw and Erlanger endeavored to bring the Royal Alexandra here into the fold, but the owners of the theatre refused to allow the new house to be classed with the vaudeville theatres, preferring stock to "advanced vaudeville." They, however, obtained the Academy of Music in Montreal, and the Teck Theatre in Buffalo, besides a number of the Shubert houses.

"Advanced vaudeville" was not a success in all the cities, altho in a few of the larger places business warranted continuance. When it was announced recently that the Keith-Proctor-Williams interests would establish a high price combination "vaudeville" from New York to the West, the negotiation for a settlement of the vaudeville war was in progress, and was only a report founded on the fact that the owners' interests were in conference. While the details of the settlement have not yet been announced, the withdrawal of "advanced vaudeville" from the big houses will be gradual