

INTIMIDATION OF TURKEY IS SUSPECTED

Britain and France Seen
Backing Hand of Italy

OFFICIALS DENY
Say Move Is Matter of Precaution; No Idea of Abyssinia
Partition

British United Press
LONDON, April 16.—Sir Austen Chamberlain's sudden friendliness with Mussolini and his apparent support of the Italian Colonial policy is arousing some suspicion in political circles here, especially among the Liberal and Labor groups. There is a well-founded rumor that if the coalition which now dominates everything here, is settled, the whole question of the new orient action of British policy will be raised in the House of Commons.

This friendliness has also aroused the suspicion that France and Britain are backing Italy for the purpose of intimidating Turkey and in Belgium and Germany it is openly stated that Mussolini's recent trip to Tripoli was made for the sole purpose of overawing the Turks.

It is said further that the British foreign minister warmly approved of this journey as an indication to Turkey of what would happen if she attempted to wage war over the Mosul question. Officials here deny that there is any special significance in the cultivation of Italian friendship and especially in Turkey circles the argument is put forward that it is far better to keep in record with ambitious Italy than to allow her to feel that all the powers are hostile to her and thus tend to stimulate an unrestrained ambition. Britain, they say, learned a lesson over the Ruhr problem when failure to join the French in their occupation encouraged France to take extreme measures. Britain is now negotiating with Italy over the Abyssinian question, and the suggestion is made that the ultimate object of these negotiations is the partition of the country, although this is denied in official circles.

MANY AT FUNERAL OF MILES WILSON

Railway Conductors and Knights of Pythias Well Represented;
Tributes Numerous

Special to The Times-Star.
MONCTON, N. B., April 16.—The funeral of the late Miles Wilson, held under the direction of the Knights of Pythias, from his late home, 63 Archibald street, at 2:30 this afternoon, was largely attended. The Order of Railway Conductors, of which the late Mr. Wilson was a member, was very well represented, as was also the Knights of Pythias. Rev. Mr. Richardson conducted the services, while members of the choir sang favorite hymns. A large number of beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the sympathy extended to the family and the esteem in which he was held.

The pallbearers were Joseph Bedford, Joseph Hand and Harry Twigger of the K. of P.'s, A. J. Welling and W. Warman from the the editors, and Wm. Union, a special friend of the family. The committal services were performed by District Deputy Geo. Watman and the Rev. Mr. Richardson.

BALDWIN CABINET SEEKS PAPER DUTY

LONDON, April 16.—In spite of strenuous opposition from its own supporters the government has definitely refused to abandon its proposal to impose a protective duty upon packing and wrapping paper. There is bound to be lively criticism when the matter comes up in the commons and there will be by no means unanimity in the conservative ranks. Canada will, of course, get preferential treatment if the protective duty is put into effect.

CHIEF JUSTICE RECALLS DAYS IN SAINT JOHN

Hon. F. A. Anglin Pays Tribute To City and Province At Luncheon

A pleasant exchange of felicitations marked the luncheon given yesterday by the Saint John Law Society to Chief Justice Anglin of the Supreme Court of Canada, a former resident of this city. Hon. Mr. Anglin referred in complimentary terms to the ability of the legal men of this city and province and dwelt at some length on his early days here. Speaking of "Maritime Rights," he expressed a hope for "Maritime Legislation."

TOAST PROPOSED
Hon. L. P. D. Tilley, chairman, before calling on Chief Justice Anglin to propose the toast to the honored guest, said the number present indicated how eager the bar of Saint John were to pay honor to the visiting Chief Justice.

Chief Justice Anglin proposed the toast to the Chief Justice in happy vein and Chief Justice Barry nicely seconded it.

JUDGE ANGLIN REPLIES.
The Chief Justice was accorded a splendid reception when he rose to reply. He said his first word must be one of sincere thanks for the more than kind welcome he was receiving on all sides upon his return to his native city. It was a particular honor that he should be lunched so happily and so very graciously by the bar of Saint John.

The toast that he proposed and seconded of the toast to his health should be Chief Justice of the Maritime Provinces. Judge Anglin spoke of his young life in Saint John and of the education he received in the schools here. He had never any cause to regret the excellent tutoring imparted in those old days in the schools of this city and province, the soundly educational system that fitted many men now prominent in the business professional and commercial circles of the world. Maritime provincialism, and more particularly New Brunswick men, who have gone out into varied fields have met with success in great number. His Honor attributed much of this success to the educational system of the Maritime Provinces, particularly New Brunswick.

The distinguished guest stated that it was occasionally his pleasure at Ottawa to hear cases presented by lawyers from his old home town and province. He was always sure that such arguments would be well presented, the cases well compared and considered. Maritime lawyers were effective in presenting their cases and he always cherished a secret pride when such appeared before him.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.
During his address Judge Anglin gave a brief sketch of the history of the Supreme Court of Canada and of some of the simplifying methods introduced in late years. These were explained in legal phraseology and proved interesting to the lawyers. In the course of these remarks the speaker said that out of the seven Canadian Chief Justices since the establishment of the court in 1875, three of them were Maritime Province men, a quota which he considers not only complimentary to this section but the Dominion but constituting a record. His Honor told of the procedure of the court at Ottawa and the pleasant and respectful manner in which the professional hearers with much valuable information. As a parting message he said:

"I wish you all happiness, all prosperity, all success. I will be happy to welcome you to the Supreme Bar of Canada where I will promise on behalf of myself and associate judges that your cases will be well considered. If we do not always agree with your learned Maritime judges, well, appellate counsel will perhaps be all the happier."

Official Income Tax Changes Given At a Glance

OTTAWA, April 15.—An official summary of the income tax changes says: Very substantial reductions are made in the income tax, especially on lower incomes. For example, a married person without dependents, with an income of $3,000, will pay no tax as compared with a tax of $40 under the existing law. With a $4,000 income direct from services, other than dividends, he will pay $20 as against $80, under the present law, and if he has an income of $5,000, he will pay $40, as contrasted with $120. The new rates will apply on 1925 income on which the tax is payable on the 30th of this month.

Exemptions are increased from $2,000 to $3,000 for married persons and from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons. Home free householders will enjoy the same exemptions as married persons. Where a husband and wife have each a separate income, exceeding $1,000, each will receive an exemption of $1,500 as compared with $2,000 previously.

Income of personal companies, incorporated for the purpose of evading the tax will be considered a dividend to the shareholders and taxed accordingly.

SOVIET CLAIMS ALL OF ARCTIC TERRITORY

Embraces All Lands,
Discovered and Undiscovered

NOT PRECEDENT
Britain Passed Similar Legislation Re Antarctic In 1923 and 1924

Canadian Press
MOSCOW, April 16.—The president of the All-Russian executive has decreed that the territory of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics embraces all Arctic lands and islands heretofore discovered, as well as undiscovered, which at the moment of publication of the present decree Russia does not recognize as constituting part of the territory of any other country.

The decree embraces the territory situated north in the Arctic Ocean, north of the Soviet Republic's coast of the North Pole within the meridian of 32 degrees 40 minutes, 35 seconds eastern longitude from Greenwich, passing the eastern section of Vaidya Bay across the triangular mark of Karkurski Cape, and the meridian 108 degrees 40 minutes 30 seconds, western longitude from Greenwich, passing through the middle of the bay dividing the islands of Hatzmanov, Krusenstern and Diomid, a group in Bering Straits.

Authoritative circles maintain that the decree does not establish a new precedent, inasmuch as Great Britain passed analogous acts respecting the Antarctic zone in 1923 and 1924.
