wished to retain their mandates. For days past and especially yesterday on the eve of reassembling, the members heard in their political clubs and in the newspapers that they would meet for little more than to hear Mr. Baldwin pronounce the dissolution of Parliament and that their careers as far as the present Parliament was concerned, had ended.

The meeting today accordingly became invested with extraordinary interest for members of the House as well as the country at large and no one who was able to attend failed to arrange for his early presence. Overnight the political clubs and the offices of the party organizations buzzed with rumors of the dissolution which was believed to be impending immediately, and everyone concerned finally became convinced that the premier had decided to announce that fact to the House to-day.

Conier With Baldwin

London, Nov. 13.—Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party in the House of Commons, and Arthur Henderson, visited Premier Baldwin today. According to the Evening Standard, the Premier told them he would advise the King to dissolve Parliament in preparation for a general election. According to some well informed writers there has been a rather sharp division in the cabinet over the question of holding an election before or after Christmas. It is said that another discussion took place vesterday, when ter Christmas. It is said that another discussion took place yesterday, when there was a small majority in favor of holding a December election, but final decision was not reached even then. The belief overnight was that the election would be debated again at another meeting today before the House

It is believed that arrangements were made whereby the three will join Mr. Baldwin's associates in the coming fight for protection.

It is also said that the Premier offered them posts without portfolios in the present cabinet, acceptance whereof would imply they are slated for definite offices in the new minis-(Continued on page 2, fourth column.)

Medical Journal Finds Beauty Clay Is Just Plain, Ordinary "Mud"

New York, Nov. 13-Mud beautifiers are attacked in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, which reported that five of the best known complexion muds were analyzed.

"With one exception," says the official organ of the association, "no substance other than clap, perfume and water was found." The one exception contained also a little glycerine and a trace of salicylate. "Next to nostrums sold for the afleged rejuvenation of the male," says the Journal, "the most popular form of contemporary charlatanry is the exploitation of alleged beautifiers for the female. During the last year or two the cosmetic market has been glutted with a veritable avalanche of so-called complexion clays and face packs." After discussing some of the claims for these products, the Journal con-

"Here is a helpful hint for those women who think the path of beauty lies through the clay route: Go to your neighborhood druggist and purchase a pound of kaolin (dried, powdered clay). It will cost about twenty cents. Mix it with the same weight of water. You will then have two pounds of beauty clay equal in beautifying power to, and purer than, any of the products on the market that are sold for from $2 to $10 a pound. The only thing you will lack is the mental uplift produced by reading the ineffable bosh published by the complexion clay exploiters."

Berlin Government Denies Former Kaiser is Invited to Return.

(By Canadian Press.) Berlin, Nov. 13 .- It is officially denied here that former Emperor William has been authorized to return to Germany. Canadian Press despatches received from Brussels last night indicated that passports have been given to the former Emformer Crown Prince, would ascend the throne on December 4. At the time of going to press no confirmation of these plans had been received by any of the various news agencies,

Brussels, Nov. 13-William Hehenzollern, former Emperor of Germany, was again a figure commanding world attention today as the governments of the powers made efforts to learn more Germany.

Equipped with passports for himself and members of his staff, the ex-Kaiser is said to be prepared to establish either himself or his son, former Crown Prince Frederick William, on the throne of the empire on December 4.

There was no official confirmation of the activities at Doorn House, nor was William's destination in Germany suggested. Private messages from the little-Dutch village, however, said that a courier delivered there twelve passports permitting the ex-Kaiser and his entourage to re-enter the Fatherland after their five years in exile. Cipher messages are also said to have been received at the castel during the day. It is pointed out here that William
