DONT FEAR GERMAN FILMS

American Producers Say Their Pictures Would Not Please Here

Berlin, June 1.—German moving-picture films will not be serious competitors of American films in the near future, in the opinion of many American producers who have been in Germany within the last few months studying the development of the film industry.

"Neither the plays staged by Germans nor the personality of the German actors I have seen would appeal to American patrons," one of America's foremost film producers declared, after an inspection tour which included the leading studios in the moving-picture theatres of Germany.

"I could truthfully say the same of the British film industry. American producers are, in my opinion, far ahead of the Germans and British in the art of producing appealing films.

"In Germany many of the important films are too gruesome for the American public. Then the actresses who appear in many of the films are not young and beautiful enough to satisfy Americans."

German film makers are producing many skillfully done, but the themes are generally gloomy and not of a character which Americans demand.

VAUDEVILLE MANAGERS ARE CLEANING HOUSE

(New York Evening Post)

Some vaudeville managers are already cleaning house. They don't want any censorship law like that of the films.

The Vaudeville News issues a warning as follows: "If artists do not clean up their material and keep it clean the censors will do it in a more drastic manner than the vaudeville managers ever dreamed of."

It also prints a letter from E. F. Albee to that effect, which he has sent to artists, saying that in two cities performers were ordered off the stage, and in one city the theatre license was suspended for four weeks for allowing the artist to appear and use the material he did.

Mr. Albee's appeal will be headed by the wise, for he is a powerful factor in vaudeville. There has been too much license on the regular stage, too, and the film censorship may be extended to include all stages.

House-cleaning has been made obligatory in the film theatres, the vaudeville theatres and the leading ones—and that is but only voluntarily, and the others had better do it. Suggestive costumes in musical shows long ago reached the limit, suggestive bedroom scenes are too common and cheap sensation has become nauseous. Why not censor your own stage? You can do it if you like, and very much better than an official censor who is generally a person of mighty poor judgment or utterly incompetent for his place.

EMBARGO ENQUIRY

London, June 1.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Sir Daniel Hall, scientific adviser to the British board of agriculture, cross-examined yesterday at the enquiry into the effect of the embargo on imported cattle in force in the British Isles, told counsel for Scottish agricultural interests that the total importations from Canada were so small as not to be worth while taking the risk of disease.

Sir Daniel said that the British farmer was now in a very doubtful state concerning the future and that it was felt by the department that nothing ought to be done to impair confidence by introducing another disturbing factor.

Sir Robert Grey, a member of the Scottish board of agriculture, informed the commission that the board's opinion was that before the embargo was imposed the importation of Canadian cattle had increased food production by enabling the home farmer to grow more grass. It would be an advantage, Sir Robert argued, for the farmer and consumer to obtain a larger number of steer cattle.

Professor Wallace of Edinburgh declared that the admission of foreign or Canadian cattle would mean a reduction of the food available for cattle. There would also be great fluctuations in prices when the supply of Canadians varied. Thousands of breeding cows, he said, would disappear and cattle raised between March 4 and 28. The wholesale price of meat had, he said, tended to fall, but it was impossible to state the effect of cattle importation on such prices.

In The House. London, May 31.—In the House of Commons today Percy Hurd asked for the numbers of Canadian and United States cattle arriving in Great Britain for slaughter since the re-opening of trade and whether they had any appreciable effect on meat prices.

Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, president of the board of agriculture, gave the numbers as 14,740 from the United States and 2,007 from Canada between March 4 and 28. The wholesale price of meat had, he said, tended to fall, but it was impossible to state the effect of cattle importation on such prices.

FIDO MUST PAY FASHION'S TOLL

(Staff correspondence Toronto Globe.)

Ottawa, May 31.—Poor, we Fido cannot get any help from that great, big all-governing body—the Canadian House of Commons—to grow up as nature intended he should, with a full-length tail to brush the flies off in the summer and keep his short warm in the winter.

Now, if every Fido in the country was just plain dog and companion to a small boy, Canada's House of Commons would let nature have its way, and every dog would get legal protection.

But from the viewpoint of the little "brier mongrel" on the corner, the House of Commons is a high-brow. It legislates from the standpoint of the lady in the limousine, and not from the standpoint of little barefoot Willie and his "jest dog." If every boy in the country remembers when he is twenty-one and votes on what happened in the house today, the present members will have no friends.

The house was about to make it a law that a penalty of $100 or three months in jail be imposed for the docking of a dog's tail. Fido was at last being legislated for, and not against, as he usually is, because he is often blamed for killing off sheep.

For a moment Fido was safe. Then somebody remembered that in the limousine and the dog show. If you cannot dock Fido's tail when he has a pedigree as long as your arm, how is Fido going to fit into a lady's muff or go under the discriminating eye of the judge at the said show. Judges "ain't natural," so it can't be. Therefore, Fido must have a short tail and dogs were exempt from the docking list.

But what good is a red-bow ribbon on a half-inch tail "when it comes to knocking off a fly under one's throat?" The little "yeller dog" which always gets the short end in every branch of his life, still gets the short end—tail may be docked.

SAYS THAT HE CAN MANUFACTURE GOLD

New York, June 1.—(By Canadian Press)—Dr. Charles Benson Davis, of this city, in a paper which he has just submitted to Engineering Foundation, in chemical journals.

He has solved the problem of manufacturing gold. He declares he has already successfully demonstrated the possibility of gold making and other chemical elements, such as silver, platinum and copper, by transmutation of a common element. He has shown samples of the metal he claims to have made to members of the Engineering Foundation and has requested that body to investigate his claims and his methods.

Dr. Davis is a well-known chemist and has a high standing in his profession. He is a member of the Chemical Society of Industry, a Fellow of the British Chemical Society, and an honorary member of the Societe Academique d'Hor-torie Internationale. He is the author of several papers which have been published in chemical journals.

Made Dugouts Near Berlin—Discarded Modern Clothes—Went Too Far, However.

Berlin, May 12.—A. P. by mail.—The colony of cave-dwellers of Berlin, which took the back-to-the-land doctrine so literally that scores of men, women, boys and girls dug caves for themselves in the banks of the Spree just out of Berlin and discarded all modern wearing apparel, has been dispersed by the police. The colony's leader, Dr. Heinrich Goldberg, argued before a magistrate that the experiment was a simple solution of the house and cost of living problems.

The cave-dwellers began by discarding hats and shoes, but soon decided to do away with clothing altogether, and in this fashion discarded themselves in the waters of the Spree, or sat about their cave doors munching black bread and sausages, apparently oblivious to the crowds of sightseers which began to frequent the vicinity.

Dr. Goldberg, from his abode in the "Cave of Zarathustra," issued circulars discussing the Nietzschean philosophy, anarchy, Communism, the faults of the present civilization and asking the rent-wearers and the work-worm to "watch this colony grow."

Somebody spoiled the experiment by complaining that the brotherhood was having a deleterious effect upon public morals and calling attention to the doctor's career, which was said to have included efforts to reform England, Russia and Poland.
