

ars with trouble promptly is usually bowels be Poisonous I leave the days in the sons par-muscles, ive juices food, and process of

Mary's, Ont. 1 box of Fruit-ribe. I have missed them a week with a good case dyspepsia stomach talk of

ives Tablets

oubles be-eten and mach and nstipation cause of concentra-combined et directly be the flow the bowels naturally

"Fruit-a-kidneys—ake them—and rid-ssive urea stimulate skin to in-ke away—and keep and lovely-ment with I make you stomach. $2.50. Sec-onding, OTTAWA.

CT. PROBLEMS. situate in the of Rupert Dis-ict of Southeast Murphy, Free 2500, and B. J. Certificate No. from date here- Certificate for the Crown Grant of be that action, commenced be- Certificate of January, A. D., that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

that, 80 days ply to the Hon-nds and Works the following about 3 miles east shore of commencing at N's southeast chains north, e or less to the anal, thence 40 re line to point ling 150 acres

R. NOBLE, Noble, Agent, March 8th, 1906.

WEEKLY WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

Victoria Meteorological Office, March 21st to 27th, 1906. The chief feature of the past week's weather in this district has been the welcome and much needed rain. At the commencement of the week on the 21st, a disturbance on the Californian coast was retarded in its movement eastward by a high pressure area which developed in the Canadian Northwest, and the pressure of moderate rain appeared over Vancouver Island. These conditions caused heavy rainfall in California, and moderate rains in most districts northward to British Columbia. On the 22nd, a disturbance on the western coast advanced the Pacific Coast, and two small depressions, one central over this province and the other overlying Nevada, Utah, Arizona, and New Mexico. On the 23rd, a pressure area, centered on the Oregon coast, brought light rains generally, and mild temperatures prevailed everywhere west of the Rockies. By the 24th, the storm area had moved northward to British Columbia, causing heavy rain in California and light to moderate rain throughout the Pacific states, Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland. The arrangements are in the hands of a capable committee, and the affair should prove an unqualified success.

VETERINARY COURSE AT HOME.

At a press dispatch from Dawson says: "Some idea of how the approach of spring may be expected in the Yukon this season can be gathered from the records of last year. The lowest temperature developed in this year thus far has been a little colder than March of last year. The greater part of the time in March of last year the maximum temperature was in the 30's above. The lowest maximum was four above and the highest 40 above, but the thawing point was not reached in the day time until March 27th."

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

The man who made his name in life the contribution of some happiness to man-kind such as the physician who practiced not for the money but because of his benevolence, was the true Christian. To the lawyer, the teacher and the minister the same was applicable. W. J. Dowler and D. R. Ker afterwards proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer, which was enthusiastically adopted.

VETERINARY COURSE AT HOME.

At a press dispatch from Dawson says: "Some idea of how the approach of spring may be expected in the Yukon this season can be gathered from the records of last year. The lowest temperature developed in this year thus far has been a little colder than March of last year. The greater part of the time in March of last year the maximum temperature was in the 30's above. The lowest maximum was four above and the highest 40 above, but the thawing point was not reached in the day time until March 27th."

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

gary, where the company has established a branch which will be opened on April 1st. Prior to his departure, a pleasing incident occurred which will long be remembered by Mr. Waring. Yesterday morning he visited the local offices of the company to bid good-bye to the boys. Just before leaving he was met by the members of the staff, headed by J. B. Giffen, who presented him with a handsome locket suitably engraved on behalf of the staff of the Vancouver branch. Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. Waring replied briefly, thanking his friends for their handsome gift."

VETERINARY COURSE AT HOME.

At a press dispatch from Dawson says: "Some idea of how the approach of spring may be expected in the Yukon this season can be gathered from the records of last year. The lowest temperature developed in this year thus far has been a little colder than March of last year. The greater part of the time in March of last year the maximum temperature was in the 30's above. The lowest maximum was four above and the highest 40 above, but the thawing point was not reached in the day time until March 27th."

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

LOOK FOR SPRING HUMORS, THEY CROP OUT CONSTANTLY. SHOWING THE SYSTEM NEEDS PURIFYING. Since time immemorial it has been customary to take "spring medicine," and why? All winter your clothes have been heavy, you may not have bathed frequently enough, and you've eaten a lot of strong heavy food. Consequently the pores of the skin have not eliminated very fast, the liver is sluggish and the whole system clogged with impurities. Spring days bring poisons to the surface, and ultimately they break out in rashes, humors and pimples. Spring days bring poisons to the surface and ultimately they break out in rashes, humors and pimples. Before spring sickness arrives you should cleanse and purify the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. At once you'll feel their mighty influence building up weak spots, clearing out disease, and putting you again on your feet. These purely vegetable pills change your tired worn-out condition to one of health and vigor, because they supply the body with nourishing blood that builds up and cleanses the entire system. Mr. Jno. Whitley, of Stanwood, P. O., Ont., knows the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and says: "I wouldn't be cured today had it not been for Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Last winter I was sick with Grippe and when spring came I was weak, bilious and rheumatic. I used enough medicine to cure the bilious attacks and rheumatic pains gradually departed, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a new man of me. I proved their merit and proclaim them a medicine for all men. My better health and prompt recovery are entirely due to Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut to-day. At all dealers, 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont."

VETERINARY COURSE AT HOME.

At a press dispatch from Dawson says: "Some idea of how the approach of spring may be expected in the Yukon this season can be gathered from the records of last year. The lowest temperature developed in this year thus far has been a little colder than March of last year. The greater part of the time in March of last year the maximum temperature was in the 30's above. The lowest maximum was four above and the highest 40 above, but the thawing point was not reached in the day time until March 27th."

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

NAME-BORROW FROM UNKNOWN VESSEL WAS PICKED UP OFF THE KYQUOQT COAST Sealing Captains Have at Last Secured Indian Crews - Shipment of Whaling Products. (From Thursday's Daily.) A name-board of some vessel with only the two last letters "OO" remaining, the name followed with "Portland, Ore.," was found on shores of one of the islands off Kyquoqt by Mr. Ellison and brought to the city on the steamer Queen City this morning. The board is painted white, and the lettering thereon is in white, that in "Portland, Ore.," being much smaller than that of the name. The board is six feet long, and was given to Capt. Townsend of the Queen City. Whether it will be a clue to some wreck that has occurred on this coast or on the coast to the south is a mere subject for conjecture. The Queen City came in this morning. She had been to Cape Scott and way stations, and brings back among other news the report that the sealing schooners are at last securing their Indian crews, although not on the conditions upon which the owners at first insisted. The natives demanded $8 a canoe before they would agree to ship on any of the schooners. After weeks of negotiations the captains, it is said, have consented to meet their terms. The Libbie and Jessie, which had been waiting for crews on the coast, have now cleared from Ahousaht, and the Eva Marie, another of the sealing fleet, met on the coast, would very soon be able to get away also. A relic from the Valencia wreck in the shape of a barrel of wine was brought to Victoria on the Queen City. It had been found on the coast and taken to Bamfield. It will be here turned over to Collector John Newbury, as receiver of wrecks. The Queen City got in from the coast about 1 o'clock this morning. She arrived about the same time as the Otter, which brought from the whaling station at Sechart about 600 barrels of oil and a shipment of fertilizer. This will be transferred to the steamer Yangtze now at the outer wharf. In addition to the oil, the Otter is bringing on this round-the-world liner a shipment of over 200 barrels of oil already on the wharf together with a quantity of whale tail. This has been cured and long packed, and is being sent to Japan, where there is a demand for it for eating purposes. Word from Sechart is to the effect that eight or nine whales a week are being killed by the Otter. This means that the station is run about at full capacity. From it and the fishing stations on the coast steamers are now receiving considerable freight. The Queen City had over a carload of salmon, which is destined for the East.

VETERINARY COURSE AT HOME.

At a press dispatch from Dawson says: "Some idea of how the approach of spring may be expected in the Yukon this season can be gathered from the records of last year. The lowest temperature developed in this year thus far has been a little colder than March of last year. The greater part of the time in March of last year the maximum temperature was in the 30's above. The lowest maximum was four above and the highest 40 above, but the thawing point was not reached in the day time until March 27th."

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wrangler hotel owned by John Grant, then spread to the department store of F. W. Clayton and the post office, the Weekly Sentinel office and three or four private dwellings.

THE WRANGLER FIRE.

The flames spread quickly from Pioneer Hotel, Where They Started. The story of the recent fire at Wrangle, is told as follows in a special dispatch to the Seattle Times from Juneau: The Wrangler fire started at 4.30 p. m. Saturday on the second floor of the Pioneer hotel used as an annex to the Wrangler hotel. In half an hour the house was all in flames which spread to the adjoining building occupied by a restaurant conducted by P. C. Jensen, mayor of the town. Next came the store and barber shop of L. C. Panetade. The flames leaped across the street and ignited the three-story Wr