Eleven Years' History Of National League in Figures

Interesting figures have been prepared which give at a glance the history of the National League for the last eleven years. In this time New York and Chicago monopolized the pennant, the former winning it five times and the latter four. Pittsburgh, with two titles, is the only other club to win a championship. However, Chicago leads New York insofar as total games won and lost are concerned, having a percentage of .641 to .634 for the Giants.

In the eleven years Reulbach led the pitchers three times and Mathewson and Marquard each once, while Bescher and Wagner had all the best of it in individual base stealing and batting lines, respectively, the former leading in four years and the latter in seven. In seven years the Giants led all rivals in team batting, with Schulte and Jordan tied twice as the best home run swatters. Wagner and Mitchell each led twice in three-base hits, while Wagner outshone all others in two-base hitting by standing at the head in 1904, 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909.

Following are the leaders each year:

Britons Would Give Lot to See Carpentier Licked—Big Crowd Will See The Fight In London

NEW YORK, April 29.—Ever since Georges Carpentier of France, first hopped into fame as a pugilist diamond of the high priced variety of the British sports having been trying feverishly to reduce his market value. When the Paris idol was a lightweight they commenced the campaign against him, which up to date has resulted so disastrously for the English pug. But Georges thrived on the ring diet thus furnished him, and ate his way steadily through the British menu, devouring lightweight, welter, and middleweight champs of the John Bull order, until he crowned the feast by finishing off their heavyweight swell—Bombarrier Wells—on two occasions.

Only three defeats mar Carpentier's record, and these were administered by middleweight pugs—the Dixie Kid, Frank Klaus and Billy Papke. He never has been beaten in London, however, where he is rated as a wonder because of the easy fashion in which he topples over the best man the Britons could put against him.

For that reason Dick Burge has seen fit to offer a purse of $25,000 for a battle between the French star and Gunboat Smith which Jim Buckley has accepted. A fight with this pair as principals would draw a tremendous house in London and surely more than repay Burge for his outlay. Much as the "London" sportsmen prize Carpentier's skill, there is one thing they would admire a great deal more—a man that could lick him. Hence the threatened importation of Gunboat Smith who will make his debut abroad as a near champion under very favorable circumstances.

For the chances are good that Gunboat, if he fights up to his usual standard, should stop the Frenchman within the 20 round limit. It will be something unusual for the American slugger to possess an advantage in weight over his opponent, he is accustomed to giving away chunks of it, but in the Carpentier match he will scale at least 11 pounds heavier than Georges. The latter is probably the cleverest boxer of the two, but his ability to rough matters with an aggressive, hard hitting opponent is doubtful. If milling on even weight terms with Papke and Klaus he collapsed under the punching handed him, how can he be expected to stand the punishment he will be subjected to when the heavy Smith batteries rake him fore and aft.

Can't See Him a Loser
Don't think for a moment that Carpentier's townies figure him as a possible loser. If ever there lived an athlete whom his compatriots deemed invincible it is this same Carpentier. John L. Sullivan in his palmist days never had anything on the French lad so far as home popularity was concerned. When he put Bomb Wells out of the running his fame was complete, there was nothing wanting to make him the greatest hero in France with all classes and both sexes, high and low. His past defeats were forgotten, and when he lost a close decision to Joe Jeannette the other day his Paris reputation wasn't hurt thereby. Rather they considered him a marvel of courage in venturing against one of the formidable Negro heavyweights who for so long terrorized the white brigade.

The oddest angle to the Jeannette-Carpentier match transpired a few days ago when Jeannette's manager, Dan McKetrick, wrote to a friend in this city stating that in his opinion Carpentier out-pointed Jeannette and was entitled to the verdict. Such remarkable candor in one of the managerial breed is deserving of mention as about the only instance of its kind on record, particularly as McKetrick expressed no wish that the contents of the missive be kept quiet.

The comment which it aroused in those sections of the city where the glove game followers congregate was to say the least ironical. There seemed to be a most unchristian belief in Dan's apparently candid motives for "knocking" the faithful dinge under his charge. They said, these harsh critics, that "Mack" was saving the Frenchies, partly to preserve his and Joe's standing in England, and partly because he hoped to pull Carpentier under the ropes again for another whaling.

Managers have been known to hand out virulent roasts to scrappers they formerly praised to the skies—after the said scrappers had thrown off their two lines and cast them adrift. But this doesn't explain the case of Jeannette's mentor, for he and Dan are still jogging contentedly along in double harness like a pair of veteran, well-trained rules. Perhaps Mack actually told the truth, but one can hardly fancy that he would so carelessly shatter the ethics promulgated by the members of the Modern Managerial Fistic Booster's Association, Unlimited.

Quite Time.

Among the congregation assembled at a chapel near Wigan a few days ago was an elderly lady well known as an eccentric character. The lesson read by the minister this day happened to be the 2nd chapter of St. Matthew. During the reading of the 23rd and 26th verses, which related the history of the woman who had seven husbands, all of whom died before her, the old lady seemed to grow very excited, and when the next verse was read which said, "And last of all the woman died also," the old lady cried out at the top of her voice, "Time for her."

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY
Kept her locks youthful, dark, glossy and thick with common garden Sage and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and trouble some. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application of two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger. Agent T. George Bowles.

Watching The Score Board

Cincinnati having dug up Douglas a new pitcher, is proceeding to win games with him. He held St. Louis to four hits and won 6 to 1 yesterday. Hans Wagner scored two runs, hit three safeties and accepted five chances. Not bad for the old man. Chicago Cubs dropped pretty nearly in the cellar yesterday when the pirates pummeled them 5 to 2. Humphries was touched for five hits in the seventh round.

Demaree bested Dicky Rudolph and New York won 4 to 1 from Boston. A readjusted batting order did not help the Braves any in their attack.

Letroit Tigers shoved the White Sox out of first place by winning 4 to 1. Main and Kavanagh, both youngsters contributed largely to Detroit's victory. Jennings has been lucky to recruit his team with this kind of stuff. Kavanagh's feat was a homer when it was needed.

Philadelphia got four hits off Walter Johnson, but errors gave the Athletics the victory 2 to 1. The Senators wobbled three times behind the big Swede at inopportune times.

Jack Barry with the lame knee said to be the crack in Connie's $100,000 infield, accepted 10 chances without a slip and got two of the Athletic's hits off Johnson. He is running the Mack combination fast.

The Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves appear to be weak in the pitching department. With a reliable finger added to each staff O'Day and Stallings would be able to command attention.

The Skeeters made it two straight from Toronto, Bunny Hearne having a wild heave in the sixth. The score was 4 to 1.

Indians and Montreal batted to a 15 inning tie, 1 to 1. Britton and Dale were the pitchers hooked up. Baltimore has now lost three straight to Rochester. Jack Dunn's team seems broken up.

McConnell for Buffalo shut Providence out, 3 to 0.

Toledo and Ottawa played until darkness, 5-5.

Buster Burrell was lead off man for Knotty Lee's team, which played a game yesterday.
