About forty representative farmers from the Harwich district, attended a meeting last evening in the Woodmen's Hall, Cedar Springs, in the interests of tobacco growing. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Henry, representative of C. Ward, the Pontiac millionaire tobacconist. Mr. Henry's object was the solicitation of a large acreage in this district for the growing of Zimmer Spanish and Connecticut Havana tobaccos. He had already secured 1,300 acres from farmers, he said.

His proposal was to furnish seed free and he guaranteed 7c. per 1b.

THE CONVERTS

TAKE PART

The centre seats of Park St. Church could not contain all of those who have been converted in the meetings which have been held during the past few weekst

Last night, when those professing conversion at the services were ask-ed to stand, large numbers in the side scats and gallery arose with those who occupied the centre. It was a never to be forgotten sight. The words of both evangelists were specially for those who have decided for Christ during the most line. Christ during the meetings. Mr. Hunter read 1st Corinthians, third chapter. His comments on the Christian church and the relation between it and its members were pointed, practical and plentiful.

Mr. Crossley defined a Christian as one who was more or less like Christ the more like Him, the better Christ-tian. Indecision, halting between two opinions, is the condition of too many. Common sense will not permit them to be atheists, and yet they remain Best Cambridge To-day by Less unreconciled to God. So many people say that they are trying to be a Christian. Drop the trying and trust. Trying, we look to our own endeavor; trusting, we look to God. Having become a Christian, join some church. The Bible says the Lord added unto the church daily such as were being saved. As a rule, join the church which your family attends.

Here are three rules which any min-ister will endorse as a guide in this matter—join the church in which you are most at home, in which you can receive the most good, and where you chose the Surrey side. A half gale was blowing from the southwest as the time for the start drew near, and the water was so rough that the choice of can do the most good.

Mr. Crossley's advice to those desiring to reach the shores of salvation who were yet struggling in the break vantage; and but for the generalship of Culme-Seymour, Oxford's stroke, ers, was to cease trying to save them-selves, grasp the life-line of trust in Jesus, and soon they would find themit might easily have given the race to the light blue. As it was, the spectators were treated to a rare race, the rivals leadselves high and dry upon the shor of peace and joy.

High Court Now Occupied With the Fourth Case Relative to One Residence.

acrion of Matthew W Ison, K C, to Recov er Damages for Alleged Non-Fu!filment of Contract.

Following the disposal of this case, that of Wilson vs. Craddock was taken up.

This is an action brought by Mat-thew Wilson, K. C., of this city, against Mrs. Jennie Craddock, widow of the late Wm. Craddock and executrix of his estate. In the year 1897 Mr. Craddock took the contract for a new dwelling house for M. Wilson, on west Wellington street. The work progressed un-til October, when Mr. Craddock died. The plaintiff claims damages from the widow on the ground that she broke the contract of her late husband broke the contract of her late husband in not proceeding with the work on the house. He also seeks to recover $300 which he paid Mr. Craddock on a progress estimate and which Mr. Craddock paid to Piggott & Sons for material. He also claims for loss of rent of his old house.

The defence will set up that Mrs. Craddock did let the contract after her husband's death to Sparks & Wal-her husband's death to Sparks & Wal-ters, a firm of competent contractors, and that Piggott & Sons agreed to furnish this firm with the balance of the material required on the same condi-tions as they had furnished it to Mr. Craddock; but that Mr. Wilson pre-vented the said Sparks & Walters from carrying out the contract and prevented Piggott & Sons from sup-plying the balance of the material, by eserving to himself the right to finally accept or reject the building, and by not allowing his superintendent, James S. Waugh, to inspect the ma-terial as it was placed in the house. The defence will further allege that the superintendent, Waugh, was wholly in the power and under the direc-tion of the plaintiff and dare not do anything without his sanction. The evidence in this respect will be largely of the same nature as that offered in the Ludlam vs. Wilson case, offered in the Ludiam vs. Wilson case, which is still in court of appeal.

This is the fourth case which has gone into the courts in connection with Mr. Wilson's residence, the three former ones being, Piggott vs. Craddock vs. Wilson, Selkirk vs. Wilson and Ludiam vs. Wilson.

In the case now being tried Lewis & Richards appear for the plaintiff.

In the case now being tried Lewis & Richards appear for the plaintiff, and J. B. Rankin, K. C., and George F. Shepley, K. C., for Mrs. Craddock. The first witness was the plaintiff himself, Matthew Wilson, who was on the stand all afternoon; also during the evening session and for about two hours this morning. He was subjected to a very rigid cross-examination at the hands of Mr. Shepley.

At 11 o'clock this morning James S.

tion at the hands of Mr. Shepley.
At 11 o'clock this morning James S. ketches of the Season's Styles -A Captivating Show Room.

One of the most charming and attractive millinery openings of the season is that of Wm. Foreman & Co.,

which is now on.

The handsome show rooms of this large establishment are graced with flowing draperies and tapestries and beautified by many rich palms and plants. The accomplished head mil-liner with her energetic and capable staff of assistants is being kept exceedingly busy, attending to the re-quirements of the numerous and de lighted patrons.

This season might well be called a natural one and while the delicate pastel shades are still in evidence, the fresh pink and baby blue shades are everywhere to be seen.

Nothing can exceed the diversity of shapes now being shown for spring and summer wear. Hats with all sorts and summer wear. Hats with all of fancy novel crowns, are to be worn, but the pancake and mushroom effects slightly on one side seem to be the reigning favorites. This hat is developed in a delicate shade of light weight straw and chiffon, with crushed roses under the brim. ed roses under the brim.
