Why Pledge Against Cider. Dr Woods, in the "United States Dispensary" says: "Alcohol is the intoxicating ingredient in all spirituous liquors."

Dr Hayes, a noted chemist of Massachusetts, says that "the juice of perfectly sound apples begins to ferment within twenty-four hours after it is expressed."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The case is certainly a remarkable one, and we cannot do better than give it in Mr. Chisson's own words.

Our first reason, then, for inserting "any kind of cider" in our pledge, is because fermented cider contains alcohol.

Second. Sweet cider creates an appetite for hard cider. I believe I may safely say that all confirmed sweet cider drinkers like it best when just beginning to "sparkle" and "move itself right in the cup."

Third. Because cider is the snare in which Satan catches and holds children till they become slaves to alcohol.

Fourth. Because all anti-temperance men and women always condemn all cider drinkers who claim to be temperance workers or advocates.

Fifth. Because reformed drunkards dare not use it.

Sixth. Because in the New England and Middle States, especially in Pennsylvania and Rhode Island, where the products of whole orchards are manufactured into cider, and where the cider pitcher has taken place of the water pitcher, there are more drunken women than are to be found elsewhere in the United States.

Seventh. Because cider drinkers are never successful temperance workers. The call of their appetites for alcohol prevents them from becoming active and earnest, and there is no room in our ranks for idlers.

Eighth. Because cider is Satan's bait with which he catches and holds, at least for a time, weak-minded, weak-willed, and weak-waisted people.

Ninth. Because the successful farmer is the man who has a good business education. He uses business-like methods in his daily practice.

Tenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to measure the consequences of his actions.

Eleventh. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to resist temptation.

Twelfth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his temperance.

Thirteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his family from drinking.

Fourteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his property from being sold.

Fifteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his name from being disgraced.

Sixteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his soul from being lost.

Seventeenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his family from being ruined.

Eighteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his property from being sold.

Nineteenth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his name from being disgraced.

Twentieth. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his soul from being lost.

Twenty-first. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his family from being ruined.

Twenty-second. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his property from being sold.

Twenty-third. Because the successful farmer is the man who is able to keep his name from being disgraced.

TOO WEAK TO WALK.

Friends Had Given up Hope of Recovery.

The Trouble Began With a Cough Which Settled on the Lungs—Subject to Painful Spasms, and at Last Forced to Take to Bed—Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills When All Other Medicines Had Failed.

From L'Impartial, Tigard, P. E. I. Mr. Dominick P. Chisson, who lives on the Harper Road, about two miles from the town of Tigard, P. E. I., personally took the trouble to bring before the notice of the editor of L'Impartial, the particulars of the cure of his daughter.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The case is certainly a remarkable one, and we cannot do better than give it in Mr. Chisson's own words.

Scraps for Odd Moments.

The Christmas tree brings guests first.

Wishing a poor man a merry Christmas is much cheaper than buying his turkey for him.

MINARD'S FAMILY PILLS are purely vegetable.

"Professor," said a graduate, trying to be pathetic at parting, "I am indebted to you for all I know." "Pray do not mention such a trifle," was the reply.

More than she could stand—she has broken her engagement with him.

What was the trouble? He tried to make the engagement ring do for a Christmas present.

"There are many things in this world to which we must shut our eyes," said the paternal Gibson. "Yes, pa, and soap is one of them," chimed in the pride of the family.

What did the editor get for his Christmas? A gold collar button.

Well, isn't he satisfied? No!—Now he wants a shirt.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla braces up the system, purifies and invigorates. Invalids need it.

Bobby—Mamma, if Santa Claus is such a good man, why does he give so many more presents to rich children than he does to the poor ones? Mother—Because it takes so much more to please a rich child than it does a poor one, my son.

MINARD'S HONEY BALSM is a sure cure.

Many the bills that he had to pay, Mad did they make him, in rage he tore them.

Why should he swear or be angry, pray? Even the birds have their bills before them.

That distressing disease, the piles, is speedily relieved and cured by Ayer's Pills.

Perhaps the most startling suggestion for a "reindeer" was that of the little boy whose grandmother had forgotten his Christmas present the year before. She wished to know what thing she should do in order that she should not forget it again. For mightn't you teeth in upside down, said the boy.

I notice Jennie don't speak to you, What's the matter? I can't help it. I started to talk to him about Christmas decorations the other day and he thought I referred to the black eyes he got in a broil with a mutual friend lately.

Last Christmas eve Mr. J. went upstairs to see if the children had hung up their stockings for Santa Claus, and found that little Fred had pinned his up in a prominent place with a slip of paper attached, containing this suggestive sentence: "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

If the hair has been made to grow a natural color on bald heads in thousands of cases, by using Hall's Hair Renewer, why will it not in your case!

Your wife's illness was very long and expensive, wasn't it Tadde! Yes, it was expensive; but I figure that on the whole I saved money by it. How was that?

She couldn't get out of the house at all during the Christmas shopping season. Did your Christmas book have a good sale? It did not.

What was the matter? Well, the publishers got it on the market at eleven-thirty o'clock on the evening of December twenty-fourth and failed at nine o'clock on the twenty-sixth.

CHEROKEE VERMIFUGE kills worms every time.

A well known lawyer on a circuit in the North of England, curious to know how a certain jury man survived such a verdict, meeting him one day, ventured to ask "Well, replied he, 'I'm a plain man, and I like to be fair to every one. I don't go by what the witness say, but I don't go by what the judge say; but I look at the man in the dock, and I say, he must have done something, or he wouldn't be here, so I bring them all in guilty!'"

A well-known barrister relates the following story with great gusto. Some time ago he had under cross-examination a youth from the country who rejoiced in the name of Simon, and whose replies were provocative of much laughter in court.

And so, questioned the barrister, you wish the court to believe that you are a peaceably disposed and inoffensive kind of person? Yes.

And that you have no desire to follow in the steps of your illustrious namesake and emulate the Philistines? No, I've not, answered the witness; and if I had the desire I ain't got the power at present.

Then you think you would be unable to cope successfully with a thousand namesake and utterly rout them with the jawbone on an anvil.

Well, replied the ruffled Simon, I might have a try when you are done with the jawbone.
