THE TRIDUUM—The triduum in honor of the Blessed Sacrament, which opened in St. Dunstan's Cathedral on Friday evening last, closed Sunday evening. This triduum is held in Cathedral churches in accordance with the regulations promulgated by the late Sovereign Pontiff, Pius X. His Holiness directed that the three days following the Feast of Corpus Christi should be thus consecrated. On each evening of the triduum there were, rosary, a sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The sermons all concerned the Blessed Eucharist. Rev. Pius McDonald, preached on Friday evening, Rev. Dr. McLellan on Saturday evening and his Lordship, the Bishop on Sunday evening. A feature of the three days devotion was the general Communion of the faithful on Sunday morning. A very large number approached the altar. Sunday, within the octave of Corpus Christi, solemn high Mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock. Rev. Father Herrell was celebrant, assisted by Revs. Pius McDonald and Frank McDonald as deacon and subdeacon and Rev. Dr. McLellan as Master of ceremonies. After Mass the Blessed Sacrament was borne in solemn procession around the church, his Lordship, carrying the monstrance. Solemn Pontifical Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament took place in the evening, his Lordship the Bishop officiating, assisted by the clergy above mentioned. The services concluded with the TE DEUM.

Canadian Italians will go to the war. Official news was received in Toronto on the 2nd, calling upon all Italian naval and military officers to return home at once, and asking all reservists over 20 years of age to hold themselves ready to join the colors. The use by the Germans of dogs as despatch carriers is shown in connection with the discovery of a nest of spies on the Canadian lines in France. Wounded Canadians now at Cardiff relate how they found that a coffee house near the firing lines, which was largely patronized by the Canadians and other soldiers of the Empire, was kept by spies. How the information regarding the movement of the troops became known to the enemy was forced out of a boy, who disclosed that a dog was used to carry the messages. This dog had been noticed wandering about and was even petted by the Canadians. The messages were hidden under a false coating of hair.

The Indian 'Abegweit'—named in honor of the early French explorer 'La base de belle Isle'—low and beautiful island; and the Islander's 'Garden of the Gulf' is sobriquet as eloquently descriptive of Prince Edward Island today as when they were first followed on this provident spot situated in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Prince Edward Island is separated from the shores of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia by the Straits of Northumberland. From tip to tip the Island one hundred and thirty miles, while the width varies from two to thirty miles. The surface is gently undulating. There are no mountains and no forests to speak of, but the lack of forest does not mean that the country is bare; for copses and clumps of trees are visible on every hand, giving a charming variety to the agricultural scene, and wild birds of woodland are still to be found. The 'Island' as its people love to call it—for where else in all America can be found its duplicate—is in summer a garden of perfect beauty fanned by cooling breezes from the Ocean, with mile after mile of sandy beaches. Invading the land and moulding the red cliffs into fantastic shapes is the ever restless sea. Everywhere are verdant fields, prosperous farms and comfortable homes. Arms of the sea cut into the land in all directions, forming landscapes and seascapes of surpassing loveliness.

The north shore of the Island has a character of its own. For many miles high sand-dunes act as a barrier to the sea. This combined with an unbroken beach of hard white sand permits of surf bathing that would be hard to equal.

Numberless trout streams furnish sport for the angler, and deep sea fishing is easily obtainable. In season brant, wild geese, plover, snipe, woodcock and other game birds are plentiful, and good bags are not difficult to secure.

The summer climate is perfect. Singularly free from extremes, the days are never hot and the nights are always cool; while the glorious fresh air excellent food and a good appetite induced by the breath of the sea, are factors in creating a happy frame of mind and a comfortable bodily state.

The Island has 274 miles of railway owned and operated by the Canadian Government under the name of Prince Edward Island Railway. The highways have a reputation for general excellence and a driving tour of the island is one of the most pleasant experiences and an enjoyable means of thoroughly appreciating its many attractions.

Accommodation for summer visitors is provided by numerous hotels, bungalows, private homes and farm houses at surprisingly reasonable rates. The hospitality of the Islanders is proverbial. There is an absence of conventionalities and the perfectly natural life that may be led is not the least of the charms of the Garden of the Gulf. Assuredly the Island is an ideal spot for a summer sojourn.

Browning Accidents

Max Perry of Tignish and Max Provost of Norway were drowned last Wednesday while overhauling their herring nets in about twelve feet of water in front of Joseph McInnis' factory, Sea Cow Pond, where both were employed. It seems that both men were taking the fish out of the nets and putting same in the dory. They had already made one load to the shore and were preparing to leave with another load when it is surmised the dory being overloaded capsized, throwing both occupants into the water and they being unable to swim sank to the bottom never to rise again. Just as the dory was seen to sink several boats fishing in the neighborhood hurried to the scene of the accident but too late to be of any help to the unfortunate men. After much grappling both bodies were found and taken to the shore. After working over both for several hours it was evident that life was already extinct. Both men were well known fishermen. Provost was eighteen years old, unmarried and was a son of Max Provost also a longshoreman. Max Perry was forty years old and leaves a widow. He was the son of Peter S. Perry a well known farmer on the outskirts of Tignish, R. I. P.

They landed on the shore a short distance from McNevin's farm about midnight and all started to walk home Mrs McNevin and children slightly in advance of Mr McNevin. After walking some distance, Mrs McNevin observing that he had not overtaken them went back to look for him but he was nowhere to be seen. Further search was made during the night in which the neighbors
