IN SOCIETY

Miss Mary McIntosh of Guelph is a guest with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beattie.

Miss Mary Wilson left this morning for an extended holiday at her home, Chatsworth, Ont.

Miss Edna Woods and Miss Alma McKay of London spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. McFadden, Thornedale.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mary A. Barons to Rev. W. G. Colgrove, M.A., B.D., the marriage to take place in June.

Miss Alice Brown has returned home after an enjoyable visit of some weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pratt, Kitchener.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wright announce the engagement of their daughter, Vera Madeline, to Mr. Charles Ashby of Montreal, the wedding to take place about the middle of June.

At the close of the St. Joseph's nurses' graduation exercises held on Wednesday night of this week, a small dance will be held in St. Peter's Hall in honor of the graduating class.

The engagement is announced of Cora Mildred, youngest daughter of Mr. Chas. Capes and the late Mrs. Capes of Brantford, Ont., to Mr. Everett E. Fisher of Casper, Wyoming, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Fisher of Glidden, Iowa, the marriage to take place quietly on June 9.

Mrs. Purdon Love was the hostess of a charming little tea held on Saturday afternoon at "Loveholme," Springfield, in honor of Miss Winifred Dance, a bride of this week. Tea was served on the lawn, the table being prettily decked with pansies, while forget-me-nots were used effectively on the pretty basket containing a lovely assortment of "baskets," which were presented to the guest of honor during the afternoon.

Among the golfers who will attend the big Ontario championship tournament to be held on the local links next week are: Mrs. Leonard Murray of Toronto, president of the Canadian Golf Union, who will be a guest with Col. and Mrs. Lyne-Evans; Miss Millicent, Miss Gean and Miss Guernsey of Toronto, who will be with Mrs. Read, 236 Horton street; Mrs. H. E. Smith of Oakham, with Gen. and Mrs. H. A. Paine; Miss Margaret Milne of Sarnia, with Mr. and Mrs. Allen McLean; Miss Edith Brown, of Ottawa and Miss Margaret Pindley of Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ingram; Mrs. J. A. Goodale and Mrs. J. G. Moorhouse of Toronto with Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Robinson, Ontario Hospital; Miss N. Defoe and Mrs. C. A. Neville of Toronto, with Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Williams; Mrs. H. Cooper and Mrs. J. K. Scott of Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higgins; Mrs. George Watt and Mrs. Frank Leaming of Brantford, with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith; Mrs. Stikeman of Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sperry; Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. John Lisle of Toronto, with Miss Helen Gibbons; Mrs. Jack Counsell of Hamilton, with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harris, and the following not yet placed: Mrs. F. Hamill and Mrs. W. Radcliffe of the Mississauga Golf Club; Miss Dorothy Thompson of Brantford; Miss Wickson of Paris; Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Hopkirk of Toronto; Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Hay of Sarnia; Mrs. Macpherson of Paris, and Mrs. E. E. Henderson of Toronto. Word has not yet been received from the Lambton and Rosedale Clubs, as well as several other golf clubs of the province, and it is expected that as many as sixty out-of-town women will enter.

There are also several other Londoners who have promised accommodation for these guests.

ROSE-CLIPPERTON.
A quiet wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at the manse, 13 Hyatt avenue, this city. The contracting parties were Richard T. Rose, of Glanworth and Miss Jean Clipperton, formerly of Nissouri Township. Rev. Dr. McTear performed the ceremony. They will reside in Yarmouth.

GRAHAM-McLEAN.
A very pretty but quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy MacLean, Rosbeck, on Wednesday May 26, at 2 p.m., when their eldest daughter, Dorothy Jane, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard D. Graham of Ottawa. The Rev. W. A. Morrison performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was prettily attired in a suit of navy blue, trimmed with steel beads and sequins, navy mohair hat trimmed with grey, grey suede shoes, and grey squirrel crozier, wearing a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

The officers appointed for coming year are: President, Mrs. E. DeGex; vice-president, Mrs. H. Kerr; secretary, Mrs. M. B. Barnes; directors, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Mrs. F. Cook and Mrs. Callahan; district director, Mrs. John Johnson; organizer, Miss Reta Freer; reporter of current events, Mrs. Wm. Johnson; auditors, Mrs. Frank Hull and Mrs. Robt. Galbraith.

An excellent paper was given at this year's meeting of the Kerwood Woman's Institute, which was held recently at the home of Mrs. Geo. Fryer. A resume of the year's work showed a membership of active workers and a live society. Many excellent papers and talks were given.

A mission house and a collection of $17.30 has been held in aid of the Stratford Hospital. The members assisted at the Children's School Fair. Over $40 has been added to the institution bank account.

meeting by Mrs. N. Eastbrook on "What Makes a Successful Institute." "The institute is a great sisterhood broadening our outlook, enriching our lives," she said. "And so making our influence felt in the home, which is the heart of the nation."

Several piano selections by Mrs. W. G. Conkey completed the program. The delegates appointed to the district meeting were: Miss Geo. Freer, and Mrs. Beattie.

PETERBORO W. C. T. U.
The Peterboro branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union met in the room of the Y. W. C. A. recently, for the annual election of officers. Mrs. A. E. Micks was appointed president for the coming year.

Mrs. C. H. Shields, first vice-president; Mrs. A. A. Goodfellow, second vice-president; Mrs. Lewis, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Roe, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. A. Throop, treasurer. Appointments to the various committees which carry on missionary and local charitable work were also made at this meeting.

ALFORD PARK W. I.
The May meeting of the Alford Park and Governor's Road Women's Institute was recently held at the home of Mrs. James Gilen, with about 35 in attendance. After the usual opening exercises considerable business was transacted. Then the chair was taken by the vice-president, Mrs. Charlotte and the new officers for the coming year were voted in. The former president and secretary were re-elected. The members were then favored with a pleasing solo by Miss L. Huff, after which a refreshment was served by the hostess and conveners in charge.

Since last meeting the institute held a social evening in the form of a progressive euchre party at the home of Mrs. R. Kilgour. The sum of $1.50 was realized, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XCVIII—WHO PAWNED THE RING?

Someone was in trouble—what was the good of all his money if he couldn't do a kindness occasionally? Suddenly he remembered the twenty-five hundred dollars he had left in Maine. How careless he had been, to leave it lying in the old bureau! And the will he had made out in Betty Gordon's favor! He gave a very little smile as he thought of that. He had recovered—Betty wasn't going to benefit—he was no good at all to anyone—he couldn't even die!

He would drop a line to Mrs. MacTurk about the money, anyhow, the would let her keep a large portion of it—she was none too well off, and needed it. Only she was proud—he would have to word his letter diplomatically. Life was really very curious, every one needing something, that they couldn't get—Mrs. MacTurk and money. What was it he himself so badly wanted? Love? Ah, no! he mustn't dwell on that—it was an old story that was finished with and done!

His thoughts returned to the ticket in his hand. What on earth was he to do with it? He couldn't very well proclaim his discovery throughout the house—he would be treating on someone's corns, offending someone. No one wanted to have it blazoned round that they had pawned a ring!

And yet he couldn't leave it lying on the floor, to be swept away and lost—or picked up by some inquisitive servant—or even stolen.

He was in a dilemma. Suddenly it occurred to him that there was a chance for the exercise of real philanthropy.

"I wouldn't miss two hundred and fifty dollars," Miss Crowell was going to town at once, every business or other—I could get her to redeem the ring—I could find out gradually who was its rightful owner."

So ran Trevor's thoughts. "The ticket couldn't be quite delicately, so that no one's feelings might be hurt," he told himself, flushed with anticipation. After all, he hadn't any one on whom to spend his money—and he couldn't even die! Those fools of doctors wouldn't let him!

Miss Crowell, entering the library, found her patient eagerly awaiting her. "You're going up to town, aren't you?" Miss Crowell asked. "I want you to do one or two little things for me, please."

The nurse flung a keen look at Trevor. "I do believe you're feverish," she said severely. "I've a good mind not to go at all."

Her face relaxed into a smile when she saw the disappointed look on the young man's face. "I want you to go to the bank for me—I'll send a note with you—and cash a check—and then—"

"You aren't very complimentary—wanting to get rid of me so soon!" she laughed.

"It isn't that, of course you're coming back here at once! Just want you to go to the bank for me—I'll send a note with you—and cash a check—and then—"

"Well?" The nurse was looking amused. "Do go on—I'm getting interested."

Trevor turned, and lowering his voice confidentially, said: "You see this ticket, Miss Crowell? Well, I don't suppose you know what it is? It's a pawn-ticket—worth two hundred and fifty dollars."

The officers elected for the coming year are: President, Miss Harris; vice-presidents, Mrs. Fred White, Mrs. Niven, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Travers; corresponding secretary, Miss Macdonald; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. Gerald Pearson; treasurer, Mrs. F. E. Harper; and visiting nurses, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Hart and Miss King, with Miss Gage as relief nurse.

At the close of the meeting Miss Harris entertained the members at tea.

When you want your entertainment to be successful you must let the people know where it is going to be held, and what entertainment you intend to provide. $1.50 is the cheapest rate for an advertisement under the heading of "Amusements."

Beautiful every day. There was a special place for him to sit in the big motor car, and there was hardly a day passed that Wiggles wasn't taken motoring.

"My what a handsome dog!" exclaimed a man, stepping up to the side of the car, as it was standing in front of a store one day. Wiggles had been taught not to make friends with strangers, but he knew that this was big money, and he allowed the stranger to pat his head.

"You must have paid a great deal for that dog?" the stranger said to Wiggles' new master as that gentleman came out of the store. It seemed they were old friends.

"Indeed I didn't," replied Wiggles' master, and then he told him he had bought Wiggles.

"He's a splendid specimen, one of the best I have seen," declared the man, who knew a good deal about dogs. "You should send him to the shows."

So from that conversation the great adventure began. Wiggles was to go to the next show. What excitement there was then. Everyone in the house, from the chauffeur to the housemaid, to say nothing of each and every individual of his master's family had something to do with getting Wiggles ready for the show. He was brushed and groomed, new collar and a blanket, with his name on it in gold letters, were bought for him, and everyone was quite sure that he would do well in the show. Even Wiggles thought he would do well, for he could remember that his mother had said he would be a great show dog, someday, and he felt very sad when he thought that his mother would have been a great show dog if bad Pedro, the monkey, hadn't bitten off the end of her tail. How lucky Wiggles was that Pedro hadn't done the same thing to him.

The night before the show Wiggles could hardly wait, so great was his excitement. What would happen the next day? He kept asking himself. Would he win a prize or would he be taken from the show without even a ribbon?

hundred and fifty dollars. I want you to cash a check for $250—or more, if you like—go to this place, and redeem the ring. See?"

Miss Crowell looked surprised. "It'll be rather a delicate sort of thing to do—but I'm sure you'll handle the situation with kid gloves! I know it isn't a particularly savory errand, but I know the place, and it's quite high-class, as these resorts of the needy go." He smiled in an amused way.

Miss Crowell gave an answering smile. She took the ticket from Trevor's hand.

"I'm to return this, along with two hundred and fifty dollars, is that it?" she asked. And the man-in-charge will give me a ring?"

Trevor nodded. "There's something more I'd like you to do," he said. "I want you to find out—very diplomatically—who pawned the ring."

"But, isn't that rather unusual?" The nurse seemed taken aback. "They'll think I've stolen the ticket, or something."

"Oh, no, they won't," said Trevor cheerfully. "Mention my name—the head of the place knows me—he's a bookmaker once, and I've often lost cash through him, and I sent you to redeem that ring for the man or woman who pawned it—that's strictly true!"

"And I'm to find out delicately who the needy person was?" Miss Crowell eyed her patient shrewdly. "How kind and generous this man was—infinite too good for April Moore, or anyone of that type."

Trevor nodded. And the nurse went off to town for the afternoon. Her patient was in bed when she returned at night. She went straight to his room, a little packet in her hands.

"Here's the ring," she said. "I had no difficulty in redeeming it when I mentioned your name—the 'man-in-charge' asking quite tenderly after you! He even told me the name of the man who had pawned it—a Mr. Charlie Davon."

Trevor did not look surprised, only rather disappointed. He had no wish to benefit that fool Davon.

But his whole face changed when he saw the packet opened. He looked at it with the exquisite pearl cluster he had given Betty Gordon.

"You say that a man called Davon pawned this ring?" There was a fierceness in the question.

The nurse nodded. "That was the name," she said. "He told the pawnbroker that a young lady had presented it to him, and that he valued it very highly."

But Trevor's face had gone an ashen grey. This news was very hard to bear—Betty had given his ring—the symbol of his love—to such a cad as Charlie Davon!
