The Times does not mention the premier by name, and the article, in fact, is to some extent vague, but it mentions the heavy burden of debt his £90,000 book of memoirs for Sir William Berry, the eminent publisher, of which amount Lloyd George is to receive £80,000.

"As he has not made Germany pay, mentions the neavy burden of debt this country is carrying and Viscount Grey's aspiration for a homogenous government by men who really believe in what they are doing. ECONOMY BY KING SAVES HIM $50,000

British Ruler Curtails Unnecessary Expenses in Household.

LONDON, Aug. 21 .- As the result of strenuous wielding of the economic axe in the household of King George an annual saving of something like £10,000 is being made. The king, inspired by his subjects' efforts to some months ago ordered a special investigation, and a treasury expert was lent for the purpose. With his majesty directing the whole royal household was overhauled, including Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and other royal residences. Completion of the task now, with a aving reported, is pleasing to the king, whose financial resources are aid to be overestimated by the pub-

Household administrations will not impaired, nor functions cut out, out all will be less elaborate. The noney granted by the House of mmons annually for maintenance of the crown and its household remains as it was, less than £500,000 in 1914, and the king has resolutely eclined to apply for an increase in pite of the general rise in the cost of living and supporting staffs. That means that King George has had to draw considerably upon his private resources during the last eight years.

Last year his majesty retrenched personal expenses. He cut down nis racing stud, curtailed his stables and put the yacht Britannia into dry The last named act had an effect that was not calculated, for in his year's show at Cowes many other owners withdrew their big yachts and the king felt that an unfortunate blow had been suffered by the sport. He has now decided, with the better financial position as the result of other economies, to hoist the Britannia's pennant again next He also plans soon to bring his stud horses up to the same standard as prevailed in the time of King
