The New Archdeacons. Referring to the recent appointment of Archdeacons, the "Canadian Churchman," of Toronto, has the following:-The Bishop of Huron took occasion to announce at the executive committee meeting his intention to appoint four Archdeacons, viz., Revis. Dr. Young, Canon Richardson, D. Williams and Canon Hill. All four names were received with hearty applause, and the appointments will give entire satisfaction. Dr. Young is finance minister of he Synod, and in all the larger affairs of the church exerts a strong influence. Canon Richardson and Canon Hill are he Bishop's examining chaplains, and the former is clerical secretary of Synod, and the latter a rural dean, so that both have been in close touch with the administrative work of the Church. D. Williams was on the staff of Huron College seven years, and heads the poll every year—an able and tireless worker. All four men are scholarly and courteous gentlemen, and will adorn their new offices. The appointment of the new Archdeacons will probably vacate some of the honorary appointments. As the Bishop has described the new Archdeacons as 'working Archdeacons," he will probably give them plenty of work to do in their new offices and give their old offices
