New Cure for Consumption.

Terence Conolly of New Jersey, who has just ceased fasting, after an absence of forty-three days, leaves Tanager and Grison away in the distance. Tanager's mouth fairly watered in anticipation of the watermelon which awaited the completion of his task, and Grison had a dainty meal all ready when the clock struck 12 on the last day of the fast. Conolly didn't want to stop at all, or rather he wanted to keep on stopping. He had to be urged to swallow a little beef tea, so perfectly contented was he in the midst of his refraining from anything solid. He preferred fasting to feasting. But then he had an altogether different opinion in view. Tanager and Grison aimed for money and notoriety, while Terence aimed to cure consumption. He intended to demonstrate to humanity at large that cold water and starvation would stop a deadly cough more effectively than cod liver oil or rock and rye. If his example is good for anything, a reform in the treatment of consumptives will be immediately instituted. It will not be necessary to go to Florida or Colorado any longer. A first-class pump and a vacant stomach will be all that is required.

Billionaire Labouchere.
Mr. Henry Labouchere, in a recent number of Truth, says the following tribute to Canada:
"Canada is one of the most over-rated and makes the loyally pay. Its astute inhabitants know well how to take John Bull's susceptibilities. I have seen nothing finer in the way of advertising than poor Lord Lorne's 'tour' now in progress. He has gone to the north, but just at the right time, and the glowing accounts we are receiving from the 'specials' who accompany him are admirably adapted to create a false belief that the true land of promise is to be found there at last. With such skill to tell, and among such queen worshippers as the distressed British farmer would be in bliss. Of course, those who choose can be one of the province in the whole Dominion—that of Ontario. It is the only province, as a shrewd landowner and one with any hope of ever seeing your own poor, and it is crushed with debt. The supreme government owes about £25,000,000 to this country, and about £25,000,000 to the United States. The provinces are together, and every province has its separate debt, as has almost every collection of shanties calling itself a 'city.'"

A Romantic Girl's Experiences.
A few weeks ago, says the Midtown Press, a young lady aged 18 years, with brown hair and hazel eyes, who does not live many miles from Middletown, and who had been reading the story of the message written on an egg, conceived the idea of doing something similar. She is the daughter of a farmer, but as the product of eggs was not very large and the home demand was brisk, she could not get her message to market in that way. An opportunity offered itself one day about two weeks since. She overheard her father say that he must pick a part of his early apples and get them to Middletown, as there were more than the family needed. The apples were then in the picking, and were laid in the wagon-house over night, in indelible ink, on a little piece of muslin, in indelible ink, her name (a fictitious one), her address, and the two words, "Write me." She then rolled it up in a very small roll, and put it in the roll, and closed it up, and then put the apple in with the lot for market. In about a week she heard from her message, and was evidently from some tramp man, and was evidently from a vagabond, who had perhaps stolen the message, and was spelled wrongly, and the story of the letter was coarse. The young lady never replied to it, and it is safe to say that she will not make any more experiments in that direction.
