London, Eng., July 26 .- The death of Captain Webb has created much regret in England, particularly at Trowbridge, Shropshire, where his family reside and where he has two brothers, one a physician and the other a farmer. To the farmer, Capt. Webb said before his departure, that he intended to do "a big thing" in America, where he found more enthusiasm about athletic matters than at home. His English relations knowing his reckless daring, attempted to dissuade him, fearing some disaster, although he did not inform them what feat he intended to attempt.

The Times says concerning the death of Capt. Webb: "It is impossible not to admire Webb's daring, but the wasting of a valuable life is to be regretted." The News blames the death upon the men who tempted him to the teat and upon the authorities who permitted the attempt, saying that he macrificed his life for an American holides." The Telegraph says: "The mother commercy had good reason to be proud of Webb, but deeply mourns what can only be regarded as a toolish sacrifice."

Capt. Webb was a native of Colebrook date, Shropshire, Eugland, where he was born 35 years ago. His father was a phy-sician. In early life he shipped on a coaster, and after becoming an able sea-men entered the merchant service, making several trips between New York and Liver-pool as chief mate of a packet. He subsequently became master of a vessel, and it is related of him that his sailors could never be induced to take a second voyage with him, because of his recklessness and absodute want of anything akin to fear. His esrliest swimming feat to attract attention was the saving of the life of one of his brothers. He was first brought to public notice in April, 1872. He was at that time a passenger on the Cunard steamer Russia, from L'verpool to New York. A serman named Wood fell overboaid and Capt. Webb sprang from the vessel to his rescue. The sailor was drowned. Capt. Webb was in the water 35 minutes before the vessel was turned back after him, and he was picked up some minutes later not at all exhaust-Liverpool and Royal Humane Life-saving societies. The first gold medal awarded by the latter society was presented to him, the duke of Edinburgh making the presentation speech. He made his first public appearance as a professional swimmer in July, 1875. Oa the 3rd of that month he swam a distance of 20 miles in the Thames river in 4 hours and 53 minutes. On July 20 of the same year he swam from Dover to Ramsgate, a distance of 20 miles, in 8 hours and 45 A hours and 53 minutes. The course was three quarters of a mile rowed over twice. The race was called at 4 p.m. and rowed at 5. Herman Michels, of the Cslumbia boat crew, was chosen referee. The judges were: Hanlan, Curry C. Chase, Syracuse; Lee, E. W. Mitchell, Elmira; Hosmer, Harry Silverton, Boston. The positions were, Lee first, Hosmer second, and Hanlan third. There was very little betting, it being conceded that Hanlan was a sure winner. A few even bets were made on the result between Hosmer and Lee. The coarsemen started at fifty-six seconds past five. All took water together, Hanlan and Lee pulling 34 and Hosmer 36 strokes. The wretched press accommodations made it impossible to keep an accurate account of the race. The trio kept even for the first half mile, Hanlan then drew ahead with Hormer a trifle ahead of Lee. After due examination she had decided that neither of the nice fellows should go out of the family.

Here is an illustration of a much less skilful attempt at match-making with a very different denoument. A certain member of parliament, who owned extensive stables, was spending a few days at the residence of a noble family. There were several interesting and accomplished young ladies in the family, to whom the honorable member showed every attention. Just as he was about to leave the nobleman's wife proceeded to consult him upon a matter which, she declared, was causing her no little distress. "It is reported," said the countess, "that you are to marry my daugnter Lucy, and what shall we do? What shall we say about it?" "Oh," replied the considerate M.P., with much adroitness, "just say she refused me?"

HOW THE COMPANIES MAKE

The Story of a Descrice—Hanager Dwight Again Heard From—The American Rapid Again Working,

There has been no change in the position of the telegraph companies since yester-day's issue. Both sides declare themselves certain of success. The state of affairs in the American cities, especially at Washington, is daily growing more serious. Suits are being instituted against the companies and a crisis must inevitably be near at hand. In this city the Western Union has not been making much headway in getting recruits making much headway in getting recruits for its service, while some are daily deserting and going over to the strikers.

Mr. Dwight on being interviewed by a reporter yesterday afternoon said that he expected to open the city branches soon, and that the reports from abroad were very favorable. Business, he said, was resuming its normal condition all over the United States. Mr. Dwight said the cable business was never transacted with more regularity than at present. The reporter was invited into the operating room and counted 35 apparently busy at work.

Several strikers in the knights of labor have taken a thousand dollars' worth of tickets. Three thousand dollars' worth have been sold. thousand dollars' worth have been sold. The knights have levied an assessment of a dollar a week each to sustain the operators. The superintendent of the W-stern Union reports that commercial business in this office is as large as before the strike.

It was hoped the bridge would resist the tremendous pressure, but it fell with a crash this forenoon. The bridge of the Grand Rapids, Indiana and Chicago followed. Millions of feet of logs have gone down, sweeping all before them. It is feared the losses will reach many hundred thousand dollars.

"That's a Bad Gash." Macon, Ga., July 26 -The murder Samuel Clifton by Sampson Cason at the County Line church, near Macon, Ga., on Sunday, was a most brutal affair. In 1881 Sunday, was a most brutal affair. In 1881 Clifton whipped Cason, and a feul has since existed. On Sunday Cason stabbed Clifton near a spring. The wound laid open the breast, exposing a mangled heart. Cason exclaiming, "tabat's a bad gash!" mounted his horse and fied.

BAD FOR MONTREAL. It looks bad for Montreal that the pres

The Gazette, Herald and Star are all out on the monopoly side, and all sport the Jay Gould collar, or shall we call it the Dun & Wiman collar, with such grace as the situation admits of. The Witness, mirabile dictu, comes out telegraph monopoly be crushed out by the strong hand of the national government, which is the real sound, patriotic, and popular view of the question. The Force Said to be Completely Demor alized — Treated Like Dogs — Loose Morals. report the Mounted Police force to be in complete state of demoralization. The men are loudly complaining of the tyranny of the officers, commissioned and non-commissioned. In fact, one of the sergeants was recently reduced to the ranks for his abusive conduct to the men. A discharged trooper passed through the city last week, and he told The World that the men were treated like dogs; that the food served out is unfit for use, and that nothing short of of an official investigation will remedy the existing state of affairs. The men are restated to the consequent with vermin and their existing state of affairs. The men are reported to be covered with vermin, and their quarters are in a fifthy state.

As an evidence of the loose morals that prevails we cull the following from the Regina Leader of July 19: It is time the commissioner of the mounted police was opening his eyes to the fact that a non-commissioned officer is living in open adultery with a half-breed woman on the mounted police reserve. This non-commissioned officer has been keeping this woman for nearly five years—or, as rumor missioned officer has been keeping this woman for nearly five years—or, as rumor
