

The Toronto school of medicine examinations began yesterday.

Mark H. Irish has been confined to his house for a week past with illness. He is now nearly recovered.

Only three performances remain to be given of the Silver King. There was another big house last night.

The police commissioners have given their consent to the proposed site for the Grand opera house on March 31 between the Buffalo and Toronto forces.

In Fenton against Litzler in the county court yesterday the jury returned a verdict for $70 in favor of plaintiff. This was an action to recover $102 as agents' commission.

A World reporter asked E. King Dodd last night how was the Scott act had carried by such a large majority in Oxford. He said he could not say; he took no part in the campaign.

Charles Street Presbyterian church was formally reopened last night. Among the speakers were Mr. Blake, Rev. Mr. Rose of Manchester, Eng., Rev. Mr. Harris of the Baptist church and Rev. Mr. Johnson of the Metropolitan. An excellent concert was given in connection with the ceremony.

Septimus Campbell, the coppermith arrested in Riverside Wednesday night on a charge of making an illicit worm and still which were used by the Anacostia crowd, pleaded guilty to the charges in the police court yesterday. He was fined $100 and two months imprisonment in each case, the sentences to run concurrently.

Ladies call and see the beautiful black silk hose at Farley's for 81-25.

York Civil Assistants. Margaret Niles against A. Scott was concluded before Chief Justice Hagarty yesterday. The jury returned a verdict that defendant obtained the deed fraudulently and awarding full costs to plaintiff.

The bank of Montreal v. Wood and the bank of Montreal v. McLaughlin were tried out, as there were no pleadings. Carter v. Reanne was an action to recover $644 for work done in perfecting a ditching machine. Plaintiff was inventor living at Aymer, Ont. The defendant engaged Mr. Carter to work on the machine on a salary of $60 per week, and promised him $4 a week additional for the time he had worked, if the machine became a financial success. The contention of the defendant is that the machine never became a financial success, and that the plaintiff is therefore not entitled to the money. Verdict for plaintiff of $200 with full costs. Wilkinson against Fleming was an action on a promissory note. Defendant put in a counter claim, which was struck out. Verdict for plaintiff for $204.75.

Very wide white embroidery worth 65 cents for 25 cents at Farley's.

The Legislature. Yesterday the greater part of the time of the assembly was spent in passing estimates and bills through committee. Mr. Carnegie at a late hour last night treated the house to a long disquisition on the Agricultural college in which he stated some plain truths in a tiresome way. Mr. Ross' university bill lost one clause and gained another in committee. The expanded clause was adopted by a majority of voting representatives in the senate. It was feared that the effect would be to injure the university by narrowing the graduate constituency. The added clause gives the senate power to grant the degree of L.D., as an honorary one.

Police Court Posters. After the drunks had been disposed of Thomas Cunningham was fined $75 and costs for three months for assaulting a constable. Michael Trainor was fined $5 and costs for assaulting Wm. Lee on Front street. Wm. Carr and John Forsyth were found guilty of burglarizing the premises of Croft & Co. Colborne street. They were remanded for sentence. Three little girls accused of stealing wood from the Grand trunk were let go with a warning. Septimus Campbell, coppermith, pleaded guilty to making a whisky still and offering it for sale. He was fined $100 and costs or two months on each count the terms to run concurrently.

If you want lace curtains or lambrequins go to Farley's.

Copenhagen Joe. Wm. Waters, alias Rogers, alias Copenhagen Joe, was arrested yesterday afternoon at half-past four as a vagrant under the general vagrancy act. Joe has no visible or invisible means of support for his support, but yet somehow manages to make a good living. He will explain how he does it to the magistrate this morning.

The Power of Money. The Harry F. Weed combination open in the Grand opera house next week with the brightly melodramatic comedy, The Power of Money. Charley Drew and Miss Bessie Sasson, both well known in Toronto, are with the company. The drama is highly praised and is now being presented at Rochester. Mr. Charles A. Wing, the advance agent of the company, is in the city.

A Street-Walker's Story. A street-walker with half a dozen aliases, but who has assumed the name of Nellie Kelly lately, preferred a charge of assault against Thomas Best yesterday in the police court, and against Patrick Sullivan, named Patrick Sullivan, a cab man, as an accomplice. No evidence was taken, and the magistrate intimated that Kelly's story was a very thin one. Best and Sullivan were released on bail. The woman Kelly is said to be engaged in her suit by her "man," with a view to blackmail.

An Oyster Stew. The other night Wm. O'Neil who keeps the Eastern Coffee house on King street, left a bucket of oysters at the door. On returning a few minutes after he found that some one who was fond of oysters now and then had carried them off.

Inspector Dexter at Work. Summonses have been issued against a number of hotel-keepers for selling liquor during prohibition hours. The cases will be held in the police court today.

Splendid pure linen tray cloths worth $1.50 for 60 cents at Farley's.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD.

Thirty Thousand Dollars to be Expended on Repairs and Improvements.

At the meeting of the public school board last night the sites and buildings committee recommended the expenditure of $30,000 on the repairing and improving of school property as follows:

For repairs, improvements and alterations in the several school buildings..... $9000

To increase and show by four additional rooms..... 6000

To enlarge Niagara street school by two additional rooms..... 4000

For a new building on school site at Concord avenue and Dowson street to finish three rooms, Elizabeth street school (managers flat)..... 2000

To supplement and improve existing enlarging and remodeling Victoria street school..... 3000

Total..... $30,000

The report was adopted. The printing and supplies committee was sharply criticized for taking their patronage away from James Bain & Sons and giving it to Campbell & Sons.

The distribution of prizes for the night school's students was fixed for the 31st inst.

The Great Beach Show. Entries for the great beach show to be held at the Horticultural grounds next week poured in yesterday. To-day is the last day for receiving them, a fact which intending exhibitors would do well to bear in mind. They will be received at Mr. Cassel's office, 38 King street east.

DOMINION DAIRES. The Latest and Best News Formed in Our Canadian Exchanges.

There are 40,000 cattle and 6500 horses on the ranches in the Northwest. The total majority for McColeman, M.P.P. elect in East Grey, is 582.

Counterfeit twenty-five and fifty cent pieces are circulating thickly around Kingston.

During 1883 there were 185 prisoners in Stratford jail, thirty less than the preceding year.

The papers throughout Ontario speak of the prospects for the fall wheat crop as very favorable.

A theatre is being erected at Calgary. It is said to be the handsomest building west of Winnipeg.

A four-day old baby was found dead in a well at St. Catharines on Tuesday. An inquest will be held.

Dr. Will is located at Nelson, Ont., March 17, on the Prophet Jeremiah's Visit to Old Ireland.

Conductor Baer, who was in charge of the freight train in the terrible Humber disaster, is in Winnipeg.

Midland village votes on Monday next on a bylaw to loan Peter McKay $8000 to start a woolen mill in that place.

The boy thieves recently arrested at Kingston, being too young for imprisonment, were punished by whipping.

The New Brunswick legislature has appointed a committee to formulate its claims upon the federal government for better terms.

Colonel William D. Armstrong, ex-prime minister of King Kalkaua, is in New Haven studying Connecticut history.

Miss Lillian Sheers, Belleville, an orphan, aged 40, is suing a man named Alexander of Caven township for breach of promise.

Patrick Earles stole a stove from John Larkin, Hamilton, sold it for thirty cents, and fled to the United States.

The liberal club rooms, Stratford, were damaged to the extent of $100 by a gas explosion at Weyga, ago. A grave warning to other club rooms.

A dozen valiant army soldiers in Belleville sent in their resignations this week, because they did not approve of the funds being sent to Major McGee for his services.

G. Miller, R. G. Armstrong, T. H. Hall, of Markham, and A. Russell, of Richmond Hill, started for Manitoba Wednesday, carrying three car loads of horses and implements.

J. H. Bradley, a photographer, has been summoned to $200 at the Perth assizes for photographing the relatives of Miss Horner with a microscope, eye-glass and a cigar, and hanging them in his window.

The salvation army has captured 250 recruits at St. Catharines, and the crowd at the barracks this week was so great that hundreds were turned away, but some parties are talking of firing into the army with state guns.

Kingston presbytery had an interesting trial on Tuesday. Rev. John Gallagher being accused of seducing the wife of his deceased wife's sister. A resolution will be decided whether the confession of faith is to be strictly adhered to hereafter.

An Ottawa correspondent telegraphs that it is understood the government will endeavor to prevent the sale of dynamite except on the certificate of an official authorized to grant such. Nearly every other person one meets at the capital is a government detective looking after suspicious characters.

A meeting of firemen and locomotive engineers on the Great Western division of the Grand Trunk railway has been held at Hamilton to discuss the threatened 10 per cent reduction in wages. A resolution was unanimously adopted that such could not be entertained, and the protest has been forwarded to the officials.

A Northwest report says: It seems from Governor Dewdney's report that he has established a license system for the Northwest under the name of a tax on permits to import strong drink into that region where total prohibition ruled until he died. These permits, we presume, do not entitle the holders to open whisky shops, but they give the holders a certain moral standing. The worst thing about taxing permits is that the popular mind and the official mind almost invariably regard the payment of the money as the one condition of granting them.

PROMINENT PERSONS. Princess Louise was 36 last Tuesday.

Ex-ambassador McOvlin, of Hamilton, died yesterday.

The sculptor Birch has completed the memorial statue to the Hon. Geo. Brown.

Bishop Carbery, of Hamilton, sailed from Queenstown on Wednesday for Canada.

The president called upon General Grant last evening and spent more than an hour with him. Gen. Grant is still obliged to use a crutch.

Ex-senator Roscoe Conkling has brought a suit against the Commercial manufacturing company, manufacturers of oleomargarine, to recover $10,000 for legal services performed in 1882-83.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean notes that G. S. Adams is a favorite letter for men of note—Gladstone, Gordon, Graham, Gambetta, Gorchakov, in the old world; Grant, Greeley, Garfield and Greahan in the new.

EL MAHDI ON THE HOPE.

His Proposed March to Berber-Osman Digma Still Active.

SKIRMISH, March 20.—It is now reported that Osman Digma has summoned the tribes to arrange for a renewal of warlike operations. Admiral Hewitt has withdrawn the proclamation offering a reward for Osman's head.

Osman Digma has convened a meeting at Sinkat of sheikhs of all tribes to concert for a renewal of the fighting. Sheikh Hony, chief of the Bedawins, numbering 8000 men, is threatening Shendi.

El Mahdi is organizing an artillery corps composed of Egyptian deserters. When the corps is completed he will set out on the march to Berber. He has with him twelve Berber and sixty Egyptian officers.

Osman Digma declares he will attack the British at any cost if they advance by the Berber road.

Conservatism in Cambridgehire. LONDON, March 20.—Mr. Thornhill (conservative) was elected member of parliament to-day in Cambridgehire in the year 1883.

There is no significance in the election, also, a conservative gain has been recorded. Sir Henry Brand (now Lord Hampden) was elected largely on personal grounds, his Cambridgehire is a three-corner constituency, and Sir Henry's colleagues were invariably conservative.

The county, therefore, is largely Tory and this it should be proud to indicate in a vacancy in one of its three seats is nothing surprising, and cannot be taken to indicate any growth of feeling against the government.

For England's Defence. LONDON, March 20.—In the house commons to-day the army estimates bill was passed. The amount appropriated is £4,230,000. In connection with this the Marquis of Harrington stated that the elastic terms of the service and the bounties inducing the men to prolong the period of their foreign service had attracted the past year more than 35,000 recruits.

This was the largest number ever known in one year. Regarding the naval armaments in process of construction, he said that three guns of 110 tons—the largest in the world—four of 85 four and three of 43 tons would be finished during the present year.

General Gordon's Position Critical. KHARTOUM, March 20.—General Gordon at a conference with the consul of Austria, Greece and France declared that he would be unable to defend the town against the tribes advancing from the south, north and west. He hoped Zobeir Pasha would arrive with help. In the meantime he committed the government of the town to the native notables and Sheikh Oberdullah.

Tired of Her Contract. LONDON, March 20.—At a club dinner last evening, Lord Derby remarked that last week perhaps have been better if England had never intervened in Egyptian affairs. The establishment of a sound constitution in that country by the government, and the fact that he had expected. Events had been more powerful than men.

Emancipation News. LONDON, March 20.—The News says that never since the days of Bolingbroke has England seen a great party so unscrupulous and unpatriotic as the opposition, which takes every advantage of the difficulties of the government, and has been with any cause or party which promises to embarrass the cabinet.

A Prayer for Osman. DUBLIN, March 20.—United Ireland, of which Wm. O'Brien, M.P., is editor, denounces the offering of a reward for Osman Digma's head, and says: "Ireland prays that he may escape the hands of his enemies and be spared to lead his gallant spearmen to victory."

Assemblymen on Their Menace. TRENTON, N.J., March 20.—Assemblymen Armitage and Burgess had a hot dispute in the lobby of the house this morning on the civil rights bill. Burgess finally slapped Armitage in the mouth. The men were separated. Burgess offered an apology in the house, which was at first objected to but finally accepted.

Six Firemen Buried. DUBLIN, March 20.—During the progress of a fire to-night a burning house fell and buried six firemen. One was extricated dead. The others are badly injured.

The cattle disease has broken out in Maries county, Mo.

A general strike of street car drivers is expected in Cincinnati.

Joséphine Hotel, Hot Springs, Ark., was burned last night. Loss $200,000.

Forpang's alleged white elephant arrived at New York on the City of Chester yesterday.

Erk, Pa., is greatly excited over the elopement of a young married lady with a colored laborer.

Ernest Williams, Baltimore, sued his father for $200,000 left him by his grandfather and recovered.

The new legislation proposed in the United States congress prohibits the war department from introducing liquor into the Indian reservations under any circumstances.

The house committee on foreign affairs at Washington has agreed to report favorably the bill authorizing the return to China of the residue of the Chinese indemnity fund.

The legislature of Mississippi has approved $40,000 for a state female industrial college for the free education of girls. It is the first step of the kind taken by any legislature in America.

The grand jury of Madison, Ga., has made a presentment declaring that the open and shameless cohabitation of white men with negro women "is the community crime to beaven for abatement."

THE OLD WORLD IN BRIEF. Malta is mentioned as the place of the pope's future residence.

Twenty-seven nihilists were arrested at St. Petersburg yesterday. Among them were four artillery officers.

"Clementia," said a sorrowful swain to his heart's desire, "this is the third time that your father has begged me to receive you person from those premises."

"Heed him not," said the fair one, "do not go."

"I will not," said the swain, "I will not go down the hallway."

"You need not come in, old gentleman," said the departing lover, "three removes are as good as a first."

The old world in brief. He clutched his sombrero and departed.

MR. BLAKE AND THE ORANGEMEN.

Comments from Montreal and the Orange Sentiment.

Comments from Montreal and the Orange Sentiment. That tremendous oratorical effort of Mr. Blake, which practically annihilated, root and branch, the project of Orange incorporation, and which if widely circulated will undoubtedly injure the order seriously, is still being discussed here by almost every one, and it is admitted on all sides to have been the finest oration which ever came from the lips of Edward Blake.

The most refreshing thing about the entire speech was the boldness and absolute recklessness of consequences exhibited. Knowing that 25,000 votes might be influenced in his favor by a complimentary or favorable speech, he refused in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in terms the reverse of complimentary. Although he knew that he, by his actions, was injuring himself, he let his tongue loose, and he was not influenced in any way to smother his terrific denunciation of the order and its adherents by knowing that two-thirds of his own followers were members of the Masonic body, he nevertheless referred to it as a sect, and in general, religious or otherwise, in