and empowered to build an Insane Asylum at the semi-annual meeting of April, 1894, beg to report:—

The full committee, with the exception of one, met at Bridgetown, May 2nd, 1894, to consider the building of same, and having made a close estimate of the erection of said building resolved that the work of construction be commenced as soon as satisfactory arrangements could be concluded.

The committee, with exception of councillor Clarke, met to locate a site for said building, and after due consideration, in view of question of economy, convenience, and upon the advice of the late superintendent of the Halifax Hospital for the Insane, decided upon the site adopted.

The council empowered us to construct a building and furnishing at a cost not to exceed $6,000.

We decided to commence the construction of the building by day's works and contracts, as we decided to ris construction in amounts from $8,400 to $12,000.

In looking over plans and specifications, we decided that if we accented a tender we from $8,400 to $12,000.

In looking over plans and specifications, we decided that if we accepted a tender we would still have to provide for additionals which would amount to a large sum. Furthermore, we would be at a disadvantage if we deemed changes in construction necessary after more mature consideration. Hence the method of our operation.

We made contracts for excavations and material. The labor on foundation was made by day's work and also that of the brick work, thinking this the best for the proper completion of the building and quite as economical.

We have nearly constructed a building, with general improvements, at an outlay less than the lowest tender ager received for we have hearly constructed a building, with general improvements, at an outlay less than the lowest tender ever received for same, though more than we at first supposed would be required.

We found when the building was well on towards completion, that by raising the top of the walls about 4 feet we would get an addition of twelve rooms,—these we needed

"It is a pleasure as well as a duty to speak well of remedies that have done for us all that is claimed for them. I therefore take pleasure in recommending the excellent preparations of Dr. Gates, and especially the INVIGORATING SYRUP. As a gentle laxative I regard it in every way superior to hersh and griping physics so commonly used, in that it performs the three-fold functions of a physic, an appetizer and a tonic. Joker's Carner.

The editor of a village newspaper boarded at the only hotel at the place, and on one actine only notes at the place, and on one occasion during his absence, the proprietor put a stranger to sleep in his bed. The stranger departed very early in the morning without paying his bill. On the pillow he inned a sheet of paper, on which the folng lines were written:

I slept in an editor's bed last night.
And others may say what they please;
But I know there's one editor in this world.
Who certainly takes his case.

When I thought of my humble cot, afar, I could not suppress a sigh, And I thought as I rolled in that feathery

How easily editors lie. On his return the editor was shown these ines. Aftermaking a few inquiries he wrote

The chap whose "form" has rested here,
And left his "copy" behind;
For a bad "impression" should be put down
As a "cut" of the most unkind,

His "form" he rested here all night, And left at the "break" of day; And like many who use the editor's "sheet" Has forgotten his "bill" to pay.

By Wholesale. A young lady who was in a hurry to take train and wanted to buy a small shopping bag walked into a wholesale establi "Will you show me a bag please?" she began, but the clerk interrupted her politely. "We sell nothing at retail," he said. "I could only let you have bags by the quant "No, madam. I'm very sorry."

"And I'm in such a hurry! Well!"
She turned toward the door, and her eye was caught by a sample bag on the counter. "Ah," she exclaimed, "that's exactly the bag I want! Couldn't you sell me the twelfth of a dozen?"

She got her bag.

Tit for Tat. A small New York girl, who is only seven years old, one day last week gave tit for tat in a very neat way. She was trudging to school, carrying her luncheon in a little covnine, overtook her. He must have been in rather a bad humor, for his very first remark "Say, I wouldn't carry my lunch 'n a fish sket, anyway."

The little miss turned and looked at him. He had his sandwiches and cake in a tin box "Well," she said quickly, "I wouldn't carry mine in a bait-box." And the boy had nothing to say. How a Plumber Resented a Reflection Upon His Honesty.

A plummer was sent to the house of a wealthy stockbroker to make repairs. He room, and was beginning his work, when the lady of the house entered.

"John," said she, with a suspicious glance cowards the plumber, "remove the silver from the cupboard and lock it up at once." The man of lead was in nowise discon "Tom," said he to his apprentice, who acmpanied him, "take my watch and my chain and these few coppers home to my nissus at once. There seems to be shady people about this house." A Case of Step-Love.

The girl with the level brows was talking to the man with the Roman nose. "I don't understand you," she said coldly. "I asked you if you thought my love

"No, it is impossible. You are not my "I don't want to be. Please don't inter rupt me again. I merely wanted to know "It would not. You are too old. Besides, as I said before, you are not my ideal." "Hang ideals! I want to marry your nother and be your stepfather. Now, do you understand?'

The Duke was Ahead. The Duke of Northumberland, in spite of his vast wealth, is very unaffected and simple in his life. Whenever he travels on a railway, he usually takes a third-class ticket, to the indignation of the railway officials. One day they determined to break him of this frugal habit and they filled his compart ment with chimney-sweeps carrying bags of soot. When the duke arrived at his destination, he took the sweeps to the booking office and bought them each a first-class ticket back again, and put one in each first-class carriage, sacks and all.

Horse-Dealing Extraordinary. A Yorkshire farmer, having a horse to sell t a fair, sold it to an army contractor.

Meeting him at the same fair the following year, the army buyer walked up to the rmer and said indignantly:
"The horse I bought of you was a thorough raud. It was of no use for the army."

The dealer was nowise abashed, but re-"Well, try 'im for t' navy!" Onto His Curves.
